

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

COMMUNICATIONS.

DEATH OF JUDGE PAINE.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

MADISON, January 16, 1871.

To the Honorable, the Legislature :

I deem it proper to communicate to your honorable body the sad intelligence of the death of Hon. Byron Paine, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of this State, who departed this life on the evening of the 13th instant.

The loss of such a man to the State is almost irreparable. His eminent ability and valuable services as a jurist, his stainless integrity and devotion to duty as a judge, and his unblemished private life, endeared him to the people, and will cause him to be long remembered as one of the best men of his time in the State.

The funeral will take place from his late residence in Madison, to-morrow morning, at eleven o'clock.

LUCIUS FAIRCHILD.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. Orton :

Jt. Res. No. 5, A.,

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring. that, whereàs, in the death of Hon. Byron Paine, late one of the justices' of the supreme court, our State has suffered the loss of an able jurist and an upright judge; an intelligent and patriotic citizen, and an honest man, whose example is commendable, and whose memory is worthy of respect;

Resolved, that we tender to the bereaved family and friends of the deceased, our most earnest expression of regret and sympathy, for this great affliction and public calamity;

Resolved, that a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions be signed by the clerks of the senate and assembly, and presented to the family of the deceased;

Resolved, that the legislature, out of respect to his memory, and to enable the members to attend his funeral, when they do adjourn, shall stand adjourned until to-morrow evening at 7 1 2 o'clock.

The question being on the adoption of said resolution,

Mr. Orton said :

MR. SPEAKER:—It is but a mournful and melancholy duty to speak of the virtues and services of a distinguished citizen, who has so recently withdrawn from the stage of active life, behind the dark curtains of the dead.

An affectionate husband and father, an able and upright judge, a good citizen, and an honest man. has fallen from among the living, and from his post of honorable duty. The state and society may well feel the shock. By this afflicting dispensation of Providence, I am reminded how strangely fatal has been the high place he so recently honored. In but little over 22 years, of the 12 judges of our supreme court, one full half are now numbered with the dead. Chief justices Stow and Whiton, judges Knowlton and Crawford, Smith and Paine, have gone to their account before the courts above. We may well pause and be thoughtful, upon the shore of that dark ocean, where they have disappeared, and where we must sail so soon.

The manhood and earnest and practical life work of Judge Paine have been wholly spent within our State, and become a material part of her short and eventful history. His public services, diversified and valuable, have illustrated the very noblest traits of human character.

In the halls of legislation, as an officer in the gallant army of the Union, as a lawyer at the bar, and as a judge upon the bench, he has always been faithful, capable and honest.

Always practising a prudent yet generous economy, he has lived within the legal compensations of his business and his offices, without defrauding a single individual of his rights or property, and without drawing an unearned dollar from the public treasury, and like the very noblest examples of public virtue in the history of republics, he has left the public service without the accumulation of wealth.

Permit me to refer to two distinguished instances, the one while he was at the bar, and the other while on the bench, affording most impressive and indubitable proof of his independence and honest convictions of right, under circumstances, too often, apt to sway the judgment of men not grounded like him in the principles and purposes of unswerving integrity. It is well known, that he was always an earnest and honest advocate of immediate and unconditional negro emancipation, or, in other words, an abolitionist, and at a time, too, when it exposed him to political proscription, if not personal reproach, and long before the time when its hypocritical profession was speedily compensated with the emoluments of office. In 1854 he appeared before the Supreme Court, then composed of three Judges, since gone to their reward, in the case of the rescue of the fugitive slave Glover at Milwaukee, and made one of the clearest, most conclusive and most eloquent arguments against the constitutionality of the fugitive slave law, made in any court in the country, and his services in that case were voluntary and without compensation. I well remember, that in that effort he won the admiration of even those prejudiced and opposed to his positions, for his philanthropy, manliness and great ability.

Again, in 1863, during the fiercest excitements of the war, and while the public sentiment of the North seemed favorable to almost any concessions of the legal and constitutional rights of the State or the people, to strengthen the arm of the National Executive in its struggle with the rebellion, and when the least seeming of opposition to any possible measures of the administration was violently assailed as disloyalty and treason, when martial law was declared, and the writ of habeas corpus suspended throughout the Union, by the proclamation of the President, Judge Paine, with the concurrence of Judges Dixon and Cole, with the fearlessness of a just and impartial Judge, unswerved by prejudice and unaffected by political excitement, pronounced one of the clearest and ablest opinions of his judicial career, denouncing the doctrine that martial law could prevail, or the writ of habeas corpus be suspended anywhere in this country where the rebellion did not exist, and boldly discharged prisoners held in a military camp and under a military warrant.

These two trials of the very highest qualities of the man and the judge are sufficient, and speak volumes in his praise. In all his judicial investigations he was clear, logical and discriminating—averse to following precedents blindly, and only convinced by reason—naturally leaning towards the humanities and equities of the law, without regard to mere forms and technicalities. While he was living our supreme bench presented a combination of talent—legal learning, experience and judicial purity—now borne alone by his surviving associates—at least equal to the best, and superior to most of the Supreme Courts of the States; and we shall, indeed, be most fortunate if his vacant place can be filled by one possessing equal qualifications and fitness.

In our official and personal relations, let us honor his memory, and renew our obligations of private and public duty, and be true to every trust, in imitation of his example. And while one and another of our fellow men fall from our midst by the hand of death, let us be reminded that our places, also, will soon be left vacant in the public employments and private circles of life, and we too be consigned to the darkness of the tomb.

Said resolution was then adopted.

Mr. Hall moved that Mr. Orton be requested to furnish a copy of his remarks upon the death of Judge Paine, that the same be spread upon the journal, and that 1,000 extra copies of the journal be printed for the use of the Legislature,

Which motion prevailed.

By Mr. Pease:

Res. No. 7, A.,

Resolved, That the several subjects referred to and embraced in the Governor's message, be referred to the following committees, to-wit:

That portion of the message referring to the finances of the state to the standing committee on State Affairs.

That portion referring to the school and university lands, and that portion relating to educational matters, to the committee on Education.

That portion relating to the constitutional amendment, abolishing the grand jury, and that portion relating to a revision of the statutes, to the Judiciary committee.

That portion relating to charitable, benevolent and penal institutions, to the committee by that name.

That portion referring to the Fox and Wisconsin river improvement, to a special committee of three.

That portion relating to postal telegraph, soldiers' cemeteries and national affairs, to the committee on Federal Relations.

Of W. W. Tredway for pay for services as state agent for Wisconsin war claims.

To committee on State Affairs, and

On motion of Mr. Field,

Ordered spread on the journal.

To the Honorable, the Legislature of Wisconsin :

In the month of October, 1865, the Hon. Lucius Fairchild, at that time secretary of state, requested me to undertake the work of elucidating, and preparing answers to meet objections raised at the United States treasury, against the allowance of a mass of accounts for war expenditures, made by the state of Wisconsin, for which she sought re-imbursement, under the act of Congress approved July 27, 1861. General Fairchild remarked at the time, that a gentleman of Washington city, had offered to take the agency for collecting or obtaining the allowance of the claims, at a commission of seven per cent., at the same time expressing his unwillingness to agree to the proposed terms; adding that I was the only man in the state capable of performing the work, and urged me to undertake it. The subject of my compensation was not even alluded to. The aggregate amount of these disallowed accounts was very nearly $38,000, and were found intermingled among more than fifty-five hundred war vouchers, besides the pay-rolls of thirteen regiments, and the pay-accounts of more than five hundred commissioned officers. These rejections and suspensions were made upon allegations of erroneous computations, indefiniteness of object, defective evidence of payment, excessive rates and prices, non-muster into the United States service, &c., while whole classes of accounts, amounting in the aggregate to more than $150,000 were rejected as having been incurred and paid in derogation of army regulations, and without the sanction of law.

For the purpose of saving the state this considerable sum, or so much as was practicable, I consented to take the matter in hand, dropped my private business then demanding my attention, and at a personal sacrifice, commenced the work, the difficulties of which were enhanced by reason of the long time that had elapsed since the accounts had accrued and been paid by the state. The act of Congress providing for the re-imbursement of states, was passed in July, 1861, and although more than 90 per cent. of the entire amount of Wisconsin war claims had been presented at the United States treasury for allowance, prior to October, 1862, nothing effective had been done towards removing the objections raised against their allowance, during the three intervening years, up to the time the matter was placed in my hands.

The work has been laborious, and in many cases exceedingly difficult and perplexing, requiring careful and diligent research among the archives of the state, of the war period, and the United States muster rolls; an acquaintance with the laws of Congress and the army regulations, bearing upon the matters under consideration, as well as a knowledge of the rules prescribed by the secretary of the treasury, under the act above referred to; the rulings of the third auditor and the second comptroller of the treasury in reference to war claims; the preparation and procurement of execution, by correspondence by mail and otherwise; of numerous certificates and affidavits of facts in support of answers to objections raised at the treasury, and the preparation of my own notes of elucidation, over my own signature in each case. In addition to this numerous, elaborate statements of facts and circumstances bearing upon large classes of rejected accounts, have necessarily been made in my correspondence with the war, and treasury departments, copies of which have in most cases been retained.

I began the work November 1, 1865. A clerk was assigned for my assistance, but the nature of the work was such, that he could render me no valuable aid. My own personal recollection of facts and circumstances, as well as my familiarity with many of the documents bearing upon these matters, and the necessity of expressing my notes of elucidation, in my own language, rendered it expedient for me to do the work, and decline his assistance. The work was accomplished for the time at the end of fifty days of continuous hard work, of fully eight hours each, and after being copied in the office of the secretary of state, was sent to the third auditor's office at Washington, and resulted in the allowance of previously rejected accounts amounting to $181,487 24. I would here remark that W. H. Watson, Esq., formerly private secretary to the governor, but at that time a resident of Washington city, added to my explanatory notes, some confirmatory comments, together with a very able general argument in favor of the allowance of these claims, but not having access to documentary matter, few if any new facts were given, while facts were precisely what was wanted, from which the accounting officers of the treasury might draw their own conclusions. With this exception, all that has been done towards obtaining the allowance of these claims, has been done by myself. Upon information that the clerk whose proffered assistance I had declined, was being paid at the rate of $100 per month, which I believe was the lowest grade of pay in the secretary's office, I made out an account at the same rate, for "services as a clerk in the office of the secretary of state," for $167, which was paid accordingly, January 2, 1866, expressly reserving my further claims, for the payment of which there was no existing appropriation, for adjustment by the legislature.

The announcement of this allowance of $131,437.24 to the credit of the state, was followed by a set of difference sheets from the third auditor, showing the remaining disallowances and suspensions to be $247,954.48, and I re-entered upon the work, which now became more complex, slow and difficult—the plainer cases having been disposed of. In addition to the disallowed items embraced in previous sheets, these contained new matter, being the disallowances and suspensions on the pay rolls of seven regiments, and the pay accounts of the officers—there having been disallowed, and deducted from the pay of the latter, nearly forty-four thousand dollars, while the total amount of disallowed pay accounts, approximated one hundred thousand dollars. The same clerk, G. W. Stoner, was again detailed for my assistance, which I declined, for reasons previously given. An extensive correspondence ensued, for the procurement of facts necessary to be established in support of various claims, while my own explanatory notes were made more full and complete. The work was finished at the end of eight months. I made out an account as in the previous case, and with the same reservations as to further compensation, for $800, which was paid; being precisely the amount which Mr. G. W. Stoner would have received, had he written my elucidations at my dictation. It was copied and sent to Washington, whither I followed it, and spent fully three weeks in examining accounts and muster rolls, of which no duplicates were found at Madison, as well as the vouchers of the last instalment of war claims, previously sent to the third auditor.

This instalment amounted to	$23,078 45
Of which there had been allowed.....	628 88
		<hr/>
While the third auditor had disallowed and suspended	$22,454 57
I succeeded in obtaining the allowance of.....	$21,797 04
With the expectation of a future allowance of...	4,815 08
And conceded, as not properly chargeable to the United States.....	5,842 50

The result of this settlement was a further allowance to the credit of the state of $68,804.82, which, with the previous allowance of $131,437.24, aggregates $219,742.06, as communicated to the legislature by his excellency the governor January 20, 1870.

The next and last set of difference sheets from the third auditor's office, was received in June last, exhibiting a remaining balance of disallowed and suspended accounts amounting to $159,649.66; since which I have been employed for more than five months in searching for and exhibiting further proof, and in procuring certificates and affidavits of facts, including several elaborate statements, addressed to the treasury and war departments for the purpose of Obtaining the allowance of several classes of pay accounts, one of which, being much the largest, and hereinbefore referred to, amounting to $44,000.00—the disallowance of which had been reiterated by the second comptroller—I have succeeded in carrying successfully through, and the allowance will appear upon the next special settlement, to be entered upon in the present month of January. Of another class, being the pay of second assistant surgeons, not mustered into the United States service, amounting to about twenty thousand dollars, I have strong hopes of obtaining the allowance, upon the same settlement. I have shown, in support of this claim, that congress enacted a law, chapter 108, June 26th, 1812, preparatory to the war with Great Britain, for mustering in two “surgeon’s mates” to each regiment; which fact was a sufficient precedent to justify the legislature of Wisconsin in making similar provision, (per act, chap. 4, laws of 1861, extra session,) while congress itself enacted a law, approved July 2d, 1862, providing for mustering two assistant surgeons to each volunteer regiment. These disallowed accounts are for the services of those officers prior to muster in, under that law, and under existing laws can only be allowed upon the certificate of the secretary of war that they were actually in the United States service. He has the matter now under consideration, and a favorable result may be anticipated.

Another class, being for the pay of surgeons of artillery batteries, of the same essential character with the preceding, and against the allowance of which the same objections exist, it is hoped may also be allowed. This class amounts to about $7,000. Upon a careful calculation, I consider that the proximate special settlement will result in a further allowance of about eighty thousand dollars. I have made two journeys to Washington city within the past four months, in order to perfect the evidence in favor of these and several other considerable claims, and to expedite another special settlement.

For the last eight months labor in this work, I have presented no account against the State for clerical labor, nor have I employed a clerk. I have expended in performing three journeys to Washington and two to Milwaukee on this business, $356.00, and have received from the Governor’s contingent fund about $265.00 on account of these expenses.

In answer to allegations which I learn have been made, that I have been employed as State Agent, in explaining and carrying through the United States Treasury, my own erroneous doings while filling the office of Quartermaster General of the State, I beg to submit the following statement of facts, and invite a close scrutiny as to their reliability.

So far as I can learn upon inquiry, most, if not all the loyal states except Wisconsin, provided boards of three commissioners, at considerable expense for purchasing war materials, and for examining and directing payment of all war expenses. In Wisconsin, the Quartermaster General made all the contracts for these supplies including clothing, and camp and garrison equipage, or purchased them in open market upon his own judgment, or upon the judgment of reliable men designated by him for that purpose, and audited, and directed payment for the same, as well as for transportation of troops and supplies, also for camp construction, and camp expenses, and for expenses incurred in the recruiting service, and in short for all war expenses, excepting pay and subsistence. About two-thirds of all the war expenditures of the state, exclusive of bounties to soldiers families, which last are not included in our claims, were paid upon his orders, without the supervision, sanction, or examination of any superior, or advisory power. More than six hundred thousand dollars of his certified accounts were re-imbursed by the United States, to the state, or paid to holders, before they reached the state treasury; while of such as were paid by the state, and sent to the United States treasury for re-imbusement, all have been allowed excepting a trifling deduction upon the price of two large tents, and some special expenditures made by authority and direction of Governor Randall. At least ninety per cent. of his accounts were allowed and paid by the United States, unchallenged, while the fact that the careful scrutiny of the accounting officers of the treasury have not, among all the accounts bearing his signature, detected an arithmetical error to the amount of one cent, ought to be regarded as quite conclusive in favor of their correctness. This is doubtless the first instance in the history of the state, where a single individual has exercised at will, the power of incurring liabilities in behalf of the state amounting to more than a million of dollars and himself auditing the accounts for the expenditures.

There has been reimbursed the State, upon her legitimate claims against the United States, unchallenged, about eighty per cent. and upon explanation made by myself about 13 per cent., while upon the next settlement, upon similar explanations, recently sent to third auditor, there may be expected 4 1-2 per cent., and thereafter upon intelligent and well directed efforts, a further allowance of 1 1-2 per cent., may be effected, making a total of 99 per cent.

A circular letter recently addressed to the several loyal States, by the Adjutant General of Ohio, has elicited the following facts: The States of Indiana, Ohio, New Hampshire, Vermont, Iowa, Connecticut and Kentucky, (being all who have responded, except Wisconsin,) have in the aggregate presented war claims to the amount of $14,354,211.35, of which there stands disallowed $3,098,035.03, while the total amount allowed upon explanation and otherwise is $11,261,176.22, being less than 78 1-2 per cent., at a cost for the State agents' services of $118,602.00.

In December 1865, H. D. Cook, Esq., became the war claim agent of the State of Illinois, and two years thereafter obtained a settlement at the United States Treasury upon which was allowed $97,309.74, the governor paying him from the contingent fund 2 1-2 per cent., commission. In December '68 he obtained a further allowance of $136,345.81, whereupon the legislature provided by law for the payment to Mr. Cook, of three per cent., upon that amount, and by the same act made provision for a salary of $4,000 per annum for his then future services.) (Laws of Ill. p 42, 1869. Up to December 31, 1870, Mr. Cook had succeeded in obtaining a third settlement, upon which was allowed $91,421.47, at cost to the State of two years salary $8,000, besides expenses Total amount collected $325,077.00, at a cost of $14,523 11 (besides expenses,) being 4.40-100 per cent. upon the whole. Kentucky has for several years past maintained a State Agency at Washington, at a cost of $6,100 per year, having expended for that purpose up to the close of 1870, $37,500, and obtained the allowance of but 67 per cent., of her claims. Iowa, with a claim of $842,000, has expended for state agency $13,417.07, and has collected less than 75 per cent. of the whole claims. The State officials of Indiana after making a number of bootless journeys to Washington upon this business, found it expedient to employ an expert of known ability, as State agent, at a commission of two per cent., upon allowances, his commissions amounting to more than $33,000. (See Adjutant General's report, Ind. 1867-68.) Ohio has expended for collection of war claims $10,899.73. New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine, with very small claims, have expended for this purpose in the aggregate more than $25,000, while Massachusetts has maintained at Washington for many years a State agency for the gratuitous procurement of soldiers' war claims, pensions, &c., and for the adjustment of State war claims, at an expense of about $5,000 per annum, as I am informed and believe.

I would here state that the sum of $219,742.06, the allowance of which I have already obtained, and which has been applied towards the payment of the United States direct tax, is in effect credited to the state against her quota of that tax, at a premium of 17 3-5 per cent., and in fact pays of it, $258,665.88, thus saving to the state, beyond the nominal amount allowed, and beyond what a cash payment of the same amount would have effected, at any time since June 1862, very nearly $38,800, while any future credits that may be obtained upon these claims, will under existing laws, be credited with like effect.

Of the disputed claims already allowed, as well as of those which may hereafter be allowed, a large proportion—I fully believe at least one-fourth—would have been lost to the state, but for the efforts which have been made for obtaining their allowance. With suitable endeavors, it is safe to say, that all the just claims of the state may be obtained.

In view of the foregoing facts, your petitioner respectfully prays your honorable body, to provide by law for the payment to your petitioner, of a reasonable compensation, commensurate with the services rendered, the amount of hard brain work performed, and the benefits inuring to the state by reason thereof, having in view, the usual or average compensation, allowed and paid by other states, for similar services.

Mem. No. 1, A.,

Introduced by Mr. Bate on the 13th inst, being Remonstrance of H. P. Allen, J. Taylor and one hundred and eleven others against the passage of any bill authorizing the damming of the Chippewa river below the head of navigation.

Was referred to committee on Lumber and Manufactures.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. Peterson :

Res. No. 11, A.,

Resolved. That the committee on Railroads be directed to enquire into the advisability and expediency of the enactment of a law providing for the appointment of a railroad board of commissioners, whose duties, among others, shall embrace the following :

To carefully examine into the condition of all railroads in the State, more particularly in regard to their safety to passengers and their promptness and impartiality in the transportation of freight. In cases where they shall deem any railroad unsafe for the conveyance of passengers, to have power to repair any railroad, or part thereof, or bridges, at the expense of the proper road, in case the managers shall neglect or refuse to make such repairs, after receiving due notice thereof.

To examine into the cost of each railroad in the State, the amount of stock and indebtedness of each, with estimate of what it would probably cost to build such road at the present time, and what such road, with equipments, would probably bring at a fair sale.

To examine into the general economy in the management of each road, the salary of the officers and employes.

To make due enquiries whether there has been any resort to watering of stock in any of the roads, and if so, what were the probable reasons for such watering process.

To enquire into the passenger and freight tariffs of each, and make a full report thereof, and as far as practicable make a comparison of the same with roads in other parts of the country, and whether, in their opinion, such tariffs are reasonable.

That such commissioners be required to submit a detailed report at the opening of each session of the legislature.

Resolved, That if the committee on Railroads shall determine that the interests of the people of the state require the enactment of such a law, they be, and are hereby instructed to report a bill for the appointment by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, of a board of three commissioners, at least one of whom shall be a practical railroad engineer, whose duty shall embrace the above-named and such others as may be deemed necessary; and that such duties shall be clearly defined in the bill. Such commissioners to have power to send for persons and papers, administer , examine the books and papers of any railroad company in the a, or if the office of any company operating any road be located outside of the state, and the officers refuse to afford access to its books, that proper remedies be provided in the bill to enforce compliance.

To the Hon. LL. BREESE, Secretary of State;

SIR:—The commissioners of the "Wisconsin Railroad Farm Mortgage Land Company" respectfully report:

That they have up to this date received applications, duly verified and proved, by claimants under the law of March 6th, 1868, amounting in all to the sum of $248,120, which they have entered in proper order in a list, in the hands of the president of this company, and of which a copy will be filed in your office, with such additions as may be made up to the time limited by the act for that purpose.

The commissioners have received deeds for 28,931.10–100 acres of land, and are informed that 39,889.91–100 acres more are now ready to be conveyed to them for the purposes of the act under which they are organized.

These lands are distributed over a large district of country, irregular in quantities in any location, involving a very considerable labor to find each particular lot and its value, etc., etc.

As yet, but a small portion of these lands have been examined and put in market; the balance of them will be examined and disposed of at as early a day as consistent with the ability of the commissioners, the inclemency of the weather and other circumstances incidental to such extended operation.

It has been found almost, if not quite, impracticable to sell these lands for cash payments in full. Under a view of all interests concerned, it has been decided to give, as a general rule, one and two years credit for one half to three-fourths of the consideration price for the land; no conveyance to be made until all payments are fully made,—the contracts to draw annual interest at ten per cent. There has already been contracts made for the sale of 3,002 55–100 acres, upon which there has been received in cash $1,563.70, not enough to cover the expenses already incurred.

There has been paid to the land officers for their fees, the sum of $866.80. Besides these expenses direct, the incidental expenses are necessarily very considerable, which will more fully appear upon an examination of the accounts audited by, and filed in the office of the secretary of state.

The commissioners have received as fees, from the claimants whose several claims have been perfected, the sum of $250.81.

It is the earnest desire and intention of the commissioners to effect the sale of the lands at as early a day as possible, and to close the business.

Dated, December 20, 1870.

STODDARD JUDD,
President.

JOHN STEINER,
Secretary.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of the report of the Commissioners of the Wisconsin Farm Mortgage Land Company for the year 1870, now on file in my office.

LL. BREESE,
Secretary of State.

Dated January 24, 1871.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. Kuntz :

Jt. Res. No. 12 A ,

WHEREAS, It appears that during the last few months numerous ships have left our harbors with arms and munitions of war of all kinds for France, and that most of this war material was bought by French agents from the United States Government ;

WHEREAS, We believe that the old injunction, " Do unto others as you wish to be done by," ought not only to be lived up to by individuals, but also by governments ;

WHEREAS, The policy of the English Government and people, so distasteful to many of us during our late war, is yet fresh in our minds ; therefore be it Resolved by the Assembly, the Senate concurring. That we consider the policy of our government in furnishing war material, directly or indirectly, to the so-called French Republic, as in conflict with our ideas of strict neutrality and even-handed justice, that is especially due to a nation that has shown her friendship towards the United States, not by mere empty diplomatic phrases, but by material aid and assistance.

Resolved, That this policy of selling arms at the present time, under the plea that the highest price could be obtained, is beneath the dignity of the states, and is the more to be deplored, when we take into consideration that those arms are the same that have been used by 200,000 Germans in defence of the integrity of our government, and are now destined to inflict death upon their brethren in the old world.

Resolved, That our Senators and Representatives in Congress are respectfully requested to do all in their power to put a stop to such a policy.

Resolved, That copies of the foregoing preamble and resolutions, duly authenticated, be transmitted by the secretary of state to the president of the United States, and our representatives in the Senate and the House.

Which lies over.

The Assembly took a recess of five minutes, and upon the Speaker's calling the Assembly to order,

Mr. Wagner said:

MR. SPEAKER:

I have the honor, in behalf of a committee to deliver to your custody this beautiful chair. It is a heartfelt tribute of honorable members of this Assembly, designed to be, through your kindness, presented to the Hon. Joseph McCormick, of Kewaunee, our mutual colleague, a veteran of 84 years, and older than the constitution of our beloved country, the United States of America.

The Speaker then said :

GENTLEMEN OF THE ASSEMBLY :

Before proceeding further with the business of the evening session, I have a pleasant duty to perform, which has been imposed upon me by my associates.

Mr. McCormick, you are understood to be the oldest member of any legislative body in the world, and your presence as a member of this legislature is a marked event. It is given to but few to attain your age, and to still fewer to maintain through all the mental and physical vigor which characterizes you.

Born in 1787—distinguished by the passage of the great ordinance for the government of the Northwestern territory—and older, as you are, than the constitution of the United States, you have seen our country in every stage of its development, in its days of triumph and adversity, from its infancy to its vigorous manhood. And during all these years you have been found where fidelity as a citizen of the Great Republic called you. You were an officer in the war of 1812, and fought under the old flag at Tippecance, Lundy's Lane, Queenstown Heights and Fort Erie.

You have aided in the formation of the constitution of several of the older states of the union, and have left your impress for good upon their laws, and now, crowned with the frosts of eighty-four years, strong and vigorous still, you seek as a public man the well-being of our young commonwealth. We recognize in you a link between the past and the present; the representative not of an Assembly district alone, but "of our whole country, in its growth and prosperity, and of several generations of its citizens."

Impelled by these feelings, honorable to them and complimentary to you, a number of your legislative associates have thought it proper to manifest in some manner their personal regard for you, and their appreciation of your long continued and meritorious services. They have thought the presentation to you of this chair a fitting mark of their esteem, and in their behalf I now present it to you, with the request that you will occupy it during the session and carry it with you to your home when your deliberations are over.

Take it sir, and may you live many years in health and happiness to occupy and enjoy it; may you find in it a source of physical comfort, and in the memory of the friendship which prompted its bestowal, may you ever find a source of pride and pleasure.

In response thereto, Mr. McCormick said :

I return my humble and sincere thanks. No man feels prouder than I at this moment in reception of this token so kindly tendered by my honorable colleagues. I shall appreciate and enjoy it to the day of my death.

Years ago, when I predicted that our free institutions would extend westward and westward, and yet westward, until they reached the Pacific, the idea was scoffed at. But I have lived to see the prediction verified. I love these institutions, and would be glad could I see them reach to the South Pole, and our country's emblem float from the North Pole. May harmony proceed from this center throughout all our land, and we and our posterity enjoy all the rich privileges of our free institutions perpetually, without discord or division.

This boon shall ever be held sacred by me ; I shall take pleasure in purchasing a desk to accompany it. In this chair and upon that desk will I write my last will and testament, and when I die may this beautiful chair, with its friendly arms, encircle me.

On motion of Mr. Richter,
The remarks of the Speaker, and the response thereto,
Were ordered to be spread upon the journal.

On motion of Mr. Rood,
The Assembly adjourned.

Report the same back with an amendment, in accordance with the instructions of the Assembly,

And your committee herewith return said bill, without recommendation, and would respectfully suggest that if the Assembly should desire the amendment of a bill in a certain way, it may be done without referring it to a standing committee whose duties are supposed to be different from clerical, especially in consideration of the fact that the different members of such committee may entertain different opinions as to the merits of the proposed amendment.

J. A. BAKER,

Chairman.

A majority of your committee on Incorporations, on consideration of

No. 131, A.,

Respectfully represent, that the amendment made by the committee on said bill, and as reported by our worthy chairman, was made by order of the Assembly by instructions, and under our protest, your committee being of the opinion, that standing committees are constituted for the purpose of making careful examinations of all bills that may be referred to them, with the view of reporting the same back to the Assembly with whatever amendments or recommendations that they in their judgment may deem most proper, and not to be used as mere machines for the legislature, and to serve with instructions to amend or strike out parts of bills without regard to their own judgment.

If this is the province of this committee, it would most respectfully request a clerk to do the business, so as to be able to turn its attention to more important matters. Your committee is of the opinion that if this bill is amended, as per instructions from the Assembly, it would be an injustice to the people of Oconomowoc, and liable to reversal by the courts, and submit the following for your consideration :

Among other securities guaranteed by the Constitution, section 17, of article 1, of the Constitution of the State of Wisconsin provides: "The privilege of the debtor to enjoy the necessary comforts of life shall be recognized by wholesome laws exempting a reasonable amount of property from seizure or sale for the payment of any debt or liability hereafter contracted "

The legislature is by this provision of the constitution bound to enact exemption laws, but having once enacted them, it may vary or modify them so as to reduce the quantity of lands or other property exempted, provided it does not deprive the debtor of a reasonable amount of the comforts of life.

In the case of "Ball vs. Conrove," 18 Wis. Rep., page 288, it was decided that the legislature may annex agricultural lands occupied as homesteads, to cities and other municipal corporations, and thereby incidentally abridge the privileges of the owners of the same to the exemption thereof.

It would seem from this that the court has decided that the words "town plat, city or village," mean just what the words import, to wit, the recorded plats, still it further decides that the same power that makes the exemption may vary the same, and thus reduce or enlarge the quantity of land by the act of incorporation. That the homestead right is not an absolute right, but rather a privilege that is guaranteed by the constitution.

This being the case, the question now arises, can the legislature so vary or modify the same as to materially change the relative value of homesteads, as to place it out of the control of the courts? The homestead law must, like other laws, be uniform, and operate as nearly alike as practicable upon all, and shall the legislature take away from the farmers that may be included within an incorporated village (and often on the application of one that is disinterested) really their almost entire homestead right, simply by the act of incorporation that may include their farms within a village corporation? The court, in deciding the case of Ball vs. Conrove, took the ground that one-fourth of an acre was all that the plaintiff could enjoy after the land was included in the corporation of Racine; but it did not decide that in case the act of incorporation included lands that were nearly worthless, that even then the homestead would still be reduced to one-fourth of acre, in place of forty acres of farmers' lands. This would be a decision virtually destroying the homestead right.

If the Legislature incorporates a village, and thereby reduces the homestead from 40 to 1-4 of an acre, it must at the same time look to it and see that the homestead is not virtually destroyed, otherwise the courts must again interfere in all such cases, and restore the homestead right.

If 800 acres of land (as is the case in this Oconomowoc charter), be included in a village corporation, 1,600 may be, and if 1,600, 8,200 and so on without limit, and by act of the legislature, all that is valuable about a homestead may be lost.

The present exemption law is all wrong. The law should in some way provide the total value of lands and personal property exempt from sale on execution for debt, and then there would be some uniformity and not the present discrepancy between improved and unimproved farms, village and city lots now exempt under the law.

This is not entirely a question of right and wrong; there is a further question. Is it policy for the state to pass those acts of incorporation with homestead exemptions of forty acres of farming lands as per statute or without the exemption until the legislature has first examined each individual case to see whether the present homestead exemption will not thereby be rendered still less uniform than at present under the law and the decisions of the courts.

There being no evidence before the committee to show that the farming lands included in the present charter of Oconomowoc is more valuable than other lands not included, or that they are rendered more valuable by being included in the corporation, and the fact being that under their present charter they have the ordinary exemption from sale for debt of 40 acres of farming lands, and the proof being shown before the committee that the people of this village have not sought to change their charter in this respect, that nothing is asked for more than is already theirs by law. We, a majority of your committee, respectively recommend the passage of bill No. 131 by substitute which, is hereby made a part of this report.

Memorial of Andrew Proudfit, James K. Proudfit and E. A. Calkins, in relation to Assembly bill No. 483 :

The suit to which this bill relates was brought in the supreme court, to recover from the State the balance due and unpaid on a printing contract between the State and Beriah Brown, which he assigned to Andrew Proudfit, who assigned it to Calkins and J. K. Proudfit. The interest of Calkins has been re-assigned to Andrew Proudfit since the commencement of this suit.

The original answer of the state, set up as a defense that the legislature had at various times appropriated to Calkins & Proudfit certain sums of money, in full of the amount due them for printing, and that, though these amounts were less than what they claimed to be due, they had accepted the same at the state treasury. The difference between the amount thus appropriated to them and the amount which they claim, was based upon a dispute as to the construction of the contract, and some other items. This difference is the amount for which they sued, and which still remains due and unpaid. They accepted the sums appropriated to them because they were compelled to do so by the exigencies of their business, and because they required the money for use in fulfilling the contract; and they did so in ignorance of the fact that it could by any possibility bar or invalidate their legal right to the balance due.

At a subsequent stage of the suit, the state filed an amended answer, as a further defense, that, at the time the contract was entered into between Brown and the state, he represented that the language of his bid had a different meaning from that which it actually possessed, and that, through these alleged misrepresentations, the contract was awarded to him as the lowest bidder. The plaintiffs rejoined that Brown did not make the alleged misrepresentations, and that the printing commissioners were not thereby misled, and that, if he did, it did not change the terms of the contract, because,

1st. Verbal statements of parties could not change the terms of the written contract, and

2d. The bids in competition with that of Brown were not according to the form provided by law, and his was the lowest legal bid, however it might be construed, and the contract was awarded to him for that reason.

The case was sent to the Milwaukee circuit court for trial of the issue of fact by a jury. The testimony relating to the alleged misrepresentations of Brown, if there was any, was not admitted on the trial, because it could not affect the terms of the contract, and was, for that reason immaterial. The verdict of the jury found that the construction claimed by the plaintiffs was the correct construction; that they had fulfilled all its requirements, and that the amount claimed by them was justly due and unpaid thereon.

The Supreme Court refused to enter up judgment against the State on this verdict, for the purely technical reasons that the plaintiffs had accepted the money appropriated to them in full, although the jury found that it was not in full; and also because the issue of Brown's alleged false representations had not been tried. The plaintiffs then applied for an order remanding the case for trial of the issue not tried, but this was refused, because a verdict in their favor would not help their case, as the acceptance of payment in full was of itself a bar to their recovery. Subsequently, during the war, and while the plaintiffs were both absent from the State with their commands in the armies in the field, judgment was entered up against them for costs.

The Legislature, in 1866, passed an act vacating this judgment and re-instating the case on the Milwaukee verdict, and providing that the acceptance by the plaintiffs of the amounts appropriated to them by the legislature in full, should not be a bar to the recovery of the balance due on the contract; and providing, further, that the remaining issue, to wit, the alleged false representations of Brown, might be tried.

Two years afterward, a trial was reached on this issue. The plaintiffs proved, by the testimony of Brown, that he did not make the alleged false representations to the printing commissioners, but that the sole grounds on which he claimed that the contract should be awarded to him was that his was the only legal bid before them. The printing commissioners were also present, and testified that Brown did not make the alleged false representations, and that if he did it would not have changed their award, as they decided that the bid in competition with his was not a legal bid, and that his was the only legal bid before them for their consideration. E. A. Calkins and other witnesses were before them, and testified to the same facts. The decision of the printing commissioners was produced, showing that they awarded the contract to Brown as the only legal bidder. Against this body of evidence the state produced a single deposition, that of James Dinsmore, the competing bidder against Brown, who testified that Brown did make the alleged false representations, and (claiming to know the minds of the commissioners better than they did themselves, and against the record of their decision in the case,) that they awarded to him the contract on the said false representations. In spite of this vast preponderance of testimony from witnesses present on the stand, and on this single deposition of a disappointed and malignant bidder, the jury rendered a verdict unfavorable to the plaintiffs, again defeating by a mere technicality, and in the face of a mountain of evidence, their just right to compensation for work done and materials furnished on a contract with the state ten years before. We are confident that this result was reached because the court intimated to the plaintiff's counsel that argument was unnecessary as the evidence was overwhelmingly on the side of the plaintiffs, and the case was not therefore argued on behalf of the plaintiffs, though the judge charged the jury in their favor. A motion for a new trial of this issue is now pending, but the fact that courts are extremely reluctant to set aside the verdict of a jury, however found against evidence, admonishes us that we may be unable to obtain relief except by the action of the legislature on the equities and merits of the whole matter.

By the solemn act of the legislature of 1866, the verdict of the jury on the construction of the contract, and the amount due and unpaid thereon, is established as on equitable claims against the state. The legislation asked will give it a tangible and definite form, and be an act of honest justice which a great and wealthy state can well afford to perform on behalf of the aggrieved individuals who ask it.

Mem. No. 96, A.,

Memorial of Andrew Proudfit, James K. Proudfit and E. A. Calkins in relation to Assembly bill 433,

Have had the same under consideration and have instructed me report as follows:

That this claim has grown out of the printing contract for the years 1855 and 1856, which was first awarded to James Densmore by Alexander F. Gray, then Secretary of State. From this award an appeal was taken to the Governor, Wm. A. Barstow, Attorney General, Geo. B. Smirh, and State Treasurer, Edward Janssen, as commissioners, who reversed Secretary Gray's decision and gave the contract to Beriah Brown.

That in Mr. Brown's bid and contract occurred the words "for folding and stitching, fifty cents per hundred," which the printers testify mean, as understood among them, fifty cents for folding and stitching one hundred sheets of eight pages each. It was charged that Brown, in order to satisfy the commissioners that his bid was lower than Mr. Densmore's, stated to them, at the hearing of the appeal, that the fifty cents per hundred in his bid meant for one hundred completed documents, whether bills, pamphlets or bound volumes.

Brown assigned his contract to the firm of Messrs. Calkins & Proudfit, and after the expiration of Secretary Gray's term of office the latter construction was put upon this part of the bid. Messrs. Calkins & Proudfit took the amount audited them upon this construction, but at the same time protesting that it was not what they were entitled to.

They afterwards asked compensation for the amount of their claim thus rejected of the Legislature, which was denied, and they then brought suit in the Supreme Court to recover that and other demands.

The issue was sent to Milwaukee county circuit court to be tried and the jury awarded them as is stated to the committee, over $9,000, most of which was for the folding and stitching aforesaid.

Upon the verdict being returned the supreme court refused to enter judgment upon it, for the reasons as understood by the committee.

First. That the issue as to whether Brown made the fraudulent representation charged, had not been tried.

Second. That the claim was settled and discharged by the claimants having accepted the amount audited to them on the construction of the contract by the secretary of state.

Judgment instead of being given in their favor for the amount of the verdict, was entered against them for costs.

Subsequently the legislature enacted chapter 64 of the general laws of 1866, taking away all technical defences to this claim, and authorizing the attorney general to stipulate, to vacate the judgment against the claimants, and open the case for a new trial to be had as this act provides upon the equities and merits of the case to the end that a just and equitable determination of the matter might be had.

Under this most liberal statute, on the 26th day of May, 1868, a jury trial was again had in the Milwaukee circuit court, which resulted in a verdict for the State on the the three questions at issue, to wit:

First. Did Beriah Brown make the representation that "for folding and stitching, fifty cents per hundred," meant "fifty cents per hundred" completed documents?

Second. Were said representations untrue?

Third. Whether the State officers believed and relied upon these representations and thereupon awarded the contract to Brown.

The claimants insist here that this verdict against them was unwarranted by the testimony and directly in conflict with the same and that it probably resulted from a misapprehension of the part or the jury caused by their attorney not presenting their case, after the Attorney General had addressed them in behalf of the State. That his not doing so was caused partly by his own confidence in the strength of his case, and partly from a suggestion of the court that it was unnecessary. The record shows that the Attorney General did address the jury, and that claimants attorney did not. The court charged the jury as claimants counsel requested, and the case is now pending in the Supreme Court on a motion for a new trial.

The committee have given careful attention to the testimony which is now on file in the Supreme Court.

James Densmore testifies that the false representations were made and that it was the reason for taking the printing contract from him and giving it to Beriah Brown.

Brown testifies he never made the representations charged.

E. A. Calkins testifies that he was present at the hearing of the appeal. That Densmore constantly insisted that the item for folding and stitching per hundred meant per hundred sheets, and not per hundred complete documents. That Brown insisted that this was not the question at issue. That the question was whether Densmore's bid was a legal one. And that the commissioners decided it to be illegal and on that ground reversed Secretary Gray's decision and awarded the contract to Brown.

Attorney-General Geo. B. Smith testifies that he does not recollect the conversation of the parties, but he distinctly testifies that, whatever it might have been, it had no influence upon the decision of the question. That the award in favor of Brown was not made on account of any representations whatever.

Secretary Gray testifies that no such representations were made to him, but that he was not present at the hearing of the appeal.

It would seem upon this statement, that the preponderance of the testimony was in favor of the claimants. But as the case is now pending, as stated, on a motion for a new trial in the Supreme Court, it is to be presumed that that court is fully competent to do justice between the state upon the one hand, and the claimant on the other.

The subject as to the strict right of the parties is one pre-eminently adapted to judicial investigation and not to the ex-parte action of a Legislative committee. And as the case stands upon the conflicting testimony of the witnesses, although Densmore's individual testimony is confronted by three witnesses, yet it is, and was, a fair question of credibility between them, to be determined by a jury. It does not necessarily follow that the one witness was wrong, and the three right.

If the representations, as charged, were made by Brown, and they secured to him the award of the contract, then this claim should never be paid. But if they were not made, or did not exert the influence charged, then the claims seem just.

But the claimants here address themselves to our sense of legislative justice independent of the question of the legal liability of the state. Upon this subject there is this, to be said about this "folding and stitching" that fifty cents per hundred, for complete documents was a very inadequate compensation for the work on the one hand, and that "fifty cents per hundred" sheets was grossly excessive on the other. Hence it becomes a question, if the legal enforcement of the contract is abandoned, and anything is to be done, whether justice or equity would demand of the state more than a fair and reasonable compensation for the work, without any reference to the controverted construction given to the bid.

But, in order that this appeal to our sense of justice may receive the fullest and fairest consideration, and in as much as this committee has not deemed it to be its duty to go into the items of the claim, which now, including interest, amounts, as is stated, to near $20,000, they believe that the whole subject should be referred to the committee especially constituted for this work, and to which the law requires reference to be made, before any claim is allowed.

It is, therefore, recommended that said bill and memorial be referred to the committee on Claims.

Chairman.

LETTERS, PETITIONS, MEMORIALS, ETC.,

Presented and referred.

Under the provisions of Jt. Res. No. 27, A., Mr. Vaughn presented,

Mem. No. 26, A.,

Of Hiram Hayes and Peter E. Bradshaw, citizens of Superior, Wisconsin, protesting against the cutting of a canal by the city of Duluth, Minnesota, across Minnesota Point, thereby destroying the Harbor of Superior,

Which memorial was ordered to be spread upon the journal,

And is as follows:

To the Honorable, the Legislature of the State of Wisconsin:

Your memorialists, residents of Superior, would respectfully represent that the entry of the Bay of Superior, at the mouth of St. Louis river, is the natural channel of communication between Lake Superior and the said Bay:

That said Bay is an immense natural harbor, having a frontage of many miles in each of the States of Wisconsin and Minnesota, and is amply available for the commerce of Superior, and of Duluth in the State of Minnesota :

That the United States Governments Works now in progress for the improvement of said entry, can be completed according to official estimates for the sum of about $140,000, of which $85,000 has been appropriated and will be expended the present season.

That the most important element in the plan of said government works, is the combined and undiminished flow of the St. Louis and Nemadji river through said entry whereby the formation of a bar or shoal outside will be prevented, and hence is the danger of opening any other channel between said lake and said bay, through Minnesota Point, whereby as to a nearer outlet the current of the St. Louis would be diverted so as to impair and destroy said natural entry and render nugatory the government works thereat.

That it is the opinion of the United States Government Engineers, after a careful examination of the subject, that the construction of a canal through said Point would be likely, by means of the diversion of the St. Louis river, to destroy or seriously impair the natural entry now being improved as aforesaid at the mouth of that river, and that said opinion has been embodied in an elaborate official report to the War Department.

Your memorialists would further represent that the city of Duluth, under the sanction of the State of Minnesota, is now engaged in constructing through said Minnesota Point near its base, a canal or dyke, 300 feet in width, and 14 feet in depth, which, in the belief of your memorialists, when fully opened, will result in the diversion of the current of the St. Louis river through said canal, and the consequent filling up of the present channel by deposits of sediment in the bed of the stream, and the permanent settlement of accretions at its mouth, washed up from the lake, all to the manifest and irreparable injury of the harbor of Superior and of the city of Superior, situated thereon.

That the diversion of said river through such artificial channel, would in effect confine the outlet of said stream exclusively within the territory and jurisdiction of Minnesota, and would therefore be an intrusion of the sovereign rights of the State of Wisconsin.

That the construction of said canal on the part of Duluth, is by no means owing to the necessities of the case, but to its unwillingness to share with Wisconsin the advantages of a natural harbor, unsurpassed for its capability, of safe and easy access, its facility of improvement, and the perfect protection which it affords to shipping.

That it is the conviction of your memorialists that the danger to result from the completion of the proposed cut through Minnesota Point can be averted only by the prompt interposition of the State of Wisconsin in that behalf.

That this unjustifiable and injurious work can with difficulty, if at all, be arrested by the exertion of individuals, for the reasons, among others, that successfully to contest it is beyond the pecuniary means of citizens single-hand public than of private nature, req perhaps than of necessity, that th party in order to secure a fair questions involved.

Your memorialists further repr substantially express the opinions with people of their section of th and intelligent observers of the si

TESTIMONY.

MARCH 9.

NELSON FRYER sworn—

Am a member of Assembly, third district, Jefferson county; I know about bill No. 1, A.; made up my mind early in the session to go against the bill; told Mr. Montgomery so; he rooms with me;
Mr. Fred. Thorp, of Fond du Lac, came to me a week or two after I came here and asked how I stood on the question; told him I had not thought much of it; not interested. He said he was interested and hoped I would go for the bill; said so subsequently at different times when I met him; said J. G. Thorp was a friend of his.
Tuesday, as I came in, both Thorps stood together; I stepped up to them; Fred. introduced me to his uncle, and said, "For God's sake, I hope you won't go against us," or words to that effect, and said he would see me again; I went off.

Yesterday, as I sat in my seat, a boy came and said a man wished to see me. I went out and found Fred. Thorp; he said go back and get your hat; I went back and got it; he said "let us go over to Keyser's;" when we got out doors he said, "I want you to go with us, anyway, for the Improvement;" I said I would think of it.
We went over, took a drink and a cigar, and came back; he talked about it all the way over and back; I returned to my seat, and left him in the rotunda. About half an hour after one of Weil's boys, I think, came and said "Thorp wants to see you;" I went out, and he said, "let's go over to Keyser's again; I was out late, and don't feel well." After we got out, he began to talk again about the dam, and as we walked along he shoved something like a wad inside of my hand, which was in my pants pocket; I shoved my hand down into the pocket, mistrusting what it was, and he said, "take this now, and when this thing is all over, there will be a nicer thing for you." He said nothing further about that then. After going to Keyser's, I came away and left him there; after dinner I took out the wad and handed it to a friend, who examined it; it consisted of three ten dollar bills and one twenty; I placed the money in Judge Braley's hand, and left it with him; have had no conversation with Thorp since.

About a week ago Mr. Weil, member of Assembly, came to me and said, "You had better go for the bill, the Dells matter he called it; there is money in it; it is a matter of speculation; I can make it so it will be satisfactory to you." No other person has approached me with like propositions from either side, though many others have spoken to me about the bill on both sides. Fred. Thorp has been giving a great deal of attention to the passage of this bill. I know, personally, of no other attempts by either side to influence votes in such a manner.

NELSON FRYER.

A. B. BRALEY sworn—

Have had a conversation with Mr. Fryer, Assemblyman. We both board at Dr. Chittenden's. Just before dinner, a week ago to-morrow, he took me aside and said Mr. Weil had approached him on behalf of the Dells bill, and he, Weil, said it was a speculation, and there was money in it; and my next knowledge of it was yesterday, when Mr. Fryer told me he had had a roll of bills put in his pocket by F. O. Thorp. I asked him how much; he said he had not counted it. He handed it to me; I counted it in his presence; it was three ten dollar greenbacks and one twenty dollar bill on the Union National Bank of Chicago. He said he wanted me to keep it; wanted it to go to some orphan asylum. I have put the money in hands of assistant state treasurer, subject to my call, enclosed in an envelope.

A. B. BRALEY.

F. O. THORP sworn:

Have read bill No. 1, A.; have been engaged this winter in advocating its passage; know Nelson Fryer, assemblyman; I think I asked him to support the bill; think I first spoke with him about it three weeks ago; don't remember when I next spoke to him about it; think I have not spoken to him on the subject within a week, as I then heard he was committed against the bill; think I saw Fryer day before yesterday, in his seat; saw him yesterday, down in the rotunda, in the first story; Mr. C. D. Gage and I started to go out and go down stairs; am not sure but we met Fryer on the stairs; this was about 11 o'clock A. M.

We went over to the Empire saloon (Fryer and I); am not sure whether or not Gage went; think he did; am not sure whether or not we talked of anything on the way ; don't think I staid there but a few moments ; am not certain whether Fryer came back with me or not ; think he did ; did not say anything to Fryer about the bill on the occasion ; barely possible I may have spoken of it, but not likely. We may have come into the Capitol together ; this was my first interview with him that day ; think I had no interview with him afterwards yesterday ; did not go to Keyser's again with him ; did not send for him yesterday ; do not remember having sent for him ; my recollection is that I did not send for him ; may have done so ; I do not remember that he went with me to Keyser's saloon but once ; he may have done so ; I was there several times yesterday.

Question.—Did you give or place in the possession of Mr. Fryer yesterday, any money ? I loaned him some money. Mr Fryer, I think a week ago, told me he had been informed that parties were prepared to pay out a good deal of money for the passage of the Dells bill. At that time he was a good deal with Judge Bradley and talked with me about it ; I told him I was not aware of any such thing ; I think I asked him at the same time what his inclinations were with reference to the bill ; he told me he was in favor of it ; he has told me the same once or twice since ; told me also once or twice since, that he understood money was to be expended to carry the bill ; told me money was being expended on the other side to defeat it.

In response to this I uniformly told him I knew nothing about it. Told him I was employed to come here as a lobbyist for the bill and I desired to see it passed. He said he should support it ; uniformly gave this answer ; I think it was last week he came and solicited a loan. I should state that at most of these interviews he appeared to be under the influence of liquor, I paid not much attention to his talk, but it was uniformly favorable to the bill. When he solicited the loan I told him I had no money, and I lent him none. Yesterday morning he wanted a loan again of fifty dollars, telling me he would pay it back on Friday ; I loaned him twenty-five dollars ; I loaned it to him in the hall as we were passing out ; I think we went out at the north door. It was in currency, either green backs or national bank notes ; this was as we were going out to go to Keyser's. I think Mr. Gage was along with me when I let him have the money. I am quite sure Mr. Gage was present ; may not have been right there ; had no other money transactions yesterday with him or any one else.

Question.—Did you go to Keyser's at any other time yesterday with Mr. Fryer, and on the way or at any other time, place in his possession, or slip into his pocket in any shape or manner the sum of fifty dollars, or any other sum ? I did not ; when I made him the loan I speak of, he said, " I want to borrow fifty dollars," (it may have been twenty-five) ; said he would repay it in a few days ; or on Friday ; I had told him I was going home on Friday ; I did not say anything about his having anything more when the bill had passed ; I treated it as a pure loan ; he had said only the evening before, in the presence of Mr. Weil and his son, J. G. Thorp and myself, and may be others, that he was going to vote for the bill ; at the time he borrowed the money he appeared somewhat intoxicated as he also did the evening before ; I have no knowledge that money has been used unlawfully on either side with reference to the bill ; I am employed by J. G. Thorp ; I have never paid out any money to any member of the legislature to influence them in their action upon bill No. 1.

MARCH 10.

JOSEPH RANKIN, being duly sworn, on his oath, says :

I am a member of the Assembly ; on the seventh of March Mr. Fitzgerald of the Assembly told me that he was going to vote against the bill No. 1, Assembly ; just before tea in the afternoon of the day the vote was taken in the Assembly, I met him in the Assembly Chamber, and he was under the influence of liquor ; he came to me voluntarily and then told me he was going to vote against the bill ; as near as I can recollect he said, "you can't blame me for taking something to buy whisky with ;" I replied, that is not right, and I turned around and left him ; he did not say any one had given him money.

JOS. RANKIN.

C. M. HOYT.

Am a member of Assembly ; I board at the Rasdall House. There has been considerable joking there about the Dells lobby buying votes, etc. Two or three days ago Jefferson, the keeper of the hotel, said to me, "Why don't you make something out of this ? all the rest are doing it." I regarded it as a joke, but afterwards was inclined to think him in earnest ; and subsequently he spoke to me again, saying he could "put me in a way to make two or three hundred dollars out of this Dells question, by voting for the bill." I told him he musn't talk to me that way ; I openly declared long ago that I was an opponent of the bill.

C. M. HOYT.

AUGUST RICHTER :

I am member of Assembly from the city of Milwaukee ; last Monday, about 9 A. M., a man from Milwaukee, named Paul Schuengel, appeared at my house, in Milwaukee, and wanted me to go with him in a private room ; I did so ; he began to talk about the Dells improvements, showed himself rather green in the matter, and enquired of me about the improvements ; I explained both sides to him as well as I could ; when he finally found that I was in favor of the bill, he stated to me that two men were up at his saloon on Sunday and wanted him to come down and see me and try his influence upon me to go against the bill.

He then told me he was authorized to give me one hundred dollars right off if I would vote against the bill. I then told him I could do no such thing, that I believed Milwaukee had a special interest in that improvement. He then told me he would try to get me five hundred dollars. I then told him I had made up my mind to go for the bill. He then began to talk about my having a large family, that in such cases generally, money would be used, and thought I should accept of it as well as anybody else. I then told him I did not wish to accept of anything.

He finally began to talk again; thought that both parties were highly interested, and that one side would be greatly benefited and the other badly hurt by the bill; therefore, he thought that those parties on the Chippewa side were willing to give me a thousand dollars; I told him no, I would not accept of any. The two men he spoke of who were at his saloon on Sunday, and who sent him to me were the mayor of Chippewa Falls (I know not whether present or past mayor) and H. L. Palmer. On the Sunday evening F. W. Hundhausen, of Milwaukee, sent his boy to my house and wanted me to call at his residence; I was sick abed that day and so could not go there.

On Monday morning his boy came again and wanted me to call upon his father before I left for Madison; I did so about 9 3-4 A. M.; found him at home, and asked him what he wanted of me; he told me that the mayor from Chippewa and H. L. Palmer had called on him on Sunday, and wanted him to see me and tell me that they would pay me well if I would go against that bill; I told him that I knew what I had got to do without any further request, and so I went off.

AUGUST RICHTER.

LEWIS D. FROST.

I reside in Madison; on Wednesday morning about 9 3-4 o'clock I was standing with Beverley Jefferson in the rotunda. During conversation with him I remarked that the Dells bill was causing much excitement. In reply he said quite an amount of money was exchanging hands, and that bids were ranging from one to five hundred dollars; and that he was waiting for a gentleman who was to receive a hundred dollars that morning, and that as soon as he saw him he was "going for him," and said he, "there he comes," and left me. I saw the man coming, but do not think I would know him again.

L. D. FROST,

LUTHER BUXTON.

I reside in Oshkosh. On Tuesday evening last, as late as 7 o'clock, Fryer came up to me as I sat in the rotunda. He seemed quite under the influence of liquor, asked how I stood on the Dells; said he was for the bill, or "I think the bill ought to pass."

LUTHER BUXTON.

BEVERLY JEFFERSON:

Reside in Madison, and keep the Rasdall House; Mr. O. M. Hoyt boards with me; I know about bill No. 1, A.; have conversed with Hoyt about it on Wednesday; he has boarded with me all winter; owes me some $180 or $200; came back from Milwaukee on Monday or Tuesday; had told me before this that he had failed and was hard up; he was starting out of the door on Tuesday or Wednesday morning, when I hailed him and said, "Charley, how are you on this Dells question?" he said he was against the bill; I said, "Charley, I think you can make some money out of this thing;" "Well," said he, "that is what I want, and what I am after;" I told him I understood they were paying money for votes; he said he would see me again; I afterwards met him and told him I thought he could get about two hundred dollars for his vote; he said he would see me at the capitol about twenty minutes to ten; this was Wednesday morning; I met him and talked with him, and he said it was impossible for him to go back on his friends; said he had promised Mr. Palmer masonically that he would go against the bill.

I was authorized to make a proposition to him to let him have money from one to two hundred dollars—not to exceed two hundred dollars, if he would vote in favor of the bill; I did make him the proposition, intending myself, however, to have it apply on his board bill; it was Charles Gleason who so authorized me; I think I first suggested the idea to him with reference to Hoyt, and he embraced it, agreeing that if I could get his vote for that price he would see me paid.

I know Mr. Frost; I did have a conversation with him about this matter, and Mr. Hoyt was the member I referred to in speaking to him; Gleason authorized me to make the offer on Wednesday morning, just before the bill came up, at the Randall House; we were alone; when I made Hoyt the offer at the Randall House he wanted to know if I could guarantee him the money; after going up and seeing Charley Gleason I came back and told him it was all right.

B. JEFFERSON.

C. D. GAGE.

reside in Auburn, Fond du Lac county; am a farmer; knew Nelson Fryer by sight; I saw him on Wednesday, the 8th inst., in several places; in his seat at Keyser's saloon and in the capitol hall and rotunda; I had started to go to the Empire saloon with Mr. F. O. Thorp, when we met Fryer in the hall; Fryer asked Thorp to lend him some money, said he was out of money; think this was about 11 o'clock; Mr. Thorp stopped, said he was short, had not really any money to lend; Fryer said he also was short and wanted some money; Mr. Thorp gave him some money, I don't know how much; we were going out at the north entrance; Fryer said he would repay him the last of this week or the first of next; we all three went over to the Empire saloon; I think Fryer sat down at the table with some others, and Thorp and I drank standing at the bar; nothing was said by any of us about the Dells bill at this time; at some other time, on that day or some other, I think the day previous, I saw Fryer sitting at the table among others, and heard him express himself in favor of the bill.

When Thorp and I met Fryer, at this time spoken of, if I am not mistaken, Fryer was quite intoxicated. I think the place of our interview was in the north hall, nearer to the rotunda than to the outer door. I am employed here by Mr. J. G. Thorp in the interests of the bill. In 1867 I was a member of the Assembly and then supported the measure. I came up here this winter on business of my own in the land office, and was then solicited by Mr. Thorp to use my influence in favor of the bill; I have now been here some four or five weeks on this business; I know some of the Milwaukee members by sight; Mr. Knoll was in the Assembly with me; I have talked with him about the bill; he had not before the vote told me what his views were.

C. D. GAGE.

A. B. BRALEY recalled.

The time or day when Fryer handed me the money, as I stated before was I think between 4 and 5 o'clock P. M. It might have been later. He said he had received it in the forenoon of that day, I saw him frequently during the forenoon and took dinner with him that day. He showed no signs of intoxication up to dinner time. When he gave me the money he seemed to have been drinking some, though not intoxicated. From the fact that some friends of his, who stated to me that he had but one fault, viz: a habit of drinking, had requested me to watch him, I noticed him frequently during the day and can say that at no time during the day previous to the time of giving me the money was Fryer intoxicated. He gave me the money at No. 4, Vilas House. He was in the room when I went in. The room may be called the headquarters of the opposition to the bill.

After his, Fryer's, communication to me, Mr. Geo. B. Smith and Mr. Palmer came into the room and were told the facts. They did not remain long. Mr. Bate afterward came in and was also informed of the same fact. Fryer took out the money in a roll and handed it to me, it was not in a wallet. I have been here this winter working to defeat this Dells bill, but have had no money to use and have approached no man in the way of corrupt influence.

A. B. BRALEY,

NELSON FRYER recalled—

The money was given to me about 11 o'clock A. M. When F. O. Thorp and I went out by the north passage to go to Keyser's, we two went alone and came back alone. Thorp and I went over there twice, and were entirely without other company going and returning. The money was put into my pocket by Thorp, just as we left the walk round the capitol and turned into the walk leading to Keyser's. I had not drank before, that day, not having been out of the capitol after coming from breakfast. Each time we drank whisky punch. I had drank but once before receiving the money. After thrusting the money in my pocket, Thorp asked how my colleague Ball stood, and said, "tell him if he wants to vote for the bill and have fifty dollars, send him to me." I have not borrowed, or asked to borrow money since I have been here. I drank some beer in the afternoon of that day. Mr. Braley is the first person I mentioned this affair to.

I have had no want of money since I have been here; have had money in the treasurer's office until last week; I never asked Thorp for any money; never received any money from him inside the capitol building; he never counted out twenty-five dollars or any other sum to me; after his thrusting the money in my pocket it remained there in a wad, under my wallet; I never told Thorp I was hard up and wanted to borrow money; I have not been hard up; I don't recollect stating that I was in favor of the bill to Dr. Buxton or anybody else. The last time we visited Keyser's, as above mentioned, I returned alone; I mistrusted that he had been, as he said, pretty d—d tight the night before, and felt bad; said he wanted me to go with him and take some sour whisky.

NELSON FRYER.

CHARLES GLEASON.

I live at Eau Claire; was member of Assembly last year; am here lobbying for the bill No. 1, A.; I board at the Russell House; I know C. M. Hoyt; I made an effort to get his vote; I never talked with him but once about it, at which time I judged him to be committed against us, and talked no more on the subject. On the morning of the day upon which the vote was taken, I was standing at the counter of the hotel office talking with Mr. Jefferson about the Dells bill; Mr. Hoyt passed by into the billiard room. Jefferson asked how Hoyt stood on our bill; I told him we counted him against us. Jefferson remarked that he thought he could get him to vote for the bill; I said I would like to have him do it if he could; he said he would see him and let me know the result.

I then went up stairs into a room directly over the parlor. While there, Jefferson came to the door and called me out into the upper hall; told me that he had seen Hoyt about the bill, and Hoyt had told him that he had no interest in the bill at all; did not care whether it was passed or defeated; that all he cared about it anyway was to vote the way that would bring him the most money; that he was dead broke, and stamps were what he was after. I told Jefferson that if that was the kind of a man Hoyt was and that if money was what he was after, and not the merits of the measure, it was very unfortunate for any cause that did not have money to pay for him; but I told Jefferson to get him if he could. Jefferson wanted to know of me how much he was worth; I told him somewhere from one to two hundred dollars; he asked me if he made any arrangement with Hoyt to be paid any certain sum of money within that range if I would see him (Jefferson) reimbursed; I told him that he would not lose anything by it if he did so.

I went back into the room and next saw Jefferson on the walk between the east corner of the Park and the Capitol. He said he had seen Hoyt and talked with him, and Hoyt had told him that he was under a masonic pledge to H. L. Palmer, made early in the session, to vote against this bill, and that he should have to do it; said he had seen Palmer and he wouldn't let him off; that Palmer would see him through, and if he wanted to borrow from three to five hundred dollars any time, Palmer would loan it to him. I have been here some five weeks lobbying. I have no knowledge of any unlawful influences used on either side about the bill.

C. R. GLEASON.

WILLIAM KETCHAM:

I am Assistant State Treasurer; Judge Braley left some money with me yesterday, about ten o'clock; the amount is fifty dollars; I saw it counted, and the Judge sealed it up in my presence and left it with me, subject to his order; it is three ten dollar greenbacks and one twenty dollar Union National Bank bill, of Chicago; Mr. Braley and Mr. Keyes came together.

WM. KETCHAM.

J. G. THORP.

I live in Madison; I take a large interest in the passage of bill No. 1 A.; I have a business home at Eau Claire; from my own knowledge I cannot say that I know of any unlawful influences being used to procure or prevent the passage of bill No. 1 A.; I do not think I knew Fryer till Monday or Tuesday last; I saw him at the Vilas House with Judge Braley, and inquired who he was; I may have been introduced to him before, but have no knowledge of it; I saw him on Tuesday with F. O. Thorp; he was very much under the influence of liquor; I was introduced by F. O. Thorp; Fryer said, "this is your uncle;" F. O. Thorp said "yes," in a joking way; Fryer then spoke of the Dells bill, saying he was going to vote for it; I said that was all right, and was called away and left him; he was generally estimated by the supporters of the bill to be on our side up to the day of the vote on the bill.

J. G. THORP.

MICHAEL FITZGERALD.

Am member of Assembly from Manitowoc county; parties on both sides of Assembly bill No. 1, have spoken to me about my vote; no one has made unlawful propositions to me, offering money or property, or threatening; I have never said to any one, except in joke, that I had taken any money; do not remember ever saying to any one, "you can't blame me for taking money to buy whisky;" had no conversation with Rankin about it; Rankin wanted to know of me in the Assembly Chamber on Wednesday evening before tea if I would vote against the bill; I told him I voted for the bill last winter and would vote for it this winter; don't remember saying to him at that time, I couldn't be blamed for taking money to buy whisky; know Mr. Weil, never knew him before this winter; he asked me if I would vote for the Dells; I said I voted for it last winter and should this; have received no money nor promise.

MICHAEL FITZGERALD.

S. SAMUELSON:

Am member of Assembly from Manitowoc; I know about Assembly bill No 1; know nothing about the influences used for or against the bill; no one has made any propositions to me suggesting money on either side; I made up my mind about six weeks ago to go for the bill; did not mention to any one how I was going to vote till, may be a day or two before, the bill was taken up; no corrupt inducements have been held out to me on either side.

S. SAMUELSON.

M. FITZGERALD:

I got a fifty dollar bill changed at the treasurer's office on Tuesday or Wednesday; I got it on Monday in a letter from my wife; I wrote home for it the week before; I took home what money I had four weeks ago thinking it would be a short session.

MICH'L FITZGERALD.

CHARLES G. MEYER, sworn:

Am member of Assembly from Ozaucsee Co.; occupy seat in Assembly chamber next to Mr. Fryer; he was generally in his seat during the forenoon of Wednesday, 8th inst; he was in his seat nearly all the forenoon; I noticed nothing of his being intoxicated; I think I should have noticed it if he had been; I had conversation with him; he appeared to be all right during the entire forenoon; I noticed Judge Orton called him from his seat during the forenoon; a boy came and called him, but I did not notice that Fryer left the Assembly Chamber; don't recollect of his going out that forenoon; think he was out of his seat a short time. If he went out of the chamber, he was gone but a short time; I don't recollect whether he was away from his seat more than twice during the forenoon; he may have gone out of the chamber, but if he did, I did not notice it.

I don't know of any unlawful or improper efforts to influence members in relation to the Dells bill; I saw Fryer Wednesday afternoon; he was sober; I saw him the evening before, and he was then intoxicated; I asked him Wednesday what was the matter the evening before, and he said he met a friend at the depot, and took a little too much.

CHAS. G. MEYER.

EDWIN MONTGOMERY sworn.

I am member of Assembly from Waushara county; I know Mr. Fryer, from Jefferson county; I board and room with him in this city; I have conversed with him about bill No. 1, Assembly; I think he has stated his views to me on that bill, and that he was against the improvement; I have heard him say that some of his friends were in favor of the bill, but that he was against it; that he disliked to vote against his friends, but should oppose it; that he was conscientiously opposed to it; I don't think I ever heard him say that he would vote for the bill. I came up to the Assembly chamber between half past eight and nine o'clock Wednesday morning, from our boarding house.

I saw him at noon; I think he was at dinner; he was not under the influence of liquor at noon; I saw no evidence of intoxication that day; he might have drunk that day, but not to effect him; when we came up in the morning he was sober; I saw him at no time that day when he was not capable to exercise his judgment; I noticed he was in his seat that forenoon, but observed that he was gone from his seat for a time; I regarded him as a sober man that forenoon, and I had a good opportunity to know it if he had not been; I know of room No. 4 at the Vilas House; I think Mr. Bate, of the Assembly, and some others occupy that room.

It is the place where friends of the opposition to the Dells meet. It was a general rendezvous for them. Have seen occasionally the friends of the bill there. They usually have cigars and whisky and beer there, with which they treat their guests, without distinction—friends and foes alike—I have been with the friends of the bill to Keyser's to drink and smoke at their special invitations. It is generally understood that the same thing is done by the friends of the bill at Keyser's as at No. 4 by the opposition; I have no personal knowledge of any unlawful or improper efforts to influence members upon either side of the measure.

E. MONTGOMERY,

B. S. WEIL sworn—

I am member of the Assembly from Washington county. I have heard of Assembly bill No. 1; have heard it read; I have heard a good deal said of the bill upon both sides. I know of no efforts to influence votes but talk. I know of no money being used on either side to pass or defeat it. On both sides members have been treated to beer and wine. I have treated both sides myself. I have taken some interest for the bill; have talked with members and compared notes. I have two sons, Eugene, who is 24 years old, and Adolph, who is 22 years of age; both are here. Eugene has interested himself in favor of the bill; he has lobbied for it. I was asked to let my son work upon the other side; I replied that he was of age.

The friends of the bill have treated at several places; Mr. Fryer told me, four or five days before the bill came to a vote, that he was in favor of the bill; the evening before the bill came up I came up from supper and found Mr. Fryer in the hall talking with E. O. Thorp, and there was present Mr. Boyd, of Fond du Lac; my son Eugene, and Leinkugen, of Eau Claire, were standing by. Fryer said, I am with you; Senator Weil knows it; I told him so four days ago. Fryer was gay; I can't say he was intoxicated; this was the last time I saw him in that condition; I can't say that I ever saw him drunk. He shook hands with me and said, Mr. Weil, I can drink their brandy and smoke their cigars and vote for the Dells anyway. My seat is near Mr. Fryer's, in the hall; I was in my seat during both sessions on Wednesday last; Fryer was there in the evening; I don't recollect that he was in his seat in the morning; I can't say whether he was or not.

B. S. WEIL.

O. H. INGRAHAM sworn:

I live at Eau Claire; I am here to assist in the passage of Assembly bill No. 1, known as the Dells bill; I have been in the State library several times since I have been here; don't remember whether I was there on Wednesday of this week; I don't know Mr. Lonergan, of the Assembly; I have no knowledge of having an interview with Mr. Gleason, of Eau Claire, Mr. O. D. Gage and Mr. Lonergan, member of the Assembly, in the State library or any other place, although I may have had one; I do not know of any special effort of said Gleason or Gage to influence the vote of members; I do not know of any unlawful or improper efforts by parties to influence the vote of members on said bill.

O. H. INGRAHAM.

N. A. SPOONER sworn.

I know something of the efforts which have been made to defeat Assembly bill No. 1; so far as I know they have consisted of honest and untiring efforts to defeat the bill by all fair and honorable means; I do not know of any money being used to influence members to vote for or against the bill; I have been here for over forty days, associated with the opponents of the bill, for the purpose of defeating it; we have met frequently, almost every day, at number four in the Vilas House, for consultation; number four has two beds, one occupied by Mr. Bate and Mr. Taylor, and the other is now occupied by J. H. Earnest and Col. Ginty.

I have once or twice seen cigars there; none within the last two weeks. I have seen a bottle that I supposed to be whisky, which almost always sits on the table with a pitcher of water and tumblers near it; I have never tasted of it; I can think of but twice within the last 45 days that I have seen members of the house in that room; I saw two in at one time, and to-day I saw another member there; I have been there daily except Sundays. I was employed to lobby against this bill by Governor Pound, and he said we proposed to fight this bill upon its merits; if we win, well and good, if we are defeated, then he proposed to resort to the law. He has always insisted upon fighting the bill upon its merits, and if we were defeated he would go down with it. He said repeatedly we would use no unlawful or unfair means to defeat it.

I know Mr. Fryer of the Assembly; I am in trade at Whitewater; he is one of my customers; from his reputation and what I have seen I regard him as a noble, generous, reliable man, with one weakness, he sometimes, as I have been told, drinks too much ; I have never seen him drunk ; I understand him to be the owner of a large farm and to be a man of considerable property ; I never heard his veracity questioned.

N. A. SPOONER.

C. R. GLEASON—recalled.

I have no recollection of an interview in the state library when Mr. Gage, of Fond du Lac county, Mr. Ingraham, of Eau Claire, and Mr. Lonergan, member of Assembly, were present, any time this week ; I have no recollection of these parties having an interview with Mr. Lonergan anywhere. I had an interview with Mr. Lonergan in the library one day this week ; the Dells improvement bill was the subject of the interview ; I asked him if he knew or had any information how Mr. Galagan, of La Fayette county would vote. I knew they were together a good deal, and thought he would know how Galagan would vote ; he told me he thought Mr. Galagan would vote for the bill ; he said he had heard Mr. Galagan express himself that way.

I think we were there five or ten minutes ; no propositions of any kind were made. If Mr. Gage or Mr. Ingraham were in the room, I didn't see them ; I don't know of any unlawful efforts that have been made to influence votes of members farther than I have stated ; I don't know that offers or promises of any kind have been made to Mr. Galagan or proposed to be made by any one.

C. R. GLEASON.

EUGENE S. WEIL sworn—

I reside in Washington county ; am son of B. S. Weil, member of the Assembly from Washington county. I have spent part of the winter here. Have been engaged in lobbying for the passage of the Dells bill—Assembly bill No. one. I have some friends here in the Assembly whom I have tried to influence in favor of the bill. I have tried to influence some through personal friendship, and others by arguments. Senator Clark, of Dodge county, suggested me to the friends of the bill. I came out here to be present a part of the session. I did not expect to stay any length of time, but was asked to stay and help the friends of the bill.

Mr. J. G. Thorp came to me and asked me whether I would help them. He told me to use my influence with my friends here to help in the passage of the bill ; there was no agreement about pay for services ; I expected him to pay my expenses ; I do not know of any money being offered to any person or promises of any thing to secure votes for the bill ; I know Nelson Fryer ; I did not call him out from the Assembly Chamber on Wednesday ; I never had any conversation with Mr. Thorp about him and never called him out ; and did not know that he was to be called out.

I have made no offers or promises to any one to secure a vote for the bill ; the only thing that I ever heard Mr. Fryer say about the bill was on Tuesday evening last, when I was standing with my father, Mr. Weil, of the Assembly, and others, in the rotunda, and Mr. Fryer came up stairs and came up to us and shook hands with my father, and said, "Pap Weil, I can drink their whisky and smoke their cigars, but I shall vote for the bill;" he appeared to be a little elated; did not seem to be drunk, but I think he had been drinking; I have not seen him intoxicated since.

EUGENE S. WEIL.

A. B. BRALEY recalled:

The room occupied by Mr. Bate and others is No. 4 Vilas House; I considered it headquarters for the opponents of the Dells bill; it is where they have met to consult; it has been the custom to offer any one who came in cigars to smoke and whisky to drink if they chose; it has made no difference whether they were members of the Legislature or not; in lobbying I have never received any instructions in particular how to operate; I was employed by Governor Pound early in the session to assist his side in defeating the Dells bill; the manner of doing so was left entirely to my discretion.

I never received any money to use for the purpose—not a dollar—I have heard Gov. Pound say upon several occasions that he did not intend to use any money to defeat the bill—I mean in the way of corrupting members; I have never intimated to any member, directly or indirectly, that it would be profitable for him to vote against the bill, or hinted to him anything that could be construed to mean corruption. In the forenoon of the 8th instant I saw Mr. Fryer come out of the Assembly chamber and go down stairs with Mr. F. O. Thorp; there was nobody with them; they were alone; I saw them turn and go around the corner to go down stairs; it was ten or eleven o'clock; I can't give the exact time.

A. B. BRALEY.

I am member of Assembly from Fond du Lac county; I saw Mr. Gleason in the State Library on the day the Dells bill was up; Mr. Gage, of Fond du Lac county, was there for a short time only; I don't know Mr. Ingraham, of Eau Claire; the conversation was very short; Gleason wished me to help him with his bill, if I could conscientiously; that was all of the conversation; I had met him once or twice previous to that; I don't know of any money being paid, or any offers being made to influence members upon either side of the measure; Mr. Gleason did not make any offers to me to induce me to help him, or for any one else; he asked me how one or two members would vote, and I told him I never asked them, and did not know; he did not ask me to exert my influence with members.

P. B. PARSONS.

JAMES WATTS sworn :

Am member of Assembly from Milwaukee county ; I know the nature of bill No. 1, Assembly, for the improvement of Chippewa river ; I have been spoken to by friends of the bill ; have been asked to support it ; Mr. Knöell, Mr. Weil and several others have talked with me ; Mr. Weil's son has also talked with me upon the subject ; Mr. Knöell asked me to go to a saloon and take a glass of beer ; I went ; we talked of the bill ; I think he asked me if I was going for the bill ; I told him I hadn't made up my mind fully, but thought I would go for it ; he thought the bill was right, and, I think said he would vote for it ; he said he wished I could make up my mind to go for it ; that he thought it was right ; and if, after we had voted for it, we could get a hundred dollars apiece, there would be no harm in taking it.

This is the substance of the remark he made ; it may not be the precise language, but is as near as I can remember it ; he did not say that we could get it, but said he thought that it would not be wrong to take it after we had voted, or something like that. I said I thought it was wrong, and I thought I would vote against the bill ; in my nervous condition I supposed it was an inducement to vote for the bill, and I repeated the conversation ; but afterwards I was satisfied was wrong. Mr. Knöell never offered me anything, and never said that he was to receive anything for supporting the bill. I never received anything, and I do not know that any other person has received anything for his support or opposition to the bill ; I have voted against the bill in its progress, and intend to vote against it hereafter. I wish to say that it is my candid opinion that Mr. Knöell meant no wrong.

JAMES WATTS.

O. R. GLEASON recalled.

I desire to make a slight correction to a statement which I made in my testimony before the committee in relation to my meeting Mr. Lonergan in the state library on Wednesday morning last. I sent for Mr. Lonergan by Mr. O. D. Gage to meet me in the library for the purpose of having a conversation with Mr. Lonergan without being interrupted by the parties upon the other side ; I don't think

Mr. Gage heard any of the conversation. He brought Lonergan to me and then turned and left us, but I don't know whether Mr. Gage left the room; when I was before the committee I could not remember how the meeting was brought about; I only remembered that I had an interview with Mr. Lonergan, but upon reflection the circumstances have come to my recollection.

C. R. GLEASON,

PAUL SCHUENDEL:

I live in Milwaukee; am acting deputy sheriff of that county; know August Richter, member of Assembly; saw him a week ago to-day, at his house, in Milwaukee; had a conversation with him in regard to the Dells improvement bill; the day before H. L. Palmer and another man, presented to me as Mr. Taylor, mayor of Uppewa Falls, came to my place; we talked of different matters, mostly about our coming city election; while talking I called Mr. Palmer to a private interview in another room; after speaking about the candidate for mayor, as he was leaving, he asked if I would see Richter to-day; I told him I thought not; then he began to tell me about those Dells—a thing I never knew about.

I did not know on what side Mr. Palmer was, but he said I would do him a great favor if I would tell Richter that he would represent the ideas of his Milwaukee constituents if he would follow his (Palmer's) ideas on the subject. We then went into the other room, when I shook hands with Mr. Taylor, and he asked me as they were leaving, not to forget to see Mr. Richter about this matter and that he himself was deeply interested in it. This is all that passed at that interview with reference to this subject. The next morning I went up to see Richter and met him at his house.

I represented to him all that Mr. Palmer had said to me, and then on my own responsibility, I said that this was a private matter not affecting his constituents or the interests of the State; that he would do me a personal favor if he would fall in with the ideas of Mr. Palmer, as I felt under obligations to him; he said he knew that it was a matter of great interest to the parties, as already approaches had been made to him by the other side; he then began to enlighten me on the subject; said that it would make a difference of millions to one place or the other whether the bill was passed or not; then I said these parties must be willing to pay something to carry their point; he then said that already on the other side approaches had been made to him and he had not made up his mind yet, that Mr. Auer had spoken to him.

I naturally thought from what I had seen of elections that money would be spent in this matter; I also inferred it from Mr. Taylor's remark, as I have stated it. After this I met Mr. Palmer at the train and asked if he would authorize me to make Mr. Richter an offer; he said, "not a cent," that it was Mr. Richter's duty to join with his ideas on the subject. I never offered Mr. Richter any money, nor told him I was authorized to offer him any; did not say I would get him $100, or that I would try to get him $500, or any other sum ; did not say I thought the Chippewa Falls interest would give him $1,000. If Richter or anybody else says so he lies. The interview I have spoken of is all the intercourse I have had with Mr. Palmer or Taylor or Richter about this Dells bill.

PAUL SCHUENGEL.

H. L. PALMER.

A week ago yesterday I was at Mr. Schuengel's place, in Milwaukee, with Mr. Taylor, late Mayor of Chippewa Falls ; after considerable talk between Mr. Schuengel and myself in reference to another subject, I explained to him the effect of the improvement contemplated by the Dells bill upon the interests above Eau Claire as I understand them ; I also informed him that I understood several weeks since that both Richter and Semmann were opposed to the bill, and that within the last week I had understood they were both in favor of the bill.

That we in Milwaukee had no local interest in the measure, that I did not understand why this change had occurred, and that if they could be satisfied it was proper to do so, I should be glad to have their votes against the bill. I asked him whether he was upon good terms, or had influence with Richter. He said, "Yes." I asked him then if he would see Richter. He said he would do so, and thought he could satisfy him he ought to vote against the bill ; said he would see him that afternoon. In some statement I made regarding the effect of the bill, I referred him to Mr. Taylor, as a mill owner on the river, a resident and former mayor of Chippewa Falls. In course of conversation Schuengel intimated that Richter's vote might be had for money. I got that impression from what he said, it may be indirectly.

In reply to that I said we could make no arrangement for anybody's vote for a consideration, that we were not doing that sort of business ; this is about the substance of all that transpired then on that subject ; this conversation was in a side room. Mr. Taylor was also present, and occasionally made a remark ; I had no conversation with him on this subject in a separate room apart from Mr. Taylor ; I think that Taylor assented to my remark to the effect that we were not doing that kind of business, or said the same thing in substance himself ; nothing was said authorizing Schuengel to offer Richter anything for his vote or from which he could imply that he would be protected and backed up in case he did so offer ; I had no intention of leaving any such impression on his mind, and made use of no language to that effect.

The next morning, being Monday, at the depot I met Schuengel again ; I was talking with Mayor Phillips, when Schuengel called me aside, and said he had seen Richter, that he thought his vote might be had against the bill for a money consideration ; he did not put it in exactly that language ; I think he named a sum ; I think the expression he used was that he would vote against the bill for two hundred dollars ; I said, "No, Paul ; we should be very glad to have Mr. Richter's vote, if we can get it by honorable means, but I can't authorize you to pay any money for it, nor to make any arrangement, directly or indirectly, by which he is to receive a compensation for it; for any service that you may render us in the matter the parties in interest will be willing to give you a reasonable compensation."

Before this, Schuengel had stated that he would come to Madison if we wanted him to if I would let him know, and I had said to him if we wanted him I would telegraph. I repeated to him that it must be distinctly understood we would offer no compensation for any man's vote. To this he said, "all right;" and this ended the conversation; I never had any other conversation with him about this matter. We did not send for Schuengel to come to Madison, and he did not come.

I had an interview with C. M. Hoyt, member of Assembly, on Wednesday morning, the day the vote was taken. About two weeks since I met him in Milwaukee; just before I came away, and he asked me if there was any honorable way by which he could get out of coming back to the legislature (he wished to go south); asked if there was any necessity for his coming back, and added that if there was any particular measure in which I was interested, he would come out and vote upon it; I told him that the only question upon which I was especially interested was the Dells question, in which as he knew I was employed as attorney, and I should be glad to have him here to vote on it.

He asked when I expected it would come up in the House, and I told him I thought about the end of the week; he said, "all right I will be there;" later in the week he came out to Madison; I did not see him, however, till I saw him in his seat Saturday morning; that Saturday he went home on the train; the next week he was back here, and on the morning that this bill was coming up I met him in the lower hall as I was going to breakfast; I simply bowed to him and went on; when I came out from breakfast I met him again, at the hotel.

He said he had come out as he agreed to and was going to stay it through, but said he had come away from home without any money and asked if I could lend him $25 or $30. I told him I presumed I could accommodate him. Said he did not want it then, but should in the course of the day. He did not call for it, and I did not lend it to him. Upon the statement he made about his finances, I should have lent him if he had called for it. Nothing was said in that conversation about his vote upon this or any other bill. I saw him again before the session. He said to me then, "I have just received a proposition, (don't know that he said from whom), that for a certain number of votes in favor of the Dells bill, certain parties are willing to pay (I think he said) $400 for each." I think his concluding expression was, "What do you think of that?"

I said "Charley, I think I wouldn't do it." Question—Was he ever under any masonic promise or obligation to you to vote against that bill? Ans.—“Never,” Did he ever ask to be released from such a promise? Ans.—“No.” Did you ever use masonry as a means of influence upon this bill? No; and I should regard a man a very poor and unworthy mason who would; I will state further, that I never solicited Hoyt to vote against the bill; I did not offer to loan him $300 or $500 or any other sum.

I have never paid any money or other thing, or offered or agreed to pay any money or other thing, to any member of this Legislature in consideration of or with a view to influence his vote on the Dells bill or any other bill; that I have never authorized any other person to pay or offer to pay, or make any arrangement or agreement to pay, any consideration to any member for his vote on this bill or any other; I have no knowledge of any money or other consideration being paid or promised or offered to any member for his vote.

H. L. PALMER.

J. A. TAYLOR:

I reside at Chippewa Falls; have been mayor of that place; I was in Milwaukee a week ago yesterday; was with H. L. Palmer at Schuengel's place; most of the time was spent in conversation between Mr. Palmer and Schuengel about another subject. Finally the Dells question was brought up. Schuengel spoke of Richter as a merchantable man; when I mentioned how quick his vote had been changed, he said “he has been bought,” or words to that effect; it was said they were using money on the other side; Mr. Palmer said we were not in that kind of business.

Nothing was said about buying Richter's vote; no offer was made or authorized by either of us of giving Richter anything for his vote; Schuengel promised to see Richter and use his influence; I have not seen Schuengel at any other time; have made no offers of money or placed money in any one's possession in order to secure a vote or votes; do not know of its being done by any one else on either side.

J. A. TAYLOR.

C. M. HOYT recalled.

Last Wednesday morning, I think, I had an interview with H. L. Palmer, and asked him to lend me 25 or $30. He said he would in a few minutes. Subsequently, having lost sight of Mr. Palmer, I borrowed $25 of Mr. Wilson the druggist, and so did not borrow of Palmer; I subsequently borrowed $50 of Mr. Parsons, I have also collected different sums due me on account.

I was never under any masonic promise or obligation to vote against the bill and did not tell Jefferson so; did not make any appointment to meet Jefferson at the Capitol, though I think he requested to know when he could see me, and I told him I would be at the Capitol. I have never received a dollar from anybody with reference to my vote on the Dells bill.

C. M. HOYT.

AUGUST RICHTER.

I repeat, upon reflection, the statement I formerly made as to my interview with Schuengel, and any statement to the contrary is wholly untrue.

AUGUST RICHTER.

V. KNOELL.

Am member of Assembly from Milwaukee county ; I think I had a conversation, some three weeks ago, with Mr. Watts, in a saloon near the Madison bank, about the Dells bill and other things. He was asking how I stood on the question ; I spoke to him, jokingly, about getting money to pay our board bill after the session was over. Mr. Watts appeared to take it seriously ; there was a good deal of such talk about the saloons.

I have never received or been promised anything for my vote upon this question, and know of no one who has, on either side. I wish to say that before the talk I have described with Mr. Watts, we had both stated how we stood on the question ; I was for the bill, and he was against it. It was also mentioned how I had voted for the bill four years ago.

Madison, March 16, 1871.

To the Honorable the Assembly :

No. 168, A.,

An act entitled an act for the relief of the town of Royalton, in the county of Waupaca, and to provide for the draining of the swamp and overflowed lands in said town.

Has been presented to me for signature, from which I deem it my duty to withhold approval

This bill authorizes the town named in the title to draw from the State treasury, and use for drainage purposes, the proceeds of the sales of the lands therein belonging to the normal school fund. The division of the swamp and overflowed lands and the proceeds thereof made by the act of 1865, (chapter 537 of the general laws of that year), ought not in any particular to be disturbed. If one town is allowed this privilege, there is no good reason why another should not be, and in a very short time this fund, which belongs equally to every town in the State, will thus be destroyed.

While the state is erecting costly buildings for the normal schools, and experience is demonstrating that they are among the most important and valuable of our public institutions; while for their support every dollar derivable from this fund is needed, there is every reason why it should not be lessened by such legislation as this.

The objects of this bill are not fully stated in the title; the same gives no intimation that the normal school funds are to be interfered with. I am confident that it would not have received the sanction of the legislature had its provisions been generally understood by the members.

The present disposition of the swamp lands and funds derived therefrom meets with almost universal approbation, and I feel assured that the people of the State would condemn any legislation which opened a door to the diversion of the normal school fund from the sacred use to which it is now devoted.

With these objections, I return the bill to your honorable body in which it originated.

LUCIUS FAIRCHILD.

The question being shall the bill pass,

The objections of his Excellency, the Governor, to the contrary notwithstanding?

The Assembly refused to pass said bill,

By the following vote :

None voting in the affirmative.

Those voting in the negative were Messrs. Arnold, Atwater, Bacon, Bailey, Baker, Ball, Barnard, Bowen, Bremner, D. W. Briggs, P. R. Briggs, Dana, Davis, Dick, Eastman, Field, Galaghan, Hall, Hammond, Harris, Heimdal, Hixon, Hoskins, Humphrey, Jeffers, Judd, Keenan, King, Knell, Lonergan, Marvin, Maxon, McCormick, McDill, McIntosh, Merrill, Meyer, Mihills, Montgomery, More, Moulton, Oetting, Orton, Pease, Pengra, O. His Excellency, LUCIUS FAIRCHILD.

Governor of Wisconsin,

SIR : The undersigned, your petitioners respectfully represent, that on or about the year 1850, Nicholas Hemman, Nicholas Reich, Michael Groff, Joseph Welster, Charles Peter and Jacob Lautgen or their grantors, became the purchasers from the State of Wisconsin of the lands hereinafter described to wit: Lots 1, 2 and 3, or the north-west fractional quarter and the north half of the south-west fractional quarter of section 18, in town 12 north of range 23 east, in Ozaukee county, Wisconsin, containing about one hundred and seventy acres, the said lands being so purchased or now held in parcels by the said parties respectively; that the total amount paid therefor was the sum ——— dollars; that under the patents issued therefor the parties aforesaid went into possession and occupation of said lands, and made great and valuable improvements thereon, the improvements so made being of the value in the whole of not less than the sum of eight thousand dollars; that such improvements were so made in good faith and while relying upon the title so acquired from the State of Wisconsin.

And your petitioners further represent that one John F. Johnson now claims to have the title to said lands under a patent from the United States, issued therefor to one Andrew Jackson, in the year 1865. That your petitioners do not deem it necessary to state the reasons, omissions and errors, because of which the State of Wisconsin was induced to issue its patents for lands, the title to which was then in the United States, but that it is sufficient to say that such is the fact and that thereby the parties named have made great expenditures which they are likely to lose, to their great and irretrievable injury. That the said John F. Johnson caused an action of ejectment to be brought in the United States District Court for the then district of Wisconsin against one of the parties above named, to recover the possession of so much of said premises as were held by him, and although said action was by able counsel diligently and faithfully defended, yet, on or about the twentieth day of April, A.D. 1870 judgment in favor of the said Johnson and against said party was rendered therein; that like actions were at the same time brought against each other of the parties named, and under a stipulation made in each of the same to abide the decision in the action first referred to, the plaintiff is entitled to judgment therein at the term of the United States District Court for the eastern district of Wisconsin, to-wit: in the month of April next.

And your petitioners further represent that the said John F. Johnson, the plaintiff in said action, has expressed his willingness and entered into agreements with said parties to settle the said actions and transfer to them his interest in their lands aforesaid respectively, upon the receipt from them of the sum of fifteen dollars per acre—a sum in the whole amounting to $2,550—which sum must be by them paid, under such agreement on or before the sitting of said court in April next. That said sum is much less than the value of the plaintiff's interest in said lands, and much less than, in case of a recovery against them, they will lose, and much less than the sum which in equity the state should repay to them.

Wherefore your petitioner prays that with all convenient speed you will send to the legislature a communication setting forth the nature of the claim of said parties, and asking in their name that the state shall make an appropriation for such payments to them as will enable them to make the proposed settlements with said Johnson, and in all will so appropriate the sum of $2,550, and the costs of suit, at the present session; and your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

Dated, March 17, 1871.

N. S. TURNER,
Petitioner for NICHOLAS HEMMEN,
NICHOLAS REICH,
MICHAEL GROFF,
JOSEPH WESTER,
CHARLES PETER,
JACOB LAUTGEN.

On motion of Mr. Maxon,
The above communication was referred to the committee on Claims.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

Madison, March 17, 1871:

To the Honorable, the Assembly :

No. 613, A.,

An act entitled an act to vacate a part of the plat of the city of Hudson, in St. Croix county, Wisconsin,

Has been presented to me for approval, from which I deem it my duty to withhold my signature.

In addition to the general objection to this kind of legislation, is the fact that a bill to vacate the same plat described in this bill was introduced and passed by the Legislature of 1868, from which the Executive withheld approval. Now, after a lapse of three years, the same relief is sought again at the hands of the present Legislature, and is granted.

Under the provisions of chapter 85 of the general laws of 1866, county supervisors are vested with power to alter or vacate any city, town or village plat. The circuit court, also, has power to alter or vacate any portion of a town, city or village plat. In each of these tribunals due notice is required to be given to all parties interested.

The question naturally arises why have not the parties desiring this vacation applied to the local tribunals having power to grant it, where all interested could have an opportunity to be heard, and where their rights could be properly protected? It seems fair to presume that such application would have been made, instead of coming again to the legislature, if there were no valid objections to granting the vacation to be effected by this bill.

Doubting the propriety of granting the relief sought under such circumstances, I return this bill without approval.

LUCIUS FAIRCHILD.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

MADISON, March 17, 1871.

To the Honorable, the Assembly :

No. 612, A.,

An act entitled an act to vacate the village plat of the village of De Soto, in St. Croix county, Wisconsin,

Has been presented to me for signature, from which I deem it my duty to withhold approval.

A bill to vacate the plat described in the bill herewith returned, was passed by the Legislature of 1868, and failed to become a law by not receiving the Executive approval.

I therefore return it with the same objections stated in a message this day sent to your honorable body, accompanying a bill to vacate a part of the city plat of the city of Hudson.

LUCIUS FAIRCHILD.

Mr. Arnold moved that the consideration of the executive message relative to bills

Orton dissenting.

O. S. POWELL,
A. ROOD.

The minority of the committee to whom was referred
No. 672, A.,
A bill to incorporate the Prescott, River Falls and Northern Railroad Company,
Begs leave to report that, not being able to agree with the majority of the committee, he respectfully suggests that the amendments of the Senate to said bill may, and probably will, have the effect to defeat a law already passed at this session, fixing the city of Hudson, on Lake St. Croix, as the terminus of the West Wisconsin Railroad, and to render it possible, if not probable, that said road will not be built to said city of Hudson, but a line of the road contemplated by this bill, will be built in its place to terminate in this State opposite Stillwater, in the State of Minnesota, which will have the effect to utterly destroy the city of Hudson, in this State.
The minority begs leave further to suggest, that it is not essential to the ostensible objects of this bill, that the amendment of the Senate, authorizing an indefinite and floating line, beyond the point of junction with the West Wisconsin Railroad, should be adopted. If the author is sincere in the apparent objects of his bill, it will do him or his bill no harm to adopt the amendment herewith reported and recommended.

Respectfully submitted,

H. S. ORTON,
Minority of the Committee

The amendments reported by the minority of the committee to the senate amendments to said bill, were as follows :

First. " Amend amendment to section 5 by inserting after the word " thence," the words, on the most direct and feasible route through the towns of Richmond or Star Prairie, in Saint Croix county to the town of Osceola, Polk county, or to St. Croix Falls, said Polk county."

Second. Amend amendment to section 5 by inserting after the word "river," where the same occurs in said amendment, the words "at or above the south line of Polk county,"

Which were lost.

The Senate amendments were then concurred in.

The Select committee to whom was referred bill

No. 250, S.,

A bill to provide for liens in certain cases, have had the same under consideration, and respectfully report same back to the house and recommend its passage.

EXECUTIVE MESSAGE.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

MADISON, March 22, 1871.

To the Honorable, the Assembly :

No. 1, A.,

An act entitled "an act to incorporate the Chippewa River Improvement and Booming Company,

Has been presented to me for signature. I am compelled, by the strongest considerations of duty to withhold executive approval, and to return the bill to your honorable body, in which it originated.

The bill confers upon a number of persons named therein as corporators important and valuable franchises. I read from the journal of the proceedings of your honorable body, on pages 839 and 840, the sworn testimony of one of these corporators, in which he avows that he did indirectly attempt to purchase the vote of a member of the Assembly in favor of the passage of this bill, and that for such purchase, if effected, he proposed to furnish the means. This avowal is fully corroborated by the uncontradicted testimony of another witness on pages 836 and 837 of your journals. Notwithstanding this fact, established by his own evidence, the bill is sent to the Executive for approval with his name remaining therein as one of the corporators to receive and enjoy the benefits of the provisions of the bill.

No word of condemnation has been officially expressed by the Legislature against this breach of the privileges of your honorable body and the person confessedly guilty thereof has been invested with every privilege he sought, and to obtain which he stood ready to use, and tried to use such corrupt means. Instead of being punished he has been rewarded. Instead of being rebuked, he has been by inference commended by the granting, immediately upon the disclosure of his corrupt conduct, of a franchise, which it is claimed will result in great advantage to himself.

I cannot believe that this would have been done had not the heat and excitement of the contest on this bill prevented a calm consideration of these grave bearings of the case. I know that you are not willing to even seem to encourage corruption. You would not

I seem to say that when parties come and ask for special and honorable privileges, the fact that they seek to use the most reprehensible means will not injure their application. If such construction can be placed upon the acts of a legislature, it is an advertisement to the world that corruption is not held in abhorrence. Is not honor of the State at stake in this matter? Is it not our duty to condemn, in the strongest terms, such conduct on the part of any man who is an applicant for favors or special rights? Is it not our duty to deny such favors when sought by such means?

By the laws of this State (revised statutes, chapter nine), it is a breach of the privileges of your body, punishable as a contempt, to give or offer a bribe to a member, or to attempt by any indirect means, directly or indirectly, to control or influence a member in giving his vote. It is also declared a misdemeanor and punishable by fine or imprisonment. By other statutes of the State, more stringent in their provisions, acts of the kind, admitted by the testimony referred to, are classed among the gravest offenses against public policy and punishable with severe penalties.

In addition to the evidence disclosed upon your journal, I am informed by a communication presented to me, signed by forty-one members of the Legislature, that in their opinion, formed upon their knowledge as members, the bill has been aided in its passage by bribery and corruption, and that, under the circumstances, it would be a reproach to the good name and reputation of the Legislature, an outrage on individual rights and a disgrace to the State to suffer the bill to become a law.

An additional proof has been this day presented to me, that undue and corrupt means have been sought to be used by the statement of a member of the present Senate to the effect that he was approached by one interested in the bill, and directly offered the sum of ten thousand dollars if he would favor it and vote for its passage.

To his honor be it said, that he was incorruptible.

With such statements and the published proofs before me, I can no longer affix my name to the bill. This is the first time, to my knowledge, in many years that such charges have been made, and inasmuch as it is my duty to take such official action as will tend to deter in the future any man from endeavouring to influence the course of legislation by corrupt and criminal means.

I deeply regret that this painful duty has devolved upon me. I regret it because the corporator whose conduct I am forced to condemn, has been for many years a valuable personal friend. I regret it because among those who are anxious for the passage of this bill are many personal friends for whom I entertain a high regard. I more do I regret it, because my action will bring deep disappointment to many who have favored the bill from the purest motives and strongest convictions of its justice, and sought to secure its passage only by the most honorable means.

Now it is alleged that others have been guilty of attempts to corrupt members, and that undue influence and unlawful means have been attempted to secure the defeat as well as the passage of this bill. It is a fact to be sorrowfully regretted such criminations and recriminations are daily circulated about the capitol. This ought not to be suffered to rest as mere charges. They should at once be investigated, and if true, the guilty should be punished; if false, the calumny should be branded as it deserves.

The time has certainly come when those who seek favors or privileges at the hands of the legislature, must be made to distinctly understand that their application must stand on its merits alone, and be free from even a suspicion of corruption, and that the use of such means, as I am compelled to advert to, either for or against a measure, will meet on all hands with the strongest reprobation and speedy punishment, and that no man can be invested with rights and franchises who has sought to procure them by criminal means. If this is not done, every honest man may well tremble for the future legislation of the State.

It is to be regretted that this measure may come again before the legislature, should you concur in the views herein expressed. But if it so come no man will dare to attempt to secure its passage or defeat by improper means. It is to be regretted that the interest of any man or set of men may suffer by the action I feel compelled to take on this bill. But it is better that laudable enterprises should fail than that any ground should be given for the belief that legislation in this State can be bought with a price. Unscrupulous men should be taught that any measure submitted to the law-making power will be imperilled, and not advanced when corrupt practices are resorted to in order to secure its passage.

This is no light matter and rises far higher in importance than the well being of any man or set of men or any locality. Every man in the state is interested in keeping our halls of legislation untainted by even the approach of those who dare offer a bribe. I make no objection to the bill in regard to its merits. Any other bill presented to me under similar circumstances would be returned for like reason.

I have patiently heard and carefully considered all the arguments which have been offered against the action I have here taken. I know they have been urged in all sincerity and friendship. But, without violence to my highest convictions of duty, I cannot let this occasion pass without administering to those who have thus sought to stain the honor of the State the rebuke which they deserve.

LUCIUS FAIRCCHILD.

The question being shall the bill pass the objections of his Excellency, the Governor, to the contrary notwithstanding?

To the Honorable the Assembly :

In compliance with Assembly resolution No. 41, A., I have the honor herewith to lay before your honorable body a true copy of communication signed by forty-one members of the Legislature, and referred to in Executive message, dated March 22d inst., vetoing Assembly bill No. 1, which communication was presented to me, and filed in the Executive office on the 21st day of March inst.

LUCIUS FAIRCHILD.

MADISON, March 17, 1871.

To His Excellency the Governor :

The undersigned Senators and Representatives beg leave most respectfully to represent to your Excellency that, in their opinion, the facts and circumstances, which are notorious, connected with the passage of "the bill to incorporate the Chippewa River Improvement and Booming Company" fully justify and demand the withholding of the Executive approval.

We believe that the passage of said bill has been aided, if not secured, by the use of bribery and corruption.

We believe that sufficient evidence on this point to justify ourselves, and yourself, in coming to this conclusion, is shadowed forth if not contained, in the report of the Assembly investigating committee.

To permit a bill of so much importance to individual and material interests, passed by such a meager majority in each house, and under such circumstances to become a law, we conceive would be a reproach to the good name and reputation of the Legislature, and outrage on individual rights, and a disgrace to the state of Wisconsin.

For these reasons, thus briefly stated, we do most earnestly pray your excellency to withhold from said bill your executive approval.

[Signed.]

MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE,

O. R. SMITH, Chief Clerk thereof.

SPEAKER :

is directed to inform you that the Senate has concurred in

Res. No. 38, A.,

providing for a joint select committee to wait upon his Excellency Governor, relative to final adjournment.

The President has appointed as such committee, on the part of the Senate,

Members Cameron and Woodman.

The joint select committee appointed under

Res. No. 38, A., wait upon the Governor relative to the final adjournment, report that they have discharged that duty and have to inform the Assembly that His Excellency had no further communication to

As the hour fixed for the final adjournment having arrived, the Speaker made the following remarks, which on motion of Mr. Orton, were ordered to be entered on the Journal :

*Members of the Assembly :—*The time has arrived which has been provided by joint resolution for final adjournment. Before performing my official act as your presiding officer, I desire to tender you my most profound and respectful thanks for your kind support and courtesy which has been extended to me, and for the compliment which you have been pleased to bestow upon my official conduct. The unanimity with which the expression of approbation was given affords the most gratifying assurance that we have in some measure succeeded in carrying out the determination declared at the beginning of the session, to "earnestly endeavour to discharge the duties that pertain to this responsible position, honestly and impartially."

It comes me to acknowledge that if I have been successful in administration of the duties of the Chair, that success is largely due to the considerate kindness with which you have always sustained me, and to the dignity and propriety invariably exhibited by you. We now separate, each to return to his constituency, to bide their judgment upon his official action.

While, as in all deliberative bodies, some errors may have been committed, my opinion is that a greater amount of useful general legislation has been performed than has often been done at one session.

A more laborious legislative body never convened, and the desire to promote the best interests of the state has universally prevailed.

And now, gentlemen, tendering you all my warmest and most earnest wishes for future success, prosperity and happiness, nothing remains but to bid you each and all an affectionate farewell, and to perform the only remaining duty of my office, in declaring, as I now do, that the Assembly is adjourned sine die.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

THE LEGISLATURE:

We should be wanting in gratitude did we not thankfully recognize and appreciate the many blessings which have been vouchsafed us during the year just closed. In all that contributes both to the spiritual and material welfare of a people—all that contributes to their comfort and happiness—our heavenly Father has blessed us beyond our needs.

In submitting the annual reports of the several State departments and institutions, I congratulate you upon the fact that they show the public affairs of the State to be in a prosperous condition. Our State polity is so wisely adapted to the needs of the people, and so favorable to the growth and prosperity of the commonwealth, as to require but few changes at your sessions, and those rather of detail than of system.

By the reports of the Secretary of State and State Treasurer it will be seen that the balance in the State Treasury belonging to the various funds, at the close of the last fiscal year, was $3,627 11.

The receipts and disbursements of the general fund, during the last fiscal year, were as follows:

RECEIPTS.

tax and tax on suits	$583,151 20
road companies, taxes	247,296 72
stage companies, taxes and fees	88,950 81
plankroads, banks, peddlers, and other sources	17,297 89
Total	886,696 12

DISBURSEMENTS.

annuities	$77,826 05
operative expenses—session of 1870	95,838 94
and charitable institutions	328,908 86
to complete the State capitol	45,238 90
interest on State debt	159,962 28
miscellaneous	198,505 05
Total	906,329 88

The above disbursements are properly classified by the Secretary of State, as follows:

For State institutions	$328,908 34
For State capitol completion.....	45,238 90
For interest on State debt	159,952 28
For special appropriation and other extraordinary expenses	55,849 73
Giving a total of	$589,949 27

Which deducted from the total disbursements, leaves as the ordinary current expenses of the State the sum of.....	$316,380 31
The same expenses for 1869 amounted to the sum of.....	314,405 86

STATE DEBT.

The amount of the State debt has not been changed during the year, being for--

State bonds outstanding.....	$68,200 00
Certificates of indebtedness to the trust funds of the State.....	2,183,800 00
Currency certificates outstanding.....	57 00
	$2,252,057 00

The resources of the State for 1871 are as follows:

State tax levied in 1870.....	$720,323 24
Railroad taxes, estimated.....	265,000 00
Insurance companies taxes, estimated.....	60,000 00
Miscellaneous sources, estimated.....	21,500 00
	$1,066,823 24

The estimated expenditures are:

For salaries and permanent appropriations.....	$146,292 12
Legislative expenses, present session.....	88,000 00
Interest on State debt.....	157,640 00
State prison and charitable institutions.....	806,000 00

Due on appropriation for University building	40,000 00
Miscellaneous, printing, publishing laws, gas, fuel, &c.	90,000 00
Due general fund.....	101,875 98
	$1,041,746 64
Balance	$25,076 60

It must be borne in mind that should you appropriate more than the amount of the above balance for extraordinary purposes, the result will be a deficiency in the general fund at the close of the year. It is entirely safe to carry a deficiency of at $25,000.00, which, with the above balance gives for ding purposes or other extraordinary expenditures, should be determined upon, the sum of $50,000.00 this year. Should you find it necessary to appropriate more than the above sum for such purposes, the excess should be made payable during the year 1872, so that the financial officers may find themselves embarrassed with a deficiency in the general and greater than can be provided for.

It is not necessary for me to urge the propriety of the great prudence in making appropriations for the year. Economy has long been the general rule in our State affairs; extravagance and waste the rare exceptions. The State can afford to do anything which is right, and necessary to be done. Provide for doing that, and no more, and the people will not complain.

There was expended from the Governor's contingent fund, $107.61. Balance in the fund, $492.65. A small appropriation should be made to the fund.

TRUST FUNDS.

The last legislature adopted the system of loaning the trust funds to school districts for the erection of school buildings, enacting a number of laws, each authorizing such loan to a certain district, instead of one general law to govern all loans on the funds. Such general law should be enacted, giving commissioners of school and university lands discretion to loan to districts as application is made; the sum to be limited to a small per cent. of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the district; the terms and time of payment specified, and power to collect principal and interest to be vested in the Secretary of State, with authority to levy and collect a penalty whenever such payments are not promptly made. I know of no better way to invest these funds. It is safe, because the loan is made upon perfectly good security, the State reserves the power to compel payment according to contract, and it enables the people to use their educational funds for educational purposes. It is a great improvement on the original plan of loaning to individuals for purposes of private speculation, too often upon doubtful security. Total productive educational funds, $3,325,642.24. The increase last year amounted to $160,031.41.

SCHOOL AND UNIVERSITY LANDS.

The State has now for sale 386,504 acres of school land; 10,440 acres university land, and 105,879 acres agricultural college land. Heretofore these lands have been sold at too low a price per acre. The educational funds have suffered this loss in order to hasten the settlement of the localities in which the lands are situated. This is not right. The State should be as prudent in selling these lands as is the individual proprietor who desires to make the most of them.

They are held as a trust by the State, to be disposed of honestly and judiciously, for the benefit of the educational funds. Whatever excuse there may have been in the past for selling them at a low price, it no longer exists. They are being purchased mainly by speculators, and the actual settlers, when they buy them, will have to pay to the dealer a large profit which the funds ought to realize. The fact that speculators are eager to buy plainly shows that the lands are selling for less than their value. Every dollar that they are worth to the settler ought to enure to the funds. I therefore recommend that all these lands be immediately withdrawn from market, and that they be carefully appraised before any further sales are made. They are now sold at the following prices per acre: University land, average $2.00; school land, average $1.13; agricultural college land, $1.25.

The number of acres of land sold by the State during the past fiscal year was 175,410.

WAR CLAIMS.

total amount of the claims against the United States incidental arming, equipping, subsisting and transporting troops sent to field, was..... $1,742,202 98

which the United States has paid as follows:

Orders of quarter master general's certified amounts.....	$497,632 08

Another special settlement is soon to be made upon elucidations recently sent to the Third Auditor's office, which it is idently expected will result in a further allowance of at least $60,000, though probably $80,000.

I am confident that the State authorities will be able to convince the auditing officers that nearly the whole of these claims should be paid. Every effort will be made to do so.
 The explanations and further proofs have been prepared and issued by Gen. W. W. Tredway, who was appointed State auditor for that purpose. He has discharged the arduous duties imposed upon him with great efficiency, and to the entire satisfaction of the State authorities.

ASSESSMENT OF PROPERTY FOR TAXATION.

Our attention is called to the remarks of the Secretary of the State, in his report, regarding the unequal assessment of property for taxation in different portions of the State.
 The disparity in the values of the same kind of property is glaring as to call for some stringent legislation. As an example, the Secretary pertinently enquires, "Why should horses be valued at $92 19 in Bayfield, and only $8 85 in Keweenaw? or $76 26 in Clark, $75 58 in Dunn, $63 14 in Rock and $63 95 in Walworth, and only $16 75 in Manitowoc, and $27 88 in Brown?" He states that there is the same disparity in the values of other classes of taxable property.

The value of the taxable property, as fixed by the State Board of Assessment, is $455,900,800. The State tax levied last year amounted to $720,323 24, being 1 58-100 cents on the dollar. One hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars of this sum is to be expended in erecting buildings for State institutions. From the census statistics I learn that the total tax levied in 1869, by counties, cities and towns in this State, was $4,753,815. This sum is very much less than was actually levied and collected.

BOUNTIES ON WILD ANIMALS.

It is strongly suspected that much fraud is practiced, by obtaining our state bounty for killing wolves, lynxes and wild-cats which were not killed in the State. The Secretary of State estimates that at least $15,000 will be expended this year for such bounties, hence it is worth your while to enquire how it happens that so large a proportion of the claims of this character come from counties bordering on other States.

LIBRARIES.

Large and valuable additions have been made to the library of the State Historical Society, 2,000 volumes of books and 1,300 pamphlets and documents having been received during the past year, making an aggregate of 45,500 books and pamphlets in its possession. The society is constantly increasing its facilities for usefulness, and is resorted to for reference purposes by people from all portions of the State. Its sphere of usefulness would be greatly enlarged if a catalogue of its valuable collections were published.

The State Library contains 8,935 volumes, 528 having been added during the past year.

There are in the State 2,857 libraries, which contain 880,508 volumes.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS.

The people having, at the last election, adopted the amendment to the State constitution authorizing the abrogation of the grand jury system, appropriate legislation is necessary to give effect to the will of the people.

The last Legislature adopted a joint resolution, proposing an amendment to the constitution prohibiting special legislation on certain subjects. I recommend that you agree to the same. If submitted to the people it will, I doubt not, be adopted by an almost unanimous vote, and when it shall have become a part of our fundamental law, one of the greatest evils of our system of legislation will be removed, and future legislators will be relieved from a vast amount of labor which is not only of no benefit, but a positive injury to the State. The adoption of this amendment will diminish the legislation of the State more than one half.

REVISED STATUTES.

Your attention is called to the fact that but 145 copies of the revised statutes are now in the hands of the Secretary of State. Heretofore at least 200 copies have been required yearly to meet the demands of the legislature and public officers. A revision or at least a compilation of the statutes cannot in justice to the wants of the people, be longer delayed. Many of the most important of our statutes relating to internal administration, which always should be compactly codified, are scattered through the volumes of session laws published since the last revision. Such a multiplicity of acts has been passed, at the same and different sessions of the legislature, upon the same subject, some of which are indexed and others not, as to compel the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court to remark in a recent decision, that "an accurate knowledge of our statute law has become almost impossible."

INDUSTRIAL STATISTICS.

The statistics compiled from the census recently taken, and given in the report of the Secretary of State, show a rapid increase in wealth and population. In 1860 the population of the State was 775,881. It is now 1,055,559, a gain of 36 per cent. The increase of manufactures has more than kept pace with the increase of population, as shown by the following statement:

	1860.	1870.	Increase.	Inc per ct.
No. of establishments	3,063	7,136	4,072	1 32
No. of hands employed	15,414	39,055	23,641	1 53
Value of products	$27,849,467	$85,624,966	$57,775,499	2 07

The number of acres of improved lands, which in 1859 was 3,746,167, has increased to 5,795,538, nearly 55 per cent.

In 1859, 15,637,458 bushels of wheat were produced. The yield of 1869 was 25,323,647 bushels, a gain of nearly 62 per cent. The other grains grown in 1859 amounted to 20,323,647 bushels, in 1869, to 37,739,067 bushels.

The present indications point to a more rapid growth in the immediate future than in the several years past. The increasing demand for public lands, the projecting of numerous railways through portions of the State now comparatively thinly settled, the constantly increasing volume of immigration, the tide of manufacturing capital now flowing westward and seeking investment in favorable localities, all give promise that the decade upon which we have entered will be marked by an activity and prosperity beyond all our past experience.

The State and County Agricultural, and the State Horticultural Societies, continue to be actively useful as aids to our industrial prosperity, in disseminating practical knowledge among the people. They are worthy of such encouragement and support as the State can properly give.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Under the provisions of chapter 137, general laws of 1870, I appointed John Murrish, Esq., to survey the lead district, make maps, and collect specimens illustrating the same. He has, I believe, faithfully discharged the duty, and his detailed report is herewith submitted for your information. I call your special attention to the necessity for such reasonable encouragement as you can properly give to stimulate our mining interests.

I have heretofore recommended that provision be made for a thorough geological survey of the whole State. Time strengthens my conviction that it is unwise economy to withhold the little that is necessary to thoroughly explore our vast natural resources, and give to the world a full, scientific account of their nature and extent. Such an advertisement of our hidden wealth cannot fail to bring to the State millions of capital for investment, and, by the creation of new industries, to open up on every hand other avenues to prosperity.

REFORM SCHOOL.

There is no school in the State doing more good than the Reform School at Waukesha. It is admirably managed in every respect. I regard it as among the most important of our institutions, and believe that it should be afforded every facility for the proper care and education of all who may be committed to its charge. The trustees report that another family building is necessary, the cost of which will be $16,000. They now have an opportunity to purchase a tract of land adjacent to the premises which is much needed, and as the opportunity will not occur again to purchase the same on favorable terms, an appropriation of $4,000 should be made for the purpose. Whole number of pupils in attendance during the past year, 293; number October 1, 1870, 208; amount expended for the support of the school during the past year $32,103.04. The new building for work shops has been erected in a substantial manner at a cost of about $17,000.00; the appropriation being only $12,000.00. The current expenses of 1871 are estimated at $32,000.00—to pay deficiency for 1870, $6,228. The last legislature having by law prohibited the commitment of girls to this school, the question now arises for your consideration, what shall be done with that class of girls who ought to have the benefit of the restraining influences of such an institution? Can we afford to neglect them, and allow them to grow up to be a curse to themselves and society? Ought not the State to make every effort to save them from becoming vagabonds, and lead them to lives of usefulness? It is not what these children are now which we have cause to fear, but what they are certain to become if not properly protected. I commend this subject to your earnest attention, as one of the most important you will have before you for consideration.

STATE PRISON.

On the second of May last the workshops of the State Prison were destroyed by fire. Immediately after the disaster the commissioner commenced making arrangements to rebuild. The sum of money appropriated by the last Legislature was not sufficient to defray the expense. To call the Legislature together in extra session would have involved a large expenditure of money, and unnecessarily subjected the members to great inconvenience; therefore, in view of the fact that six banks in the State generously offered to advance to the Commissioner $30,000, and that a large portion of the machinery and material for rebuilding was offered upon credit and favorable terms, it was wisely determined by Lieutenant-Governor Pound, who at that time was acting Governor, not to call an extra session. The banks referred to are the National Exchange Bank, of Milwaukee; The Milwaukee National Bank, of Wisconsin, The Wisconsin Marine and Fire Insurance Co. Bank, The State Bank, of Madison, The First National Bank of Madison, and the Bank of Madison. Each have honored the draft of the Commissioner for $5,000. The new building is well constructed, substantial and practically fire-proof. The machinery is of the most approved kind, and the whole establishment has been so arranged as to be one of the most convenient and economical chair factories in the country. It is believed that the same number of men can turn out nearly double the number of chairs that could be made with the conveniences and machinery of the shop destroyed. If that proves to be true, the fire will have been an advantage instead of a disaster. The total loss by the fire was about $70,000. The Commissioner asks an appropriation of $33,000 for current expense account, and for payment of debt and purchase of stock, $55,000. I believe this will be the last large appropriation which will ever be required for that institution. If nothing unforeseen occurs it will be nearly, if not quite, self-supporting. Its affairs are ably administered by Commissioner Wheeler, and his report is very complete in all its details. On the first of this month there were 217 convicts in this prison.

CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

From the reports of the various boards of trustees having charge of the State charitable institutions, and from a personal inspection of each of them, I feel warranted in asserting that they are all in excellent condition; that the officers are laboring faithfully and efficiently for the good of those whose care devolves upon them, and that the results attained compare more than favorably with those of other like institutions throughout the Union.

One hundred and forty-four pupils receive instruction at the Institute for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb during the past year. One hundred and twenty-two were present at the close of the year, being twenty-four more than ever before at one time. Total expenditures, including all repairs and improvements, $28,834 93. Estimated expenditures for 1871, including extensive repairs and permanent improvements, $38,864 00.

The disbursements for the support of the Institute for the Education of the Blind amounted to $19,722 40. For the completion of the new building, $22,158 45. The total cost of the whole structure has been about $155,655 00. It is in every respect suitable for the purposes for which it was erected, and will probably afford ample room for the accommodation of the school for the next twenty years. Sixty-four pupils received instruction during the past year. Estimated expenditures for current expenses this year, $18,000 00, and for payment of indebtedness, lighting apparatus, school apparatus and steam pump an appropriation of $6,973 50 is asked for. Both of these schools give excellent instruction.

The Soldiers' Orphans' Home school has fully maintained its creditable standard during the year. The children have been well cared for in all respects. Those in charge have endeavored to give them a home in fact, as well as in name, and have succeeded admirably. Nor is this home given to them as a charity, but as a portion of the great debt due them from the people. The children are making the most of their opportunities, and will bring no discredit upon the State when they shall have gone forth into the world to care for themselves. Whole number of pupils in attendance during the year, 381. Amount expended for their support, $41,877 40. Current expenses for 1871 are estimated at $40,000 00.

Six pupils from the Home are attending the State Normal School at Whitewater, fitting themselves to become teachers. I recommend that a larger number be allowed this privilege.

The trustees of the Hospital for the Insane, report the institution not only out of debt at the close of the last fiscal year, but with funds on hand sufficient to defray all expenses of the first quarter of the present. Valuable improvements have been made, additional farm lands have been purchased and the whole property is in excellent condition. The only objection to the site is about to be removed by the establishment of a station within half a mile of the building, on the Baraboo and Madison railroad. The farm gave a clear profit of $5,285.74 during the last year. Whole number of patients treated during the year 532. Average number 360. Current expenses for the year $80,518.37. Expended for permanent improvements $7,344.94. Since the Hospital was first established there has been expended by the State for land, buildings, and permanent improvements, $432,310.05. There has been expended for the treatment and support of the insane inmates, including ordinary repairs of buildings and furniture, $445,123.74. The current expenses for this year are estimated at $75,000.00, and $17,200.00 are reported to be required for additional improvements and clothing for poor inmates.

Pursuant to the act passed by the last legislature I appointed Wyman Spooner, H. H. Giles, E. W. Young, H. N. Smith, Parlan Semple and J. T. Kingston, commissioners to act with Dr. A. S. McDill, superintendent of the hospital at Madison, in selecting a site for an additional institution for the insane. An eligible location was made in the town of Oshkosh, on the banks of Lake Winnebago, where a tract of land, containing three hundred and thirty-seven 66-100 acres was purchased by the commissioners for $10,000. This sum has been paid, and the land duly conveyed to the State. Immediately after the location was completed, I appointed E. M. Danforth, A. M. Skeels and D. W. Maxon, building commissioners. They have adopted plans and advertised for proposals to erect such portion of the building as the present law provides for.

The necessity for more accommodations for the insane becomes every day more apparent, and it is the duty of the State to provide without delay for the proper care of at least five hundred of these unfortunates who are now penned up in our jails, poor-houses and private dwellings. The additional hospital should be completed as soon as possible. When this is done, and the present hospital enlarged to the size originally contemplated, by the addition of two wings, we shall have hardly sufficient room to receive all who require hospital treatment. I know that I am recommending the immediate expenditure of much money, but, gentlemen, I cannot forget that there are hundreds of insane persons suffering for want of these hospitals. No one can visit our jails, poor-houses, or dwelling houses, where insane persons are confined, and see how much their misery is aggravated by the want of proper care, without being convinced that the State ought to act promptly and liberally in this matter. The insane can be properly treated only in institutions designed for that purpose. These cannot be provided by counties or cities. Justice and economy alike dictate that the State should establish and maintain them, and humanity protests against delay in so doing.

I have heretofore recommended the founding of a state school for the education of feeble-minded children. The experience of other states where they are in operation has shown that such schools are nearly, if not quite, as beneficial in their results as those established for the education of the deaf and dumb, or the blind. The education of this class of unfortunates, the highest possible development of their feeble faculties, is due them from the state. Nor should it be regarded as a charity, to be grudgingly bestowed, but a duty, to be cheerfully performed. In changing their lives from a curse to a blessing; in reclaiming them from a life of abject wretchedness; in saving them from sinking, with advancing years into hopeless idiocy, society will reap the highest reward for the performance of a sacred duty. I bespeak for these children your earnest, practical sympathy. In a few years the property in Madison now occupied for the Orphans' Home will be available for the accommodation of this school. If it shall be established immediately, only temporary arrangements will be required.

Senators M. H. Pettit, E. S. Miner and S. D. Burchard, and

Assemblymen Matthew Keenan, Willard Merrill, G. C. Swayne, G. T. Thorn, W. P. Rounds and H. A. Chase were appointed members of the visiting committee of the state. They have made a very thorough examination of the affairs of the state penal and charitable institutions, and visited the charitable institutions of the city of Milwaukee. Their report will be laid before you at an early day.

I again submit for your consideration the policy of reducing the number of each board of trustees having charge of our benevolent institutions to five, and that there be established a State Board of Charities, which shall have the general oversight of them all, and over the Reform School, and the county jails and poor-houses, with full authority to enter and examine into their general management, at all times, and to be required to report to the State annually. I am fully convinced that such a board will be of very great practical benefit to the State, and of much assistance to the trustees having immediate control of the institutions. Such has been the experience of every state which has organized such a body. This change will tend to secure the greatest possible economy, uniformity and progress in the management of the interests thus placed under supervision.

EDUCATIONAL.

It is a source of real pleasure that I am able to say to you that our system of education continues to meet with the hearty approval of the great mass of the people. The common schools have been well sustained during the past year, and are steadily drawing nearer that state of perfection which it should be our aim to have them attain. For this we are indebted, in a great measure, to the teachers. They manifest a zeal in their labors, an appreciation of the responsibilities of their high calling, and an emulation to excel, that merits the warmest commendation. The district and graded schools should be the best in the State, and I hope to see them reach this point of excellence at no distant day. The State authorities, by judicious encouragement, can do much to hasten this consummation.

Notwithstanding the satisfaction we may feel in view of the success of our common schools, the fact that over fifty thousand children do not attend school in the State stands forth a warning to the people that fifty thousand children are growing up in their midst to be men and women who are not fitting themselves to become intelligent, useful citizens. Too many of them will, in consequence of their ignorance, be vagabonds, fitted only for prisons, brothels, and poor-houses. Firmly believing that this source of future danger to the State should be removed, and that no parent has a right to thus rear a child, I renew the recommendation presented in the last annual message, for the enactment of such a law as will compel each child in the State of proper age, under ordinary circumstances, to attend school a given number of months each year, for a reasonable number of years.

From the report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, I learn that the—

Number of children over four and under twenty years of age is.....	412,481
Number that attended school during the past year.....	264,525
Number of school districts in the State.....	4,802
Number of teachers required to teach the schools.....	5,661
Amount expended for public educational purposes.....	$2,094,160

There was apportioned, during the year, to the school districts from the school fund income $159,271.38.

The State normal schools at Whitewater and Platteville have thus far fully satisfied the expectations of the people. They are doing the work for which they were established in such manner as to reflect great credit upon the gentlemen having them in charge. The school building at Oshkosh has been completed, and is a structure of which the State may be proud. It has cost $44,271.45. The Regents will put this school in operation this year, as soon as the income of the normal school fund shall be sufficient to pay the annual expense thereof. It will be several years before the income of the fund will support the fourth school; hence it is not probable that another school building will be erected at a very early day.

There are now held by the State for sale 899,150 acres of land belonging to the normal school fund.

It is gratifying to learn from the Regents' report that another year of continued success and substantial progress has rewarded the labors of those in charge of the State University. The average attendance has materially increased, although somewhat hindered here, as in other institutions, by the stringency of the times. The standard of education is constantly rising higher, and in the direction of scientific studies. The faculty are efficient in the discharge of their duties, and zealous to increase the usefulness of the University and extend its beneficent influences. The withdrawal of President Chadbourne from the University is a source of deep regret to those who know him and appreciate his eminent fitness for the high position he so ably filled. But the friends of the University may congratulate themselves that its control has devolved upon one in every way so worthy and qualified to assume the responsibility as the Vice President, Professor Sterling, who commands in a high degree the confidence of all.

The chair of Geology, Mining and Metallurgy has been created during the present year. The Law Department is unusually prosperous and affords facilities for the study of law second to none in the west. The Female College building is in process of erection and will be ready for occupancy this year. The Regents assure us they shall do all in their power to provide for ladies the same facilities for college education that are enjoyed by gentlemen. This policy, wise because just, should never be departed from. The building for military drill and gymnastic exercises has been completed, and is well adapted to the purposes for which it was designed.

To ensure continued and increasing prosperity to the University, it is only necessary that the State continues to take a friendly interest in its welfare, giving to those in charge such cheer and encouragement as devotion to a high and laborious trust always deserves. It has already taken a place among the best colleges in the country. Now their equal in merit, I predict that in a few years it will be their equal in prestige and attendance.

In the death of Alexander J. Craig, late Superintendent of Public Instruction, who died July 3, 1870, the State has sustained a great loss. Ardently devoted to the improvement of our educational system he labored to that end with a zeal beyond his strength to the last day of his life. The results of his works testify to the energy and ability with which his arduous duties were performed.

IMMIGRATION.

The State Board of Immigration has continued its labors during the past year. Twenty-four thousand pamphlets have been issued, in various languages, for distribution. Agents have been employed at Milwaukee and Chicago to give information regarding our State to such as desire it, and to afford to all immigrants passing through such assistance as they could. The agents report that 17,864 immigrants, arriving at those cities, have located within the State during the year. Besides these, a large number have come into the State by other routes. There was expended by the Board during 1870, $1,043 83. All that was possible with that sum has, I believe, been accomplished, and the results are such as to warrant greater efforts in the same direction. I am convinced that more can be accomplished by giving the whole charge of this interest to one person, who will devote his entire time to it. The expense need not greatly exceed the present expenditures, while the results will be vastly greater. I therefore recommend that the office of Commissioner of Immigration be established.

My attention having been frequently called to the fact that immigrants, in many cases, were subject to abuse, extortion, neglect and fraud while on their passage to, and upon their arrival at eastern ports, I joined with the Executives of several of the Western and Northwestern States in calling a National Immigration Convention, which was held at Indianapolis, Indiana, on the 23d day of last November. It was composed of prominent gentlemen from almost every portion of the Union, twenty-two States and two territories being represented, and all the questions relating to the welfare of the immigrant were fully considered and discussed by men who have given the subject much earnest attention. I herewith submit for your consideration an official report of the resolutions adopted. In the conclusions therein expressed, favoring the establishment of a Federal Bureau of Immigration, to be entrusted with the sole charge of protecting from fraud and abuse, while in transit to their destination, those who come from Europe to find homes in this country, I fully concur. It is manifestly for the interest of the whole country, and more especially the West, that every hindrance to immigration be removed. The fear of being subjected to wrongs and annoyances while traveling through a strange land, is, I am assured, potent to deter many thousands of people of the old world from seeking homes among us. By removing all grounds for such fear, by assuring the immigrant that he will be protected and his reasonable comfort secured in every stage of his tedious journey, we shall largely swell the volume of immigration now pouring upon our shores. I know of no better way to convey this assurance, and make sure such protection, and correct the evils which now exist, than to carry into effect the plan proposed by the convention.

INDIANS.

The northwestern part of this State is infested by roving bands of Indians, who ought to be removed and placed upon reservations. It is decidedly best for both races that this should be done at an early day, as they are a constant annoyance to the white settlers. An appropriation was made by the present Congress to defray the expense of such removal, but no steps have been taken therefor. The attention of Congress should again be called to the subject.

FOX AND WISCONSIN RIVER IMPROVEMENT.

We have now a reasonable certainty that the improvement of the Fox and Wisconsin rivers, so as to give to the people a great national water highway between the lakes and the Mississippi river, will be undertaken by the general government. An act of Congress, passed at the last session, provides for ascertaining by arbitration the sum which ought in justice to be paid to the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal Company for its property, rights and franchises, and authorizes the Secretary of War to adopt for the improvement of the navigation of the Wisconsin river such plan as may be recommended by the chief of the Bureau of Engineers. The act also requires that the canal company shall file with the Secretary of War an agreement, in writing, whereby it shall agree to grant and convey to the United States its property and franchises upon the terms awarded by the arbitrators, and provides that no money shall be expended on the improvement of these rivers until such agreement shall be filed. On the 25th day of October last I was verbally notified by the vice-president of the canal company that such an agreement had been forwarded to Washington. By letter received November 17th last, I was informed by the Secretary of War that he had appointed William Larabee, of Clermont, Iowa, arbitrator on the part of the government. On the 23d day of the same month I received a communication from the secretary, conveying the information that the agreement filed by the company was, upon further examination, found to be unsatisfactory to the war department; that it had been returned, and the appointment of Mr. Larabee recalled. Thus the matter stood until the 3d day of this month, when I received the following letter from the president of the company:

"NEW YORK, Dec. 29, 1870.

"SIR: This company will file an unconditional agreement under the late act of Congress relating to the Fox and Wisconsin rivers.

"The agreement which was filed in the office of the Secretary of War on the 27th October 1870, was, on the 19th November, 1870, returned as being conditional and consequently not satisfactory to the Department.

"Very respectfully yours,

"SAMUEL MARSH, President."

I had hoped to be able to communicate the fact that a satisfactory agreement had been received by the War Department. I do not doubt that it has been, as on the 9th inst., I received the following telegram from the President of the company: "Have mailed to Secretary of War unconditional agreement, duly executed."

An appropriation of $100,000 was made by Congress at the last session, for the improvement of the Wisconsin river, but no portion of it has been expended because of the delay in filing the agreement referred to. With the requirements of the law satisfied in that regard, it is hoped that another and larger appropriation will be granted by Congress, and that the work on the river will be vigorously prosecuted during the coming spring.

Regarding the improvement of these rivers among the most important national works contemplated, I shall in the future as in the past, devote all the time and labor necessary to its furtherance, and it will be a source of life long satisfaction to me if I can, even in a small degree, be instrumental in hastening it to completion.

RAILROADS.

The lines now constructing and those projected, with prospect of early completion, will soon afford to the larger portion of the State ample railroad facilities. The roads from Madison to Portage, and from Eagle to Elkhorn, have been completed during the year. Work on the Baraboo Air Line from Madison northwesterly, is being pushed energetically forward. The Green Bay and Lake Pepin road is in process of construction from Green Bay to New London. The West Wisconsin road has 115 miles completed, and will undoubtedly be finished to the city of Hudson early the coming summer. The Milwaukee and Northern Railroad is open to Cedarburg, and another section will be completed during the present year. The Portage, Winnebago and Lake Superior Land Grant road is in the possession of men of energy and business capacity, and, I am informed, will be commenced immediately and built as rapidly as possible. The road from Oshkosh to Ripon will in all probability be constructed this year. Work on the Northern Pacific has begun in earnest. This enterprise is one of vast importance to the whole country, and of much prospective benefit to Wisconsin.

The land grants made by Congress in 1856 and 1864 to aid in the construction of a railroad from Lake St. Croix to Superior and Bayfield, expired by the terms thereof, in May, 1869. The failure of Congress to renew these grants has caused great disappointment to thousands of settlers in the northwestern portion of the State. If Congress finally refuses such renewal, great injustice will thereby be done to these settlers, and to Wisconsin. Thousands of people, years ago, settled along the lines of these contemplated roads upon the faith of these grants. They have purchased several hundred thousand acres of the reserved land, paying the government double price therefor in consideration of the grant, thus reimbursing the government for a large portion of the granted lands. To snatch from them the benefits of a grant for which they have paid the government, because of delays for which they are in no wise responsible; to withhold these grants just at the time when their renewal will ensure the speedy building of the roads, will be an act of injustice and impolicy which I do not believe Congress will commit. Deeming these roads of the utmost importance to Wisconsin, and that the renewal of the grants was due to our people, I have felt it to be my duty to use every proper effort to secure the assent of Congress thereto; and I shall not relax my efforts to aid in the development of that portion of the State most interested in this enterprise, nor in giving every possible encouragement to all other schemes of internal improvement which will add to the prosperity and resources of the commonwealth.

These railroad lands have been for nearly two years under the charge of the State for protection against trespassers. Gen. Samuel Harriman has, during that time, been the agent of the State to discharge this duty. He has caused to be collected for stumpage by R. D. Pike, agent of the Bayfield land office, $15,725; by the United States marshal, $7,885, and has collected himself and paid into the State treasury $44,176.18. Total amount collected, $67,786.18. The sum paid into the state treasury, less expenses incurred, will be held by the State in trust for the parties who may construct the contemplated roads. The agent is confident that he shall succeed in preventing further depredations.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH.

The Legislature, at its last session requested the Senators and Members in Congress from Wisconsin to use their most efficient efforts to procure at an early day, the passage of a law making provision for connecting with, and adding to, the present post office facilities, a complete system of telegraphy, so as to bring within the reach of the great mass of the people this most desirable means of communication. I call attention to this subject in the belief that you will, after full consideration, reiterate the request of your predecessors.

SOLDIERS' CEMETERIES.

I herewith submit a communication from the Secretary of War, asking the consent of the State to the purchase, by the United States, of the Soldiers' Cemetery at Madison. The burial places of our patriot dead are sacred to the people of this country, and will so remain until the last spark of patriotism shall have died. Nor will the people consent that the remains of those who died in the defense of the Union shall ever be disturbed to suit the convenience of those who sought with bloody hands to destroy our free institutions. No insult could have been offered to the loyal people of the country more cruel than was embodied in the resolutions of a United States Senator, recently offered with a view to the removal of the remains of the soldiers now buried on Arlington Heights, near Washington. The United States Senate has the hearty thanks of all who love the cause for which those soldiers died, but more especially, of the surviving comrades of those who sleep in these consecrated graves, for its indignant refusal to receive and consider such an infamous resolution.

NATIONAL.

The peace and prosperity which reigns throughout the United States, the vigor and honesty displayed in the management of the national finances, the steady reduction of the national debt on the one hand, and of the taxes on the other, all testify to the wisdom and efficiency of the present Federal administration. That the same general policy, so salutary in its results, and so generally approved by the people, will be pursued in the future we have the assurance of the President, and another year will find us with our financial affairs in still better condition, and our credit in the money markets of the world equal to that of any other nation.

While our peace is so profound, and its prospects of continuance so fair, while the fiscal system of the government is so satisfactory, it is a fitting time to scrutinize our governmental machinery in every part, to eradicate every abuse, and remove therefrom every element of weakness. A large portion of the people have come to realize the great and wide spreading evils which flow from our present civil service system, and there is a general desire among men of every shade of political belief for a radical reform therein. Such change is desired as will remove the patronage of the government from the partizan contests of the people, as will permit subordinate appointments in the civil service only for demonstrated fitness, and make the tenure of office to depend upon zeal and fidelity in the service of the government rather than party or individuals; such change as will relieve the President, cabinet officers, senators and members of Congress from the constant drudgery of distributing this patronage—leaving them untrammelled to consider only those matters which concern the statesman. I share in this desire, because I recognize in our present manner of dispensing Federal patronage the most demoralizing element in our political system. These evils have grown to their present magnitude gradually, through many years. No party nor class of men are responsible for them, but our generation will justly be held responsible for their continuance if fully aware of the evil, and realizing the danger, we do not improve our opportunity to make the reform which the safety of the nation demands. Fully assured that the people of this State are in accord with these sentiments, I recommend that you present a memorial to Congress asking for the enactment of such laws as will effect the desired change.

CONCLUSION.

I have thus given you a brief statement of the condition of the State. To your care her interests are now committed. The office of a legislator is one of the greatest responsibility.

The powers conferred upon you are the highest which can be exercised under our constitution. The other departments of the government are mainly but ministers of your will ; they but walk in the paths your wisdom marks out for them. Upon your action depends, in a great degree, the public welfare. Your duties are arduous, and their results far-reaching. I share with your constituents the desire that your session may be harmonious, and that discarding all matters of merely private and local interest, your deliberations shall be directed to measures of general concern, tending to advance the honor of Wisconsin and the prosperity of her people.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

The following are the documents referred to in the governor's message :

IMMIGRATION CONVENTION.

INDIANAPOLIS, December 9, 1870.

GOVERNOR—I have the honor to transmit to you, and through you to the honorable the senate and house of representatives of Wisconsin, certified copies of the preamble and resolutions adopted by the “National Immigration Convention” assembled at Indianapolis on the 23d of November last.

I am directed by the executive committee of that convention to ask your most careful consideration of the spirit and intent of these resolutions, with the hope that the unqualified sanction of the people of Wisconsin may be accorded, and in such manner as shall secure the earnest co-operation of her senators and representatives in securing the enactment of such laws as will afford to the immigrant, while in transitu, the National Protection he is justly entitled to receive.

I am, sir, your obedient servant,

JOHN S. LOOMIS,

Sec'y National Immigration Convention.

To His Excellency,

LUCIUS FAIRCHILD,

Governor of Wisconsin.

NATIONAL IMMIGRATION CONVENTION.

ROOMS OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE,

CHICAGO, ILL., Dec. 10, 1870.

The “National Immigration Convention,” called by the Governors of the northwestern and western States, met at Indianapolis, Indiana, on the 23d day of November last. There were twenty-two States and two Territories fully and ably represented at the Convention.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

The committee on resolutions respectfully submit the following report, as substantially embracing the predominant sentiment of the members of the "Immigration Convention," as contained in the resolution referred to us for consideration.

It must be manifest to all who have heard the deliberations and discussions of the convention, that justice, patriotism and philanthropy demand the immediate interposition of enlightened public sentiment and law for the protection of the rights and interests of the people of other lands, who are annually leaving their native countries and coming to our great national home of freedom. That great and grievous wrongs have been perpetrated, cannot be doubted ; and it is equally clear that full and efficient remedies for existing evils ought to be supplied.

The important question to be solved is : What source or department of power can afford an adequate remedy ? It is believed to be the judgment of this Convention, as indicated by the resolutions introduced and referred to the committee, that upon our National Government is devolved the duty and responsibility of controlling jointly with other governments the embarkation and transit of emigrants, and co-operatively with auxiliary institutions in controlling the debarkation and protection of the emigrants, in obtaining a permanent home in the place of their choice in the land of their adoption.

This is eminently a question of national importance, as upon the proper protection, care and culture of this class of population largely depend not only on their progress and prosperity, but also the fullest development of the resources of our country, and the permanency and perpetuity of our Republican principles and institutions. The committee therefore present the following resolutions as containing briefly but substantially, the views of this convention:

1. Resolved, That additional legislation and a more rigid enforcement of existing laws on the subject of immigration are necessary to prevent actual abuses and frauds, and protect the true interests of the emigrant on his arrival and while in transit to his destination in this country, and that for the accomplishment of this purpose, in the opinion of this convention, appropriate legislation is imperatively demanded of the Federal government.

Resolved, That the President of the United States be respectfully requested to open negotiations with countries from which persons emigrate to this country, so as to secure a joint jurisdiction on emigrant ships for the protection of emigrants against abuse and fraud, and that a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, and to the congress of the United States.

2. Resolved, That this Convention unqualifiedly condemns all schemes, combinations and monopolies oppressive to emigrants, by which they are deprived of the proper and usual facilities for cheap and safe transportation, and by which various impositions are practiced upon their indigent and dependent condition.

4. Resolved, That in the opinion of this Convention, a "Bureau of Immigration" should be established under the auspices of the Federal Government.

5. Resolved, That a committee of one from each State and Territory represented in this convention, be appointed to memorialize Congress for such legislation as will most fully accomplish the views expressed in the foregoing resolutions.

6. Resolved, That all capitation taxes collected from emigrants, whether imposed directly or indirectly, with or without color of law, are odious and unjust, and ought to be abolished.

WAR DEPARTMENT,

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 10th, 1870.

To the Governor of the State of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis. :

SIR: In compliance with section 2 of the act entitled "An act to amend an act entitled an act to establish and to protect national cemeteries," approved July 1st, 1870, requiring me to do so, I have the honor to enclose a copy of the act referred to, with the request that you make application to the legislature of your State for its consent to the purchase by the United States of the national soldiers' cemetery at Madison, (Forest Hill,) Wis.

I am, Governor,

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. W. BELKNAP,

[PUBLIC—No. 131.]

AN ACT to amend an act entitled "An act to establish and protect national cemeteries."

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from the time any state legislature shall have given, or shall hereafter give, the consent of such state to the purchase by the United States of any national cemetery mentioned in the act entitled "An act to establish and protect national cemeteries," approved February twenty-second, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, the jurisdiction and power of legislation of the United State over such cemetery shall in all courts and places be held to be the same as is granted by section eight, article one, of the constitution of the United States; and all the provisions of said act of February twenty-second, eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, shall be applicable to the same.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Secretary of War to cause copies of this present act to be sent to the governors of all such states wherein any of such national cemeteries may be situated, to the end that the legislatures of such states may give the consent herein mentioned.

TESTIMONY

TAKEN BEFORE THE

COMMITTEE ON LUMBER AND MANUFACTURES,

ON THE BILL

"To incorporate the Chippewa River Improvement and Booming Company," INTRODUCED BY HENRY COUSINS IN THE ASSEMBLY JAN. 12, 1871.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1871.

DANIEL SHAW, being sworn.

I reside at West Eau Claire, lived there fourteen years, am acquainted with the Chippewa river above and below Eau Claire; my occupation is the lumber business; am familiar with logging in the Chippewa pineries; am acquainted as far up as township thirty-seven, one hundred and twenty-five miles north of Eau Claire by river; have had charge of driving logs to some extent; it is eighteen miles from Eau Claire to Chippewa Falls by river, and eleven by land; can run rafts of boards from "Jims Falls," sixteen or seventeen miles above Chippewa Falls by river, and twelve by land; "Jims Falls," have thirty feet fall in about two hundred rods, and are not susceptible of being run by rafts.

The lower belt or southern extremity of pine commences at Jims Falls, and extends northward eighty-five miles. It is estimated there are a million and a quarter acres of pine lands on the Chippewa averaging about six thousand feet to the acre. The main difficulty in handling logs in the region of the manufactories, is the want of boorage. During every big flood on the Chippewa, there have been more or less losses; I should think a loss of ten to twenty per cent. of logs for want of a place to hold them. The Chippewa is liable to heavy and sudden rises; I have thought it very important to have some better place to control logs; I understand the bill before this committee and the objects proposed to be accomplished by it; I think this would accomplish its object and secure safe driving, assorting and holding of logs.

4—App. Ass. Jour.

The map presented represents substantially the shape of the river. The proposed boomage would store 100 million of logs, and with side booms, made possible by slack water from the dam, it would be sufficient to store 100 millions more. I know of no other means to hold the logs than to slacken or deaden the water by dam. The current is rapid at this point of the Dells ; it requires a fair stage of water to run logs. This place of the contemplated improvement is the most favorable place to hold logs between Chippewa Falls and the Mississippi river. The Dells bottom is rock, with high rock shores.

Eau Claire is the substantial head of steamboat navigation ; steamboats go up to Chippewa Falls occasionally. It can't be run by steamboats in low water. There is another place about as bad a few miles above. I should think this improvement would help steamboat navigation very much. I never heard of steamboats running over the Dells in high water, and only in medium water. I heard there were five trips made by steamboats up the Dells last summer and one unable to go up.

We want a reservoir and flood dams about a hundred miles above Chippewa Falls, where the lakes are. There should be large dams and gate ways to let off water when necessary. We regard this upper improvement as a part of the Dells scheme.

There should also be another dam, or middle dam, above "Jim's Falls," to stop everything on the river, the ice, the logs, etc. This dam will make slack water, not a jam, and let out logs as wanted below, five or ten million a day. There is a good place for this middle dam, about sixteen miles, straight line, above "Jim's Falls," called Little Falls. I think the assorting booms should be placed in this middle pond made by the dam. This dam don't contemplate holding logs after the river falls. I think with it, a rise could be made sufficient to drive logs over Chippewa Falls at most times. This dam is not meant to detain logs, but to be used for the purpose of sorting them. I think the middle works should be constructed first. Logs jam up on "Jim's Falls," as on any other falls, but do not jam in high water.

I think these improvements would very materially advance the prices of lands above, by making logs secure and holding them till you wanted them ; I meant to say before, that ten to twenty per cent. of logs go past and are scattered below Eau Claire ; I think we have lost twenty five per cent. of our logs, above and below, by not having sufficient works for holding and driving logs.

In consequence of not having these conveniences for holding logs, we have had a system of exchanges ; that is, we saw each others logs and then account for them to each other. Out of thirteen millions of logs sawed at our mill only five millions were of our own mark ; we paid for nineteen millions of new logs and had two millions of old, making twenty-one millions in all ; we sawed and had others saw for us thirteen millions. That is about the way it runs with us every year. The high water of last summer cleared out many of the booms about Eau Claire ; their booms were emptied above Eau Claire. The same thing has occurred four or five times since I have been at Eau Claire. Eighteen or nineteen millions went by and were lost and scattered between Durand and Eau Claire in the freshet of 1866. Logs were then worth $10 in our boom, and $20 a thousand sawed and in rafts ; we sold these logs that went below for $4 50 a thousand. There is no other means that I know of to control logs on the Chippewa except by deadening the water ; I think the great body of water and logs breaking away from above broke the booms below.

Cross-examination.—I have resided at West Eau Claire fourteen years, in the lumber business. There are about ten mills on the Chippewa at or near Eau Claire. The Eau Claire mill, on the Eau Claire, near the Chippewa, got out about fifty millions of logs last season. Their average manufacture is about forty millions ; it was fifty millions last year. These upper and middle works proposed are considered important by all Chippewa lumbermen. The only controversy is about this lower dam at the Dells ; I think a great portion of those logs lost would have been saved if the upper works had been made. (The witness here explained how logs were secured at the booms above and below Eau Claire on the river.) The present boomage, in and about Eau Claire, will hold twenty millions ; the lake boom, which connects with our mill alone, will hold thirty or forty millions more ; including the lake boom, there is boomage ground enough on the Chippewa to accommodate the mills at Eau Claire ; there can be little, or no more safe booms along the river near Eau Claire ; there is no more suitable territory for these booms ; about forty millions of the logs, sawed at our mills last year, came down the Chippewa, and ten millions down the Eau Claire ; we could fill our booms from the works proposed above, in suitable water ; they would help us ; about fifty millions are rafted yearly and run down from above Eau Claire ; the river is good for rafting about two-thirds of the season.

I am not familiar with running rafts over dams ; the improvements proposed would slacken the water above the dells ; but the " cut-off " proposed would make it up ; I am familiar with the currents of the river ; the " cut-off " is to be made to afford free passage for lumber ; the current is nearest the right at the place for the cut-off ; I think a dam sixteen to twenty feet high at the foot of the dells would make the proper slack wafer ; I think these improvements would help the mills above to run rafts in low water ; they are often troubled with low water below Eau Claire ; for several weeks there were no rafts run past Eau Claire last season ; there was no time last summer they did not run rafts below Eau Claire ; water is two or three feet on the dells at a common stage of water ; rafts were hung up and strung along the dells for a number of weeks last summer ; have seen them strung all way down the Chippewa ; Porter's mill is three miles or more below

Eau Claire ; these improvements would help his mill, and the others near him.

The middle works would protract the log-driving one month ; there are about four millions of boomage below Eau Claire, and ten millions below the proposed dam ; this improvement would let them have logs when they want them ; this improvement is wanted for storage room for mills near Eau Claire ; we want the upper works to accommodate everybody ; this boomage will encourage manufacturers at and about Eau Claire.

FEBRUARY 8, 1871.

WM. WILSON being sworn.

I reside at Menominee, on Red Cedar river. Am a lumberman and farmer. Name of our firm, Knapp, Stout & Co. Been engaged in lumbering about 50 years ; 24 years where I am now, and before on the Susquehanna, in Pennsylvania, and on the Mississippi. Am well acquainted with some parts of Chippewa river and some parts not so well. Am tolerably well acquainted at Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls. Eau Claire is 25 miles from Menominee. Am familiar with Dells improvement scheme. Have not examined the bill particularly before the committee, but think I am acquainted with what the bill asks for. Have lived and lumbered in the country nearly 25 years ; have cut the logs in the wood ; driven them to our mills ; manufactured them into lumber, and run it into the Mississippi ; our business ranging all the way from three to fifty millions of sawed lumber yearly, not including top lumber ; have worked at all the different parts of business myself ; have charge of the works of our firm, particularly manufacturing at the mills, and rafting and running into the Mississippi ; Red Cedar runs into the Chippewa 25 miles above its mouth, and 35 miles below Eau Claire ; our river is tributary to Chippewa, and similar to it, and affords a third as much water.

The first five years of lumbering on the Red Cedar river we run over a five foot dam ; for eight years after we built a new mill, we run but a small portion over the dam ; since that time we have run nine-tenths of our lumber over one dam, and the remainder over two ; one of these dams is fourteen feet ten inches high from bottom of river to top of dam ; where the Chute is, there is a space of twenty feet in width, cut down two feet and six inches ; the other dam is not quite so high ; not much different ; I know of no difference in running the twelve foot dam and the five foot dam we run first ; since we improved on our twelve foot dam, we run with less difficulty than with the five foot ; as we become better acquainted with our business, we have been able to do it at less expense ; we are able always to run the twelve foot dam with top loading ; we run it safely all the time ; from my experience and observation I don't know but a sixteen or eighteen foot dam could be run just as well as a twelve foot dam ; I think it could after a proper chute is constructed ; all that is necessary to insure the safety of a raft, is to let in the necessary amount of water ; I think the amount of water in a chute can be controled ; I know of two or three ways ; I speak from actual experience ; I have figured on the extra cost of running rafts over chutes since I came here ; I have guessed before and thought it cost five to ten cents extra ; on figuring now, I find it costs from two to three cents extra to prepare and run the rafts over the chutes ; this cost comes from putting on a bow-piece on the front end of the raft.

We have run out about thirty-seven millions over the lower dam, (11 to 12 feet high to the top of the dam) and three and a half millions over the higher dam, the last season. We have had good success in running rafts with top loading this year ; better than before. We have better improvements than before. We put a gate in front of the chute to regulate the amount of water. We can now let in water just as we want it, and the raft passes through the chute just as safely as through the pond. Not one raft in twenty-five—and I think not one in fifty—is injured, unless from some carelessness in running. Sometimes a log gets under it. Our upper mill is fourteen to sixteen miles from Chippewa river—the mouth of Chippewa, about twenty-eight miles from the Mississippi. It cost 41 1-2 cents a thousand to run from the mills to the Mississippi last year ; it cost 16 cents to run from the mill to Chippewa. and 25 1-2 cents thence to the Mississippi river. We run out fifty and one half millions last year. Our chute at the upper mill, by measurement, is one hundred and sixty-seven feet in length ; I think that's just the measurement. Am somewhat acquainted with the Chippewa river, and have been for twenty-four years. The current is strong and rapid at the point called the Dells (as shown on the map.) When it is low, in the summer time, it is not navigable for steamboats up the Dells, and not a good navigable place to run rafts down.

I understand a charter is asked for at this legislature to put a dam at the Dells, sixteen feet high and a lock, three hundred feet long and thirty-six feet wide ; also a chute thirty five or thirty-six feet wide, or wide enough to take in two strings abreast. I understand it contemplates putting in a boom from side to side above the dam in the slackwater. I understand this boom is wanted by mill-owners near the improvement. First and foremost, I consider such an improvement feasible ; that this improvement can be made without being detrimental to parties above the improvement, and doing business on the river ; that this improvement is required by persons manufacturing lumber in the vicinity of it ; that they can't safely hold their logs and manufacture their lumber without it ; that the best interests of the valley and the State at large require it ; that these improvements, when made, will improve the navigation of the river for boats up and for rafts down ; that these improvements, when made, will add to the value of every acre of pine timber above it. My reasons for thus thinking are, first :

It guarantees to those manufacturing lumber in the vicinity, the safety of their logs, so that they can lie down at night with reasonable assurance of getting up in the morning and finding the property they had left there the night before, and which has not been the case formerly; sudden rises come and set the logs adrift; a man may go to bed with a good boom of logs and wake up and find them gone.

This sixteen foot dam will increase the surface and make slack water and more room to hold logs, and leave room for other logs to go through with little detention. The proposed lock will let boats out of the river into the slack water, and pass over the Dells, when without it, they couldn't go at all. And it is the same way coming down with rafts; no matter how much shattered in getting there, they can be put through the lock safely.

I speak with a certain amount of certainty, because I have both built locks and run lumber through them after they were built.

Cross-examination.—I mean that a raft, if shattered, could be run through a lock if got into it, with safety. A raft, shattered, could be put through the lock as safely as it could be run over the Dells at any time, and more so than it could be when the water was low.

I think this Improvement will make a large reservoir for logs where they can be held with safety, and make a good channel where rafts can go down the river in safety.

We have on the Red Cedar a similar bend of the river, like this on the Chippewa, as he could mark it out; about twelve or fourteen years ago a neighbor of mine thought he would cut across the neck and make a mill power at the lower end; he put up a mill at the lower end of the bend; he broke the bend across the neck; the frost went out in the spring, the river rose, and within two weeks two-thirds of the river run through it; we have run our lumber through this "cut-off" channel ever since; these, among others, are the reasons why I think this Dells cut-off would succeed.

Rafts don't run as rapidly on this slack water as in currents by considerable, and when there are head winds we sometimes have to push rafts through; we have had this slack water experience in our own rafting for two to four miles; when there was no head wind it would take about the same time to run rafts by the proposed cut-off as by the bend of the river; with head winds it would take longer, and a shorter time with stern winds; I commenced running on a five foot dam with rafts about ten courses deep; I suffered losses at that time; lumber was poorly rafted, and it broke up at the foot of the slide; our company did not own the dam at that time.

The next dam below the mill was built fourteen years ago by Ebenezer Thompson. We experienced losses in running over it at that time; this dam was about five feet high. After this, Mr. Downs built up the dam to make it about twelve feet high; he run out of funds and made a poor job of the dam; our rafts broke and were damaged in running over this dam; we have since bought the property; we continued to lose largely in running lumber, a part of the time, till we purchased the dam and property ; when the water was at proper stage, we run it with safety ; when too high it damaged our lumber largely. It was a part of the inducement, in the purchase of the property, to make this improvement ; we have gates at the upper mill by which we can let out the water and facilitate the running of the chutes below ; I do not deem such fixtures absolutely necessary, but a great convenience ; the Red Cedar rises about twelve feet above low water mark ; the volume of water in the Red Cedar is about one-third the Chippewa ; on a twelve-foot rise, we could run over the dam anywhere, but no prudent lumberman would run then ; we don't run the river at an eight-foot rise ; we run it safely at six feet rise ; six feet rise of the river causes about two feet rise of pond. The witness then explained the workings of a machine at the head of the chute, by which he regulated the amount of water running over the chute, raising and lowering it eighteen inches a minute.

The business we do on the Red Cedar would not be affected by these improvements at the Del's ; the water at the head of the chute should be ten inches deep, to run a raft of twelve courses ; the amount of water necessary, would depend upon the construction and condition of the chute ; there was two or three million on the Red Cedar, run by other than our company the past year, and more than that the year before ; we do not raft our lumber of uniform depth ; for a day or a week we usually do, but we do not usually store it in our river ; I am not aware that we use any more binding plank than they do on the Chippewa ; we use two coupling planks on each side of the cribs ; we run four cribs in a raft, each thirty two feet in length and sixteen feet wide ; we run one crib in width over the chute.

THURSDAY, February 9.

Cross-examination Resumed.

In computing the cost of running of rafts over chutes, I reckon only the extra cost of the bow-piece. I do not include in this extra cost any expense for binding plank or coupling plank. We usually run fifteen cribs on the Chippewa after leaving the Red Cedar. I have seen Chippewa rafts larger and smaller. Can't say as to the usual size. Do not know the number of cribs in their strings. Never run rafts more than one crib abreast over chutes in this state ; run four in length over his chute, and sometimes six ; can run six as well as four, and our pilot thinks better. Sometimes logs get under the raft, and then it might break it or it might not. We have driven a good many logs out of the Red Cedar into the Chippewa ; should say from five to fifteen millions. We generally run our rafts and logs right along together ; we never stop running lumber by reason of running logs.

■ We run our lumber to the mouth of our river, where steamboats can get to it ; then we couple it up into longer rafts and start it out ; have our steamboat follow it ; if it sticks on the river we help it off with our steamboat ; we get it out to the Mississippi generally in one day ; we fetch men back on the steamboat by night to mouth of Red Cedar. and make another trip down the next day. As to costs, the boat charges for boarding and fetching back the men ; I don't think the boat charges for pulling rafts off of bars ; the mouth of the Chippewa is not good or navigable at all times, but much better than at the Dells ; I remember at different times lumber stuck on different bars along the Chippewa below the mouth of the Red Cedar ; I believe lumber sometimes sticks on rapids in the Mississippi river ; I said in substance that mills at Eau Claire could not have safe booms without a dam to make slack water ; not necessary at other places ; there are bends in river below, where it would be easier to hold logs than at Eau Claire ; do not know of any place where logs could be held without great expense ; think some logs could be held at most any point with the necessary means, materials and mechanics to do it with.

I think there are some places where booms could be made below Chippewa Falls sufficient to stock a mill using from one to ten million ; am at loss to name a place ; perhaps at Gravel Island, and at Hodgins & Robinson's mill ; I have tried to make sufficient boom at Nine mile Slough, but have not been able to sort logs, and had to let other logs go by. There is a good deal of slack water along the banks of the Chippewa ; if the mills require a large amount of stock it would generally be necessary to have slack water to hold logs. In some cases it would be necessary for dams, and some not ; if mills want small stock from time to time, no dams are necessary ; if mills want large stocks in the spring for a full season, then it is generally necessary to have dams. If there were proper flooding works built above the Falls, it would be absolutely necessary to have storage for a season stock of logs convenient to the mill if large amount of work was done. If reservoirs were near by, it would not be necessary to have a season stock at the mill.

I am some acquainted with the boom at Eau Claire ; can't say whether they are such works to secure logs as I would build ; their works appear substantial, good and extensive, and must be expensive ; but can't say whether I would build such works till I had consulted those that I should employ to build such works for me. I think works cannot be built at Eau Claire sufficient to hold logs without a dam. I think the currents at the bend of the Red Cedar, where the cut-off was made, are similar to the currents at the Chippewa bend, and that the current was nearly at right angles with the river. The soil on Red Cedar was covered with timber, with sod on it, and when water cut down to the bed of the river it was shelvy and rocky ; the surface soil was sandy loam ; I should say the soil was three feet on upper end, and deeper on lower end of cut-off, before it come to the sand.

Should think the fall on the Red Cedar cut off, was from fourteen to twenty inches in little less than eighty rods; It was about two miles around by the old bend. There is a good deal of water in the old bed, but no dam below to make slack water; water in bend, from one to four feet; about two and one-half to three feet in cut off in moderate stage.

If the soil at the cut off of the Chippewa bend goes low down, the water would cut in deep and leave the bend dry. The current would not cut below the bed of the rock in the river.

I would consider the logs safe in the bend, if the cut off was made, provided they got them in. A dam might be built across the river above the foot of the cut off, so as to keep the water level with the head of it. I think a pond so created, would fill up with slabs and edgings etc. I think a good deal of this floating stuff would go through the cut off, and some not. I think the bend might be kept clear by a waste gate in the dam, with expense enough.

The losses on the Chippewa at Eau Claire were occasioned by the absence of adequate works to hold the logs securely. I said I thought the Dells dam and lock might be built so as to run rafts safely and benefit parties above; I know of dams in rivers similarly situated; we have dams similarly situated to this. Our river at Downville at the lower dam is similar to this. If the dam was not properly built at the Dells, it would break up rafts or detain them entirely. The same would be true if it was not kept in proper repair. I never have known of a dam and chute being properly built in the beginning in all particulars. We have made continuous alterations up to this present year. With our present experience, I think I could build a dam and chute even better than the one we have at present, with all the improvements we have made on it, and one that would let rafts over safely on all common stages of water on our river or the Chippewa. I didn't think so ten years ago.

I think two cribs abreast will run equally as well over a chute as one. The reason why we don't run six cribs in length over the chute instead of four, is because our river has so many short bends below the dam, and our pilots object to it on this account.

C. C. SMITH, sworn :

I reside at La Crosse; am a bridge builder and machinist; I built the railroad bridge at Eau Claire, also the bridge across the Chippewa; I have seen chutes; seen them run; never built one myself; I have seen the chute at Menomonee, at Capt. Wilson's dam, but did not take particular notice of it; I heard Captain Wilson's testimony as to his regulating the water at the mouth of his chute. (The witness was here called to explain a drawing of the dam and chute of the proposed improvement at the Dells.) The break of the dam proposed at the Dells, and shown on the map or drawing before the committee, is about 110 feet below the entrance to the chute; the chute is about 180 feet long; this plan was drawn with reference to the proposed location of a dam at Eau Claire.

The quantity of water to be let into the slide is regulated by an adjustable apron, to be raised or lowered by gearing attached to a vertical screw; the weight of water to be raised on the apron is some 41 tons; the machinery represented will raise the apron with two feet of water on it, with two men at the cranks, one inch a minute; or with four feet of water on the apron, with four men at the cranks, one one-half inches a minute; this is demonstrated by scientific calculation; I think this is substantially the same plan described by Mr. Wilson at his dam; the inclination or fall of water on the chute is one foot in twelve.

The bottom of the proposed chute is to be plank and timber; the walls are constructed of timber, filled with stone; there are three tiers of oak timber above the surface of the chute, running up and down, to keep the rafts up, and the grub pins from dragging on the slide; am familiar with locks; had experience in passing locks in different places all over the country; I have had men run timber through locks; from the natural advantage of location, I believe the dam, lock and chute could be put in substantial, and made permanent; I know a lock can be constructed there, that will pass boats with safety and reasonable rapidity; rafts can be locked through as safely; I have passed through locks with rafts of timber; I should think rafts or boats could pass through this lock in fifteen minutes.

O. H. INGRAHAM SWORD:

I reside at West Eau Claire; have been a lumberman twenty years; lumbered in New York, Canada and Eau Claire; the mills at Eau Claire, depending on a boom near this point, would require six hundred thousand feet daily, and something over a million for day and night sawing; these mills are located from half a mile, by land, above this proposed improvement to about two miles below it, by land; there are four or five mills below these dependent on these booms for their supply; have seen Captain Wilson's dam and chute at Menominee; have seen the plans and sketon, explained by Mr. Smith, for this improvement.

My first observation in running chutes was at Ottawa, Canada. At Ottawa they overcome a fall of sixty feet by means of four slides; at the entrance of the first slide they have an adjustable apron, to control the amount of water that is required to carry a raft of lumber over the slide. This is done by means of gearing, similar to the plan shown by Mr. Smith; after passing the first slide they go into an artificial basin from ten to fifteen rods in length; then they enter another slide, the same as the first, except that the upper end of the slide is permanent; after passing that, they go into another pond like the first; when they get through the last slide, they land in the big bay of the river, where they make up their rafts for Quebec. I was there this winter, in December, examining with special reference to our contemplated improvement.

So far as I could see, the slides were in the same condition as when I was there years ago; I saw them in working condition myself; I have seen the slides of Capt. Wilson, at Menomonee, seen them running lumber over them at different times, and have noticed that they were constructed similar to those at Ottawa; have seen them running lumber at both their dams, at Menomonee and at Downsville, at different times; see them pass over without any damage to the lumber; I think this plan that has been submitted by Mr. Smith, if put in in a good and substantial manner, will enable us to run the lumber that we manufacture above the proposed improvement, over this place in the river known as the Dells, cheaper than what we can run it, as the river naturally is through the season of running lumber.

We have been running lumber from our own mill for two seasons, which is located above this proposed improvement; have been obliged, some portion of the time, to run it in single strings; very often knocked grub pins off and grub plank loose in passing over the rocks at the Dells; we generally require three men on a string here, and in other places two, and not unfrequently break in two and go down in pieces; have counted last summer upwards of seventy-five cribs at a time, scattered in different places on the Dells, and more than that number of men working with hand-spikes to get them off. We made a temporary boom last year on the right hand side of the channel going down, more especially for getting logs over the Dells. Had it not been for that boom, and the accumulation of logs against the boom during a portion of the summer, we should have to have suspended running lumber wholly.

Previous to our having a mill there, we have had to get lumber from mills above, where we have had our logs sawed on shares; and different seasons we have experienced a good deal of difficulty in getting our lumber down. One season in particular, that I remember of, I had lumber laying at Pound & Halburt's mill, and sawed by them; for five weeks after being sawed, waiting for sufficient water to get it down to Eau Claire and out of the river. When I got it, I employed the pilots, that had the running of Pound & Halburt's lumber, through Mr. Halburt, to run the same lumber to Eau Claire. They run these Chippewa rafts, of 18 cribs, in single string to a point just below where the wagon bridge crosses the Chippewa, half a mile below the Dells. I paid them for running the same lumber $1.05 per thousand feet. Peter Lago was the Pilot in charge. I have had lumber got down by other pilots, that has cost me even more than that on the same ground.

During a sufficient stage of water to run full rafts, we usually run without much difficulty; we never attempt to run in high water. A usual Chippewa raft, when water is sufficient, is eighteen cribs, sometimes twenty-one. The only difficulty attending is at some sharp bends and rocky points in the river; we find it difficult alway to avoid those rocky points. The large portion of the seasons since I have been on the river, our lumber from above has been rafted twelve courses deep—occasionally fourteen and sixteen, while below we have rafted a large portion of the time from fourteen to sixteen courses, sometimes eighteen to twenty. Rafts vary in size from Eau Claire down, from eighteen to twenty-eight cribs, occasionally as high as forty cribs. The great necessity for this proposed improvement, in my estimation, consists in the great need of secure boomage.

At the present time there is no secure boomage on the main Chippewa; the only point on the river at which we have had any means of stopping logs that came down the river, has been at a point two miles above Chippewa Falls; there they have a dam at the head of the Falls, but not of sufficient height to create much slack water where there boom was; consequently they have had at a point, known as their jam boom, large jams of logs when they had high water, together with ice and logs to make it; we had two jams, the past two seasons, there, of large proportions, causing serious loss to various parties, not from the fact of their being stopped there, but because there was not sufficient flowage to hold them there without jamming, and because we had no similar place below to take care of those that were owned at Eau Claire when let out, and to assort and pass on those destined for other markets. I think that they could handle logs at this point I have been speaking of—their jam boom—when the water is not too high, what would be necessary for their own mills, though I think their boomage capacity would be short for that; if they had works above of a permanent nature, dams and piers, so as to hold logs back during ice freshets or floods, they could then let them down into their present pond without loss or detention to others to any considerable extent.

The difficulty to the manufacturers located below has been the want of slack water to erect and build booms, so that they could assort and hold logs; they have nearly every year since I have been on the river met with heavy losses in consequence of not having such boomage; the past season, during high water, in August and September, a large proportion of booms on the river broke and let the logs go on to the bottoms below Eau Claire; being late in the season, there was not so large a loss as would have been earlier; quite a portion of these logs are now lying on the bottoms, from five to twenty-five miles below Eau Claire, some on the bank, others in sloughs, others a mile or more back; these logs are worth, where they lay, about $5 per thousand; we sell them for this to parties who pay for them when they can get them; in consequence of the insecure boomage in the Chippewa river, there is less security in operating there than any point I have knowledge of; in consequence of that insecurity stumpage is worth less to those who own lands, and logs less to those who have them to sell.

We have paid for the past five or six years for logs on bank, from four to five dollars per thousand. For the past two seasons, I have tried to make contracts with those we purchased of to pay seven dollars per thousand for what we could get in our own boom, or get an account of at other mills, but I have not found parties who wanted to sell on these conditions. I know of one who did sell to Hodgen's & Robinson on these conditions, and they said they would never sell any more in that way. Last year, we had upwards of twenty-five millions of logs in Chippewa river, and sawed out of our own logs, about eight million feet, and got an account of, including what we sawed, a little upwards of fifteen millions. That includes a portion of those that went on to the bottom below and were measured where they lay. A portion of this difference of what we sawed ourselves, we got logs in exchange for what we sawed for others. Most of the balance we got lumber for where they sawed on shares.

The result of our present system of boomage, is a constant wrangle between mill owners and log owners, who wish to drive their logs down the river; so far as my observation goes, quite a large portion of the residents of Chippewa valley, interested directly or indirectly in the lumber trade, are anxious for secure boomage at those points named in the bill now pending; also a large portion of the non-resident land owners.

The water was particularly low at the Dells and at other points, when our lumber was detained five weeks at Chippewa Falls.

Cross-examination.—We have one mill three-fourths of a mile above proposed dam, (firm of Ingraham & Kennedy); have three mills about two and one-half miles by river, below the dam; mills are run by steam, located on river; take logs out of river to saw; there are sixteen mills at Eau Claire dependent on the Chippewa river; these sixteen include my four mills; one mill we built in 1857, second in 1859, third was built in 1860, fourth in 1861; have used the first mill ever since; we acquired the second mill last year; we built third mill and used it since; the last bought two years ago; been running mills there about thirteen years without any dam across river; we got our logs from Eau Claire during the first years, and from Chippewa since; about seventy millions were manufactured at Eau Claire last season, exclusive of Eau Claire Company; this is very near the amount sawed—shown by scalers' accounts and by our dealing with mills; we take part estimate from government scale bills; every mill owner has a scaler, usually appointed by the inspector; we had a deputy scaler last year, who looked after a portion of the mills; he took his reports from our scale book.

There was no inspector appointed for our mill last season. We claim the right to saw our own logs and have our own scaler. I think about the same were sawed year before. I couldn't say positively how many were Chippewa logs; should say not far from fifty-five millions last year, and about the same the year before; average from thirty-five to fifty million for the last five years. There has been thirty to forty million of lumber manufactured above our upper mill. About one hundred and twenty million logs have been run through the Dells for five years. Our upper mill is three-fourths mile above proposed dam; our mill is sixteen to eighteen feet above level of river; I think dam would make slack water at our mill; would enable us to hold logs, and give us better water to run lumber off in.

Think the proposed dam and chute would operate well; think we could run lumber better over the dam sixteen feet high than without it, in average stage of water. I know in my own mind, that sixteen feet overcomes natural difficulty of river. The dam would cover one hundred and twenty-five feet up and down the river, slide one hundred and fifty feet; the dam is to be put at lower end of high banks; the Dells are three-fourths miles in length; our mill is at the head of the Dells; the fall over Dells about three feet; I never knew a dam to raise water equal to the raise in the river; the river banks spread out as the water rises; water from ankle-deep to to twenty inches in summer, at the Dells; it is fair running stage with average depth of two feet on Dells; good running at three feet; over five or six feet is too high; have run Dells safely at from two to five feet; can run as well as with a dam; can run it better than with a dam; can run it right along without any preparation; have been running for last seven or eight years.

Lumber will run when logs will not; have found difficulty in running logs at two to three feet; this is the only difficulty. } By the Chippewa valley we mean from mouth of Chippewa to 140 miles above Eau Claire, including parts of Pepin, Dunn, Eau Claire and Chippewa counties. I mean that a very large proportion of Chippewa valley people are in favor of this identical Improvement; consider eight-tenths a large proportion; I should say there were about thirty to forty thousand people in Chippewa valley; have talked with a great many on this subject; I believe eight-tenths of the people in Chippewa valley favor this Improvement; eight-tenths of all I ever conversed with favored it; have talked with hundreds, and circulated petitions among hundreds; have talked with hundreds in Chippewa county; have talked with Mr. Smith of Bloomer Prairie; also with John Barron, one of the county board, who is in favor of it; he has the "blue mills;" been lumbering eight or ten years; he has been interested in this improvement eight or ten years.

I talked with Mr. Smith, and he talked as plainly as he could that he was in favor of the improvement. He thought it advisable to circulate a petition, and get signers for this improvement.

The chutes were built on the Ottawa to run lumber; couldn't be run without them; lumber and timber run over them, but more lumber now; my personal observation was that lumber run over them with safety and dispatch; they raft in similar manner to ours, but differently grubbed up; they have no occasion to use spring-poles or plank in front ; the Ottawa is estimated to be equal in volume at times to Niagara Falls ; there is a chute on each side of the falls ; the approaches to both sides of the Ottawa are through piers and booms, constructed for the purpose of handling logs ; neither side is protected by bank of river ; have seen ten strings of lumber passing safely through the slide, following each other in close succession ; they have severe ice freshets ; the ice sometimes comes out of the lake eight miles above the falls, and piles up on the piers and falls at a fearful rate ; the slides were built by an American by the name of Wright, on the north side, and by the Canada Government on the south side, which now owns both.

I think the improvement proposed, if put in in a substantial manner, according to Mr. Smith's plan, would let lumber over the slide better and more safely than can be run over the same place during a large portion of the season. If improvements were not put in well, they would go out, and follow the same as the pier we put in at the head of the Dells—which was one hundred feet long, sixteen feet wide and nineteen feet in height. At the time their jam boom broke above, logs, etc. accumulated in such quantities, that our pier and boom attached, were swept out in consequence of rapid current.

If the slide became broken on account of freshet, rafts would go through the lock ; if dam and slide were broken, the effect would be to stop navigation till they were repaired ; the depth of water would be about sixteen feet at entrance to chute or piers ; the plan shows the piers one hundred and sixty feet long and sixteen feet wide, running up and down and forming part of dam ; they are to be filled with rock ; the water is twenty to forty feet at Pound & Halbert's piers ; I think if the piers are of sufficient size on the rock at the Dells, they will withstand any ice freshet, and remain ; I think these piers would be stronger than those above the Falls.

The piers for ice breakers are to be above the piers at the dam. Have had difficulty in getting lumber out of Chippewa river below Eau Claire, but we keep running. Not much Eau Claire lumber laying below Eau Claire on river, but much Chippewa Falls lumber which has been broken up coming over the rocks below the falls. Have known lumber rafts, ten courses deep, stuck below Eau Claire. If we keep in the best water we invariably get out of the Chippewa. Lumber has been left purposely on bar at the mouth of the Chippewa to raise the water, and then swung off ; there is some inconvenience experienced from piers in river and some places narrowed up by wing booms. Think I have seen four string rafts run down the Chippewa. Am aware lumber was rafted twelve courses deep most of last season, which has been unusual ; we run twelve deep in low seasons, at Eau Claire, when we could not get it over the Dells with only one string and with some hand spiking. There is no security for logs below for want of these flowage works above.

If logs could be secured and regulated by reservoirs and booms above, they would be secure to all below. There would be less danger also ; but there would be danger then from sudden rises. I think the river would be liable to sudden rises even if there were flooding dams, and jams made from accumulation of logs; jams would not have occurred if they had been kept back in an upper pond, and a reasonable amount might have been assorted.

Our experience is that logs can be assorted to some extent at our booms, that come down the Chippewa; with flood-wood and many logs running, we cannot assort many of them; we cannot assort them at night; we are not able to hold many logs above our assorting works. The accumulation of high water, logs and flood-wood from broken booms above, all tended to carry off our booms below. The storage boom at Chippewa Falls held after the jam boom was broke. [To Mr. Pound.] We regard your storage boom as essentially a jam boom. With secure boomage above all mills, I think the price of logs would be advanced somewhat, because they would come in competition with Mississippi logs. I do not think it would advance the price of logs at Eau Claire, because it would not afford such security as they need.

CHARLES SIBBET, sworn:

I reside at West Eau Claire; am pilot on Chippewa river; am pretty well acquainted with Chippewa river, from falls to mouth; the river from the falls to Eau Claire has a strong, rapid current, with hard, rocky gravel bottom, and some crooked; it is difficult to run lumber sometimes; the difficulty is caused by low water and rocky channel; know the place called the "Dells;" have run lumber frequently over them; meet with difficulties very often there, from low water, crooked channel and rocks, which we stick on; in low water, have to run one string at a time, six cribs long; very often break up strings in two; have seen four different strings strung up at one time; frequently have to be rafted off; these difficulties existed two or three weeks last year, which was an extraordinary good season for water; single strings were run last year from ten days to two weeks.

Am acquainted with point at head of the proposed cut-off (as shown by map). Commencing at the island above, the current runs down to a point on the right side of the river below the mill, then bears to the left, then more to the right, between two booms, then to the left again, and then to the right under a gravel bar towards the head of the cut-off. After passing the point of the cut-off, it turns towards the left shore.

The point at the Dells has been bad for running lumber since I have known it—for twelve years; been pilot on the river eleven years; some seasons have to run single strings for two months; some less; one season could not run at all for sometime. Think there would be no difficulty in running rafts through the cut-off, after entering the head. There is no difficulty in handling rafts in in slack water with oars, except when there are high winds. The bed of the channel at the Dells is rock—some rough and some smooth.

Cross-examination.—Have run eleven years on Chippewa river; have run on Black river; have found difficulty there; have found low water on other rivers at some seasons; have run on Delaware, from Black City to Wells Falls; run there most always on floods; steamboats run there sometimes.

Lumber can be run on Chippewa in good stage of water with reasonable facility; the foot of the Dells is most difficult point; bottom here, formerly rock, is now covered with a gravelly bar; lumber usually sticks on sides of channel when very low; lumber was run very well from Eau Claire down to the "Flower Pot," at mouth of river; then water was scattered out, but part of lumber was got through.

I think if we had run one crib at a time from Chippewa Falls, as we did at the mouth of the river below the Flower Pot, we might have got it through; the most difficult place is at the foot of the Dells; I understand the dam is to be at the difficult point spoken of, at the upper edge of the gravel bar; banks pretty high on both sides; the bed is solid rock where the railroad bridge crosses; the gravel bar used to be higher up; putting in the piers has washed it down a trifle; the Chippewa river is a good river for running rafts from the falls to Eau Claire in good stages of water; the great bulk of lumber is usually run down in June.

Lumber has been run every year in June, since I have been there, except during the low water season I have described; the river is deepest on the right hand side, coming down, at the head of cut-off; have not measured it since the boom was put in, but run down a pole last summer; don't know as I measured it with a view to see which was the deepest side; have measured the opposite side many times when I passed over it; not as much water on the side opposite the cut-off; my residence is at West Eau Claire; the Chippewa is better than Black river for running lumber; cannot run lumber on Black river except at time of floods.

C. R. GLEASON, sworn.

Reside at Eau Claire: am in merchantile business at present. Have been in forwarding business on the river nine years at Eau Claire previous to last year; kept the steamboat office. There were five trips by steamer to Chippewa falls last year; the same boat made an effort to make the sixth trip, but failed to get over the Dells. The navigation to Eau Claire last year, was continuous.

In 1860, I think the boat made two trips; in 1861, three or four; in 1862, one; in 1863 and 1864, none; in 1865, five or six; in 1866, about the same; in 1867, one fair sized boat made two trips, and one small boat eighty-five feet long, ten feet beam, ten or twelve trips; another boat a little larger, called "Union," about the same; in 1868, about the same as 1867; in 1869, boats made thirty-nine trips—that season was extraordinary for water.

5—App. Ass. Jour.

The map is correct. The cut off is fifty-nine rods across with three feet fall.

Cross-examination.—The banks of the cut-off will never overflow from the dam, when two hundred feet wide; it was good most of the time running to Eau Claire, when it was difficult to get to the falls; there could have been more trips to the falls whether there was business or not; there was plenty of water on the Dells when the steamer failed to go up last year, for want of power to run up, though it was one of the best boat ever run up the river; it was easy to get up the river to Eau Claire at that time; not as much business to the Falls as to Eau Claire; have interest in, and have taken a good deal of interest in getting this improvement; I know there was no log jam at the time the boat failed to go up last season; I do not know of my own knowledge that it was the current that obstructed the boat, but I do know that it was not logs; the same boat,—the Silas Wright.—made thirty-five trips in 1869, and five trips last season; I know the fact that large quantities of lumber, in rafts, have run down the river from the falls, since I have lived there.

Lumber comes "floating" down the Dells, in rafts in good water, sometimes in single strings, sometimes in cribs and parts of cribs and sometimes in loose boards; run in single strings in low stage of water; run in single strings for six weeks last year when I was there; they coupled right below my warehouse, at boat landing, and three-fourths of a mile down; last season, as a whole, was better than the average for water; has been as much impedient at the Dells the last season as usual. I have no doubt that rafts break up below Eau Claire, but not from the same causes; I have passed up and down the river on steamboats, and seen rafts stick on sand bars and tow heads on lower part of Chippewa.

WITNESS AGAINST BILL.

FEBRUARY 17, 1871.

GEORGE WINANS sworn.

My occupation is pilot on the Chippewa and Mississippi rivers; have government license therefor; have had fifteen years experience as pilot; have navigated the Chippewa from the falls to its mouth; am familiar with its channels in high and low water; have navigated the river with steamer to Chippewa Falls; rafts vary in size on the river; the usual size is three cribs wide, six and seven long; cribs sixteen by thirty two feet; average depth of those I handled last summer sixteen courses; have seen them run one string wider frequently; in ordinary stage of water run three cribs wide and six or seven long. From the Falls to Eau Claire the nature of the river is different; the bed is largely rock and gravel; there are two places, called upper and lower Dells; the upper I consider most difficult; bottom of lower Dells is very smooth and flat, with exception of the channel; upper Dells about one third the way to Eau Claire from the Falls; one place in the upper Dells has no good channel through it; on lower Dells, the channel is some two feet to two and a half deep, while the sides are about ten inches deep; in extreme low water this channel is only wide enough for one string; I never knew a string of lumber to stick that was kept in the channel; 280 feet below the bridge, the nature of the bottom of the channel changes, it gets flatter; has small loose rock and gravel, and keeps accumulating till it forms gravel bars. The bars are formed about 450 feet below the railroad bridge.

In going up the river with our boat, after we had got above this point (two hundred and eighty feet below the bridge), I had no further difficulty, except with strong current; the river on either side of the gravel point is flat; the depths are less than at any other place; the railroad bridge changed the formation of the channel last summer, so there were two channels at the lower point of the Dells; in fair stages of water there is no difficulty in running lumber over this portion of the river.

In extreme low water there are numbers of places extremely difficult; the river has sand bottom below, with some gravel bars; in the low seasons of 1863 and 1864 there was as great difficulty in running the lower end of the river as the Dells; rafts that run safely over the Dells were laid up between Eau Claire and the mouth of the river; Mr. Lemgin and myself went down and rafted them over, making them only eight courses deep, and then they rubbed in several places; during that season steamboat navigation was not good anywhere, and at one time steamboats did not run at all on the Chippewa river.

There were no exports at the Falls and it would not pay boats to run up; I consider the river to Chippewa Falls as navigable, for the sized boats and rafts run on the river, as the Mississippi is for the boats on that river; there are difficulties in running the Mississippi with rafts and boats; three months in 1864, the regular line of packets never crossed the rapids; last summer the line was broken up at the lower rapids for five weeks; I took over eighteen cribs at once of lumber over the lower rapids at that time; large numbers of rafts were stuck on these rapids; the average depth run on the Chippewa last year could not have been run over the lower Mississippi rapids in 1863 or 1864; the channel at the point of the Dells can be deepened and straightened, and made permanently better, as the bottom is rock, and once dug out, would not fill up like sand. If the channel was so deepened, it would be better than at the lower end of the river, because it would not be liable to fill up in high water.

Locating this proposed dam far up in the Dells, to let the foot of the slide rest on the rock, the dam would be placed across the river where the water is not over ten inches deep in ordinary stages of water, with the exception of the narrow channel spoken of. The slide will necessarily have to be placed so as to deliver lumber in this channel; the lock must of necessity be on the right hand side, which would place it where in ordinarily low water it is only ten inches deep. The effect would be to give us a lock that we could not get a boat to, as the river now is. The fall, from this point to the foot of the Dells is about a foot; this lock, reaching above water, will stop the water falling over the breast of the dam at that point, and the fall of the water will leave less water below the lock. Have never run rafts over chutes, but have been over them at Chippewa Falls and at Monominee, four years ago; once they tore the bottom out, and twice went over safely. At Chippewa Falls there was but half the chute in, and the bottom was torn out of one crib. Have run rafts that passed Chippewa Falls dam, and one raft, last summer, that passed Knapp, Stout & Co.'s dam; the last was the worst broken on the bottom that I ever did run; I got it broken at the mouth of Chippewa; it was good running stage of water; the grub planks were torn off the bottom.

I consider the back water to be created by the proposed dam, the greatest objection to it, from the fact that the river is so crooked that the wind will blow cross ways at some point; I find by a record of ten years that the wind blows one day out of three during summer months, and half as much in spring and fall months. Nearly all of these winds are sufficient to cause detention in slack water. It costs about $20 a day to run a chip-raft—usual size, hundred thousand feet; when the Mississippi is higher than the Chippewa, the water backs up from one and one-half to three miles. The Chippewa pilots are stopped by winds at the point at the mouth; one time I waited four days for a raft that was in sight; when then there is slack water the ice freezes at greater depth than at the rapids; the ice would remain some time after it had gone out below and above; the ice goes out of the Mississippi, below Lake Pepin, ten to twenty-five days before it does in the lake; during this time ice remains solid in the lake.

The witness does not believe the cut-off would carry off the water with a sixteen feet dam below, but that the three feet fall would be obliterated thereby, and the cut-off be filled up with sand, sediment, etc. I think the cut-off can be made practicable without a dam, but it cannot be made practicable with the cut-off at right angles with the river, as appears by the map; I do not think the present bed of river will be rendered dry by this cut-off, but that the water in the bend will be deeper than low, with the dam below; I think the bend would be a good place for boomage, with a cut-off and without a dam; I think it would be bettered by a dam above the foot of the cut-off; the difficulties of running through cut-off and over chute while logs are running, will be increased by logs getting under rafts and interfering with oars; the rafts may be broken in running on the upper Dells and will be more difficult to run over the slide; at time lumber can run safely over Chippewa Falls, there is no difficulty in running a full Chippewa raft below ; medium water is necessary to run the Falls ; lumber is generally more or less damaged running over the Falls.

Have been above Chippewa Falls every spring for nine years. It is practical to sort logs at the Falls boom ; also at Mr. Taylor's mill, the difficulty decreasing at each mill below, by reason of less logs to sort. It is more easy to sort logs at Eau Claire than at mills above. Have worked every year sorting logs at the jam at Falls. It is more preferable to sort logs at Wilkin's Island than at Hodgen's and Robinson's. If there were proper works above with flood gates to let the water out, the logs could come out and be assorted below, without a dam at Eau Claire. It will be equally necessary to have a dam at other mills on the river as at Eau Claire, if they want to hold any quantity of logs.

Cross-Examination.—Am 32 years of age ; been with Pound & Halburt since '61, till last fall. My main business is running lumber on the Mississippi. Have taken deep interest in this Dells matter ; I do not wish to be understood as saying that navigation on the Chippewa, from the Falls to Eau Claire is as good as below Eau Claire to the Mississippi, at all times. Sometimes it is better above than below. I think rafts would be detained, twice out of three times, in the slack water, below the cut-off, during wind ; of course if the rock was excavated below the lock, it would fill up with water sufficient for the passage of boats.

FEBRUARY 21.

CHARLES LANGEVINE sworn :

I reside at Chippewa Falls ; have lived on the Chippewa river since 1849 ; have been engaged piloting rafts since 1853 from Chippewa Falls to the mouth of the river ; have been in the logging business winters ; am familiar with the Chippewa river from the falls to the mouth ; the usual size of a Chippewa raft is eighteen cribs, three wide and six long, in low water ; the average rafts I run last season were sixteen courses deep ; we run between twenty-four and twenty-five millions of feet for the company ; I run thirty-eight rafts last season to the Mississippi, averaging about one hundred and thirty-five thousand to each raft ; twenty-eight cribs, sixteen courses deep, was the largest raft I ever run over the Dells ; run this in July, 1867 ; the water was at medium stage ; in fair stage the water is from four to eight feet in the river.

On January 11th, 1864, I started from the Falls with two other pilots, with rafts twelve courses deep ; arrived at Eau Claire at noon on the 12th ; got over the Dells in pretty good shape ; went down to Goose Lake bar, thirty miles below Eau Claire ; was three days getting over that bar ; had seven men on each of three rafts ; I went two miles below, and found but ten inches on a bar ; I tied my lumber up, sent my men home and went below again and found but eight inches on several of the bars. I then returned up river, measured the upper Dells, and found one foot of water there, and two feet on the lower Dells. Soon after I was employed to re-raft Colman's lumber and run it. I rafted it eight inches deep, and was eight days in running it through to the Mississippi. I took charge of his lumber at Hawkes' bend, thirty miles below Eau Claire. I found from seven to eight inches on several bars below Durand. I found Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls lumber hung up on the "Flower Pot." They had given up running it; said there was no way getting it out to the Mississippi; no one offered to run out lumber; they thought it impossible. Providing we put the same labor in, we could have run lumber over the Dells, at that time, as well as we could have run it into the Mississippi.

Am not much acquainted with steamboats. I met steamer "Union" going up through the upper Dells; she was going right along. I was coming down on a raft; there is no difficulty in running rafts from Chippewa Falls to Eau Claire, in ordinary stage of water; can run as well from the Falls to Eau Claire, as from Eau Claire down in ordinary stage. The river from the Falls, has rocky and gravel bottom, and can be run with less difficulty, because the channel never changes. On lower river, the bottom is sandy, the channel changes with every little freshet, and spreads the bars. After those freshets, we have difficulty for two weeks in getting down below Durand.

Since I have piloted in 1853, I find it averages a good deal better from the Falls to Eau Claire than it does below Durand to the mouth of river; I mean that I can run lumber cheaper from the Falls down to Eau Claire than below Durand for the same distance; it cost twelve cents per thousand to run from the Falls to Eau Claire for the last three seasons; from Durand out, the average cost is sixteen cents per thousand for twenty-five miles. It is very near the same distance between the first two and the last two places named; we generally run out from the Falls to the Mississippi in three days in good stage; the first day to Eau Claire the second to near Durand, the third out of the Chippewa.

I know the point for the proposed dam, about 450 feet below the railroad bridge at Eau Claire; the dam proposed is 16 feet; it is my opinion that it would cost considerable more to run lumber with the dam than now; I think it would cost more in consequence of having to run through the dead water; I know it would detain rafts a day, at the dead water, through the season, besides running all the risks over the dam; it cost about $20 a day to run a Chippewa raft; I could run the distance over which the back water would extend, five or six miles, as it now is, in about two hours; no mistake, but I could run with less time and cost and with more safety without the dam; with a dam there is more or less danger of breaking up rafts—no matter how good a chute may be put in a dam.

Should think a sixteen-foot dam would make back-water to the Ash rapids, which is five or six miles by way of cut-off from the dam ; the worst place for running rafts is over the gravel bars four hundred and fifty feet below the bridge ; I never had any trouble in running rafts above or below this gravel bar, near the Dells ; never had trouble in running rafts above the bridge ; the most difficult part to run is below the bridge ; it is about two miles from the head to the foot of the cut-off by the bend ; the two islands above the bend are called Wilkin's islands ; from there the channel bears to the right by crooked rapids, then to the left ; then the channel keeps the middle of the river till opposite the cut-off, then bears off to the left again, and continues on the left side about a mile round the bend, to a gravel bar ; the current bears to the right, half a mile above the cut-off, thence bears off to the left-hand shore ; the main current opposite the head of the cut-off is near the left-hand shore.

With a sixteen foot dam below, I think it would be dead water all through the cut-off, and it would fill up ; would not have draft to keep it clear. If the dam is not made, the cut-off would have some current, but I think the river would then follow the natural stream ; would rather have the river as it is without a cut-off ; with a cut-off it might be as good, but not better with a dam. I prefer the river as it is ; if I was running by the thousand, I could run it cheaper and more convenient. Have run as pilot for three years over Chippewa Falls, from Yellow river, six miles by land, and from Chippewa city, eight or nine miles. It is gravel rapids and rough from the Falls to Yellow river. We run over a dam on the Yellow river in getting into the Chippewa ; we run with rafts of three cribs, called "rapid pieces." It takes six of these pieces for a Chippewa raft.

In running Chippewa Falls I considered myself safe when over the chute ; I broke about one third of the lumber in running over the falls ; it costs four cents per thousand to couple rafts to run over the falls more than to couple them below ; I would charge about twenty cents more per thousand, and chance it, for running rafts that had come over the falls than for those that had not ; I would not undertake to run lumber that has run over the falls to the Mississippi for twenty cents ; the lumber is generally in bad condition that comes over the falls ; I would not run lumber that had come over the falls as cheap even if it looked as well ; there was a chute at the falls when I was running over them ; I would not undertake to run lumber to the Mississippi, and guarantee it, if there was a dam at the Dells for any consideration ; I think the feeling among all the lumbermen in the Chippewa valley, above the Dells, is opposed to this dam—leaving Eau Claire men out ; I don't know a resident logger above these improvements that is in favor of them.

Cross-examination.—I presume there is a portion of land in Chippewa county, above the falls, owned by parties not living there. I think it adds twenty cents per thousand to the cost, to run lumber from above Chippewa Falls ; I don't think it is as good a place to manufacture lumber above the Falls as below ; the year of '64, spoken of, was a year of extraordinary low water—the lowest I ever knew ; steamboats do generally run from mouth of the river to Eau Claire, and do not generally run from Eau Claire to Chippewa Falls ; I do say that it is as good running an ordinary Chippewa raft above Eau Claire as below. Last year was a very good year for running ; also the two years before that.

The width of the channel in the narrowest places through the Dells, is about twenty-five feet in low water. The Eau Clair river comes in at Eau Claire. The river below Eau Claire, has sandy bottom and low banks ; there is more water below Eau Claire ; the Menominee comes in a little above Durand ; the chute at Chippewa falls, was at head of falls ; the fall is twenty-five feet in three-quarters of a mile. There was no gage at head of chute ; nothing to regulate water. They do not run lumber over falls in high or low water ; only at favorable stage, and then the lumber tears up. Only a short season that the lumber can be run over the falls and dam. On the average, I would charge twenty cents more to run lumber that had run over the falls, than if it had not. Had no experience in running dams except at Falls. In favorable stage there is no danger of breaking up rafts in running over falls ; the reason that breaking occurs, is that we try to run over in low water. The favorable stage over falls usually lasts about two weeks in summer ; spring freshets last longer.

The average cost is twelve cents running from Falls to Eau Claire in favorable seasons like the last three years ; I get at cost by figuring the time. The run is better from Eau Claire to Durand than from Durand out ; I think the average running is better from Eau Claire down than from the Falls to Eau Claire ; the price of running lumber from Eau Claire to Durand is about 25 cents ; we received $1 37 for running from Falls to mouth of river ; that includes coupling rafts at Falls and in the Mississippi, and making oars ; was paid about ten cents for coupling rafts at Falls, and the same for Mississippi rafts ; I would make about twelve cents per thousand difference between running from Eau Claire and running from the Falls ; it has taken on an average for three years past, a day and a half from Eau Claire to Durand ; in my contracts for running, I guarantee the full and safe deliverance of rafts at the mouth of the river.

DANIEL B. SELLERS sworn :

I reside at Chippewa Falls ; my business is piloting on Chippewa river ; been pilot six years, on river nine years ; have been employed below Eau Claire ; was pilot mostly from Chippewa Falls and Gravel Island, three miles below ; made an average of thirty trips the last six years ; usual Chippewa raft depends on stage of water ; in low water, run one crib wide and six long, and from that up to twenty-eight cribs ; run about twenty-one cribs ordinary stages of water, from twelve to eighteen courses, some twenty ; in ordinary stage of water we find no difficulty in running rafts from the Falls to Eau Claire over the Dells; that is about the best place to run in ordinary stage of water.

In ordinary stages we used to call the natural river better above Eau Claire than below; now the piers are in it, it is worse; there are about one hundred and fifty piers between Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls; there are no piers, except the bridge piers, in the Dells; the navigation of the river was better before these piers were put in than now; some of these piers make it harder running, some are actually in the way, others not; the piers in the channel obstruct navigation by rafts, others at one side do not; before the railroad bridge was built, the navigation of the Dells was better than now, and as good as at any place below Eau Claire in ordinary stage of water; the reason of this is because the channel of the Dells is straight and wide, the banks are higher and the river confined within the banks; below Eau Claire the bed of the stream is sandy, with some gravel bars, it spreads out wider in some places and some narrower.

In ordinary stages the river, any boat that can run to Eau Claire can run to Chippewa Falls; the river has been navigable by steamboats to Chippewa Falls for a number of years. I know where the proposed dam is to be built; it is near the foot of the Dells; should think a sixteen foot dam at the Dells would not improve the navigation; we can run twenty-eight cribs from the Falls in a fair stage of water; in low water, one string; there are two or three places between the Dells and falls, where we have to run with one string and three men; don't see how we could gain anything by running through the pond and over the dam with but two strings, in low water; we can always run the lower Dells when we can run two or three places above; in ordinary stages we have no difficulty in running full rafts from the head of the Dells to Eau Claire; could run a "ten-string raft," if the railroad piers were not there; we could run the river as it is, better than with a sixteen foot dam with locks and slides.

The dam proposed will certainly increase the delay of running rafts; I never run dams much; can't tell as to the danger; no man can, till he runs and finds out. It will increase the delay by slack water, and in ordinary stages of water, may not be able to run a full raft; shall have to split it up; always some delay to uncouple above and to couple again after passing dam; have to go a mile below in low water to couple; in good high stages, have to go eight miles below Eau Claire, if there was no lumber to interfere; would have to land rafts for the purpose of coupling after passing dam. We should want a competent man or pilot to run each piece. A pilot from Falls gets about $5 a day; oarsmen $1.50.

I know where the proposed cut-off is located; the channel is on the opposite side of the river from entrance to cut-off, and continues on same side to about three-quarters of a mile below; a sixteen foot dam, I think, would make back water to pine rapids, about five miles above dam, and would occasion back water above cut-off. The dead water would take up time, and make navigation worse; if wind blew it would affect us more than now; wind at times would entirely stop a raft; sometimes now it almost stops in bends; it takes two hours to run from Pine Rapids to point of dam; think it would take more time and more labor, but perhaps no more men, to run with dam; with ordinary wind could not run at all; side wind would blow raft ashore in dead water.

If there was no dam, I think there would be no channel at the cut-off; it would cut it so wide; it would not give water enough in the cut-off, nor leave water in the bend, to run rafts. The current would be faster in the cut-off without a dam; the water would naturally cut it lower than bed of main river at head of cut-off; if the dam were put in above the foot of cut off, I think all the water would go through the cut-off, and leave a pond round the bend.

In low water navigation is not good in any place; would rather take my chances above. We do less sticking, running rafts in low water above Eau Claire than we do below; the channel is narrower in the Dells, and the water swift, and rafts stick worse; if we keep in the channel we can most always go through with a single string; I never stuck a raft in the channel of the Dells; in low water the worst point of the river is from "eight-mile bluff" to the mouth of the river; in low water the upper Dells are the worst part of the river between Eau Claire and the Falls; this is five or six miles above Pine Rapids; that portion of the river wouldn't be affected by the erection of this dam; the worst part of the lower dells is below where the dam is proposed; that portion of the Dells cannot be improved by the erection of this dam; the dam may be on the worst place of the lower Dells; I do not know just where it is to be.

I should say it would be worth more to run from Falls with the dam, than it now is; I don't know how much; would be worth something more; can't say how many cents per thousand; the party running lumber contracts to deliver what he receives

Cross-examination.—I do not know price paid to pilots from Eau Claire; sometime every season the river is low; would average about a month for six years, they had to run with single strings over Dells; have stuck lots of lumber on Dells in low water; have seen other lumber stuck there; the chief objection, I have spoken of, is the dead water; it would take more men; I think it would be necessary to tie up a raft to uncouple it in dead water.

I think the slack water above the dam would be a nice place for coupling; I think the men could uncouple in ten minutes in a calm day, if they had nothing else to do; the cut-off will shorten the distance, may be, about two miles; don't think rafts could be got through as easy by way of cut-off with dam, as by way of the bend as it now is. One day in three, in the spring, the wind blows enough to stop a raft in the water above the dam; have had winds at mouth of river, which stop us in back water sometimes a day.

FEBRUARY 22, 1871.

B. F. MANAHAN sworn:

My family reside at Dubuque; I have lived on the Chippewa river for twenty years; have been manufacturing lumber for twenty years at Chippewa City, six miles above Chippewa Falls; have run all my lumber over the dam at the falls—about a million and a half yearly; always give it my personal attention.

From 1855 to 1857 we had to run over a sixteen feet dam, of H. S. Allen & Co.'s, at the falls; during the fall of 1855 and spring of 1856 we were shut in entirely; the dam was commenced early, but they were unable to make it hold water.

In the latter part of the season, we made attempts to run strings, but did not succeed in getting any over safely. It was thought that the slide was constructed in the best manner and in about the best place, but we did not succeed with it. The reason we could not run with safety, was from the rapidity of the current. The velocity acquired by the raft in going over the slide, when it went off from the apron, make it strike the eddy, dive down, and endanger the lives of the men. The spring following, we experimented, but had to let the lumber go over loose. Out of a million or one million three hundred thousand feet, we were minus one hundred and forty-five thousand of stock; we were six or eight weeks in picking up lumber that went below. There was no arrangement in the slide at the falls to gage the quantity of water.

The first dam built at the head of the Falls was six feet; the sixteen foot dam was built two-thirds the way down the Falls; it went out in spring of 1858; the six foot dam was replaced and remained till about four years ago; it had been out of repairs various times before.

It is about double the expense fitting up rafts for running dams, than it is without; this additional expense amounts to about thirty cents a thousand; in running six foot dams, we always experienced a good deal of difficulty; this was because the dams were eternally out of order; I experienced lots of loss in running these six foot dams; from this loss or damage it was more expensive running lumber to the mouth of the river.

Had frequently to re-raft the lumber; that was one of the items of increased expense; the expense of running lumber was about 20 cents additional from its having been run over dam; every string was damaged some in running over dam; was more or less damaged; can't state the proportions.

Could run full rafts over Dells when we could run the Falls; could run with full raft with ten inches less of water over Dells than over Falls; run three and one-half cribs over Falls at a time; coupled rafts half mile below Falls; sometimes twenty-one and sometimes twenty-eight cribs in a raft. Frequently experienced difficulty below Eau Claire, at Goose Lake, when we had run safely over Dells with full rafts.

Am familiar with proposed improvement at Dells; am not in favor of the passage of this bill. The building of this dam would obstruct navigation of river for boats and rafts. The river, I think, would remain ice-bound longer from slack water than swift water. It would remain from ten days to two weeks longer with dam than without. Navigation would be totally obstructed so long as the ice was solid. Slack water will interfere very materially with navigation. I don't think it is possible to construct dam sixteen feet high and chute at Dells so as to run lumber over safely. My reason is that I have made the running of dams a speciality for twenty years, and getting information.

A dam constructed in the best possible manner would frequently be out of order. The action of the water, coming through the chute throws up bars; and rafts, coming through with additional velocity will strike the bars composed of boulders of different sizes

I would not contract to run any body of lumber, with the dam, from Chippewa Falls to the mouth of the river, and guarantee the lumber, for five dollars a thousand. I believe it would cost $2.50 a thousand to run the lumber out with the dam, and $2.00 per thousand extra, more than it costs now

This estimate of expense includes the danger, delays and losses; I think it would consume as much time to run the five miles of slack water as the ten miles above to Falls; I think the ordinary additional expense, including fitting and running, would be about one dollar from the dam. It was partly this reason, why I left off manufacturing, because of running dams; I think the manufacture of lumber could not be maintained above, if the dam was put in; the margin would be too small.

I am familiar with the feelings and wishes of the people of Chippewa county; I think they are universally opposed to this improvement.

I think with a small dam above foot of cut-off, and without a dam below, there would be a good current in the cut-off; it would be similar to the Galena cut-off; rafts could go through it, and the pond would be a good harbor for logs; a cut-off don't amount to much in slack water; I think the current would purse the old channel, but that is all a matter of guess work and opinion; have been running lumber up to September for the last season.

February 23, 1871.

JAMES A. TAYLOR sworn :

I reside at Chippewa Falls; have resided there sixteen years; Chippewa Falls has city organization and 8,000 people; I was mayor of the city last year; am engaged in lumbering; my mill is located a mile and a half below Chippewa Falls; been engaged in manufacturing since 1860; was clerk on steamboat "H. S. Allen" sixteen years ago, for four months, on Chippewa river. Our boat started from St. Paul; the water was so low we couldn't get into the mouth of Chippewa; some time after, in August, same year, we took a load of freight and barge from Wabasha up the river; it was fair stage of water; we had to leave the barge on upper Dell; had no trouble in getting boat to Falls.

Made several trips to the Falls that year from Wabashaw; we found a little more difficulty in getting up from Eau Claire than below, the water being swifter; the channel was as good as that below. The only difficulty above Eau Claire was from the current being more rapid; have run no steamboats since; one season since, chartered a small boat and made several trips from Eau Claire to the Falls. It was in 1866, in a boat called the "Willie Spray;" made thirteen or sixteen trips, I think sixteen, in the months of May and June. The river to the Falls was run by boats in 1865, 1866, 1867 and 1868; was more boating those years than before or since. During these years there was a surplus of wheat; some fifteen different boats have been up to Chippewa Falls since I have been there; among the number were the "Allen," "G. H. Wilson," "Chippewa Falls," "Colona," "Chippewa Valley," "Cutter," "Spray," "Chippewa," "Ida Campbell," "Makokata City," "Johny Schmoker," "Silas Wright" and "Union." I have seen most of these boats at the Falls at all stages of water; when they can get to Eau Claire they can usually go up to the Falls; it is as navigable for boats from the Falls to Eau Claire as below.

I know where the railroad bridge is and the proposed dam, as marked on map; there are some thirteen or fourteen mills above the proposed dam, viz: mill at "Jim's Falls," W. termen & Howe; Woodruff & Taft, Stanley & Bros, Gilbert, two mills, Yellow river; Chippewa Falls mills: Union Lumbering Company, Mitchel & Clements, Gravel Island mill, John Barron's, Hodgins & Robinson, Wheaton Lumbering Company, Prescott, Burdett & Co., Fowles; Ingraham & Kennedy and Nelson Hunter & Co. Hodgins & Robinson mill would be in back-water from the sixteen feet dam. The last named five mills would be benefitted by dam from back-water to hold logs. The cutting capacity of all the mills above works is ninety-five millions a year; could saw two-thirds as much more by sawing day and night, making about 150 millions in all; the cutting capacity of the five mills benefitted by slack-water, would be twenty millions, or thirty-five millions day and night; the lower mills would be benefitted by slack-water to hold logs; the owners of these mills all reside at East and West Eau Claire, and some are interested in business there.

These five lower mills could deliver their lumber to a point below the dam by a tram railroad. The Gilberts used to run lumber over their dam to the Chippewa; they have since built a railroad track over which they deliver all their lumber to Chippewa; they find it cheaper and safer ; I used to receive lumber after it had passed over their dam ; it was most always broken up in front, and had to be re-raftered before running to the Falls. In 1859, we were obliged to re-rafter about thirty cribs, which had run over the dam at Yellow river, part of it was more or less broken and lost ; sometimes half of the two bottom courses were gone. The Gilbert mills are about half a mile up Yellow river ; one dam was about eight feet, and one three and a half feet, both built with slides.

Chippewa rafts from falls, average twenty-one cribs ; three cribs wide and seven long, and twelve to eighteen courses. Last season we rafted none less than fourteen courses deep ; average depth at the falls, about fifteen courses the last two years ; there is no difficulty in running rafts from the falls to Eau Claire, when we can run " rapid pieces " over the falls ; we never experienced more difficulty in running the Dells, than below Eau Claire ; we could run over the Dells easier ; the upper Dells has a peculiar gravel bar and is more difficult in running than the lower. If they wish to run the lower Dells in single strings, they uncouple while running ; it is not the chute that makes the difficulty, it is the short turns in running ; they uncouple while running, and push one string ahead of the other through the Dells, and couple below without stopping. This coupling and uncoupling can only be done in low water—can not be in high or medium stage.

There is no difficulty in running full sized rafts from Falls to Eau Claire in ordinary stages of water ; can then run it quickest of any place and with less danger ; it is the best part of river ; the only difficulty in good stages comes from the piers at Hodgins & Robinson's mill.

There were five or six steamboat trips to the Falls last year ; there was no wheat to be shipped, only one or two loads of flour ; this is the reason no more boats run.

Am acquainted with the river at proposed dam ; the effect of erecting a sixteen foot dam would be injurious to every person who has to run lumber over it ; it would cost an extra price to fit out lumber to run over the dam ; that expense would consist of spring-poles, diving boards and double couplings on each crib ; taking the season through, think it would take an extra day on each trip, nothing being in the way ; I base my opinion from having been from four or five hours delayed in big eddy above the Dells, polling raft through in low water ; there was about a half a mile of dead water.

It would be an additional expense to run the chute of the proposed dam, by having to uncouple above, and to have an extra man to run the separate pieces through ; I never saw more than four cribs run at one time over a chute ; if we have to uncouple and run only four cribs at a time, it would need two extra oars and three extra men on each string—one of them a pilot ; there would be a delay of a quarter of a day for each raft in landing above the dam to uncouple and fit the lumber for running the chute ; this fitting would include spring-poles, head-plank, diving-boards and shipping oars; after running the chute they would have to run wherever they could land below and couple together again.

Could land at Eau Claire below warehouse in low water, if nothing was in the way; or should have to go five or six miles below to Point Beulah; should have to stop and re-raft, if broken coming over the Chute; these difficulties would be increased if large number of rafts were running at same time; it would be almost impossible to find landing places below the Dells in high water, or if large amount of lumber were running. I have seen fifteen to twenty rafts, of three or four strings each, start from Chippewa Falls in one day; it would, I think, be impossible to find landing places for half this amount, at any suitable place where they could couple up; have seen from six to fifteen rafts leave the Falls for ten days at a time.

We could not run this dead water above the dam with head or side wind. The river is so crooked that there would be head or side wind at some point whenever the wind blew. Rafts would necessarily accumulate in the pond, and would add to the difficulty and delay of running the slide. Large amounts of logs are running about the same time as the lumber—especially when there is a freshet. I think logs would accumulate in slack water and block the channel. I have observed that logs in the Company's pond were blown up stream by winds, and it was then impossible to get a single crib through.

Lumber would be frequently broken up in running chute; think it would need more or less repairing, especially after high water; never saw a dam that slide could be run without more or less breaking of lumber; never run lumber over dams but a third to half was more or less damaged; there was a loss of deck-loading, breaking of cribs, and oars and lumber; the first two courses of cribs are rafted crossways; if bow of crib strikes, it naturally breaks the grub plank; have seen it burst the grub plank by simply striking the water at foot of slide; if you break grub plank, the front of lower course drops out, and necessarily endangers the raft; more or less boards are lost from these breakages.

Have to generally stop and re-raft cribs if broken going over the chute; have to tigh up an entire raft, if we have to re-raft a single crib; takes a half day to do this. In high water it would back up five or six feet in hight up the chute. The raft in striking dead water would be broken. We should have to use a better grub-pin, more costly and stronger grub-plank on bottum, and extra couplings in case we run over the chute. I think it would cost at least half a dollar extra expense to fit rafts and run them over the dam, with the dam in good repair—not including loss of lumber. Cannot estimate extra cost when dam was out of repair—would cost a great deal, how much I cannot say. The ice would remain longer in dead-water than in current. It remains from six to seven days in big eddy; should think it would remain ten days to two weeks longer with dam.

I think there can be a current through the cut-off sufficient for rafts, with or without a dam above the foot of the cut-off; the bend of the river would hold three times the logs all West Eau Claire mills could saw if there was a three or four foot dam above the foot of the cut-off; have a dam across the foot of the slough by my mill; it is just as high as the fall from the head—three feet three inches; built in 1861; the slough has never filled up since; the bar in it is a foot lower than at first; from this experience I am satisfied that the bend by the cut-off would not fill up; it would be as necessary for a dam to hold logs between Chippewa Falls and the Dells, as at the Dells; it is a good deal more rapid at Gravel Island, and at Hodgin & Robison's, than at the place where the booms are, at the Dells; I know Mr. Barron expects to ask the legislature for a dam at his mill, two miles below my mills, if this succeeds.

I am satisfied they can make suitable works to stock their mills at Eau Claire, if they spend the same amount of money they do each year to pass this bill. I have maintained a boom 2,700 feet long, in more rapid water, than at their boom at Eau Claire for ten years; never broke boom or lost any amount of logs. If proper works are constructed above the Falls, securing and regulating running of logs, they can be assorted at Chippewa Falls, and when so assorted can be easier assorted at Gravel Island, and still easier at points below from being less logs to assort. Their assorting works at Eau Claire are as good as at Hodgen's and Robinson's mill; they can assort logs as well and have less to assort. It would not be necessary to store a full stock of logs at Eau Claire, if there were flooding-dams above the Falls, nor would it be necessary to drive them at once.

I have been on the company's boom almost every day during the running season for two years; I know they do not pick out logs according to quality; they have a man employed who sees that the logs for below are passed; the people of Chippewa county are opposed to this dam; don't think I could name any except Mr. Barron and the Wheaton Lumber Company; I don't think there is half a dozen men in the county in favor of it; I think the dam would injure or completely destroy the manufacturing interests above it; I think it would depreciate mill property fifty per cent.; can't say whether it would depreciate the value of pine lands or not; think it would affect the price of agricultural lands about the same as mill property.

Cross-examination—I don't know of a large number of pine land owners who are in favor of this improvement; I don't know anything about it; I have run lumber over dams on Yellow River and Chippewa, only in favorable stage of water; they had a windlass to raise slide at dam on Yellow River; it was not such a one as Mr. Smith described here; it remained about a year and then they took it out. The ice remains in big eddy, above Chippewa Falls longer than where there is a current. As a general rule have to rely on logs that come down to start in the spring; generally have logs for three or four days or a week before big eddy opens; I have generally enough to start with; have had them two or three years.

I know Capt. Wilson who testified, and his mill; have no personal knowledge of his running lumber over his dam at his mill; it would cost half a dollar a thousand to fit lumber to run over the dam; would not insure its safety at any price; when the wind blew up stream, we could not get a boat through the logs in slack-water; if the slide was imperfect, or you couldn't get lumber over the slide, or the wind held the lumber back, then a boat could not go up through; if the channel was kept open and a good lock constructed, and the boat passed the lock, there would be no trouble in going on; but I don't believe they could manage a lock in high water; I have heard of rivers being improved by slack-water navigation.

There is most always lumber stored at Chippewa Falls, ready to run in the spring; the great damage of running lumber comes from running it when water is not at proper stage; It would be impossible to keep channel open through this pond when wind was blowing and logs running.

February 24, 1871.

H..S. ALLEN sworn.—I reside at Chippewa Falls; have lived there twenty-six years; my business has been making lumber, rafting and logging; am to some extent acquainted with pineries above Chippewa Falls; considered one of the best in the Northwest; am acquainted with the general character of the river as far up as logs are obtained; the river above the Falls is only navigable for batteaus, which we draw over the rapids; not navigable for steamboats, but for rafts from "Jim's Falls" in medium stage of water; have been engaged in running lumber from Chippewa Falls down; the river is considered good for running steamboats and rafts from the Falls in medium stages of water; I have myself run rafts down the river, and am acquainted with the navigation.

Was for about thirteen years engaged in the manufacture of lumber at Chippewa Falls. During all that time the Chippewa river from the Falls to Eau Claire was a good river for running rafts in ordinary stages of water. It was good for running rafts all that time except in extrem high or low water; am acquainted with the the river from Eau Claire down to the Mississippi. all things considered. The navigation of the river is as good from the Falls to Eau Claire, as from Eau Claire to the mouth of the river in ordinary stages of water. Am acquainted with the Dells, the place proposed to erect this dam; am acquainted from the bill, with the kind of works proposed to be put in. Such a dam as is proposed by bill, I should say, would obstruct navigation at that point. It would still obstruct navigation for boats and rafts, if locks and boats were ever so perfect. I should think these obstructions, if put into the river, would have the effect to injure the lumber interest above that point, more particularly ; and what effects the lumber interest, we think affects agriculture and other interests.

In my opinion this dam is not needed to protect the lumber and logging interest in Chippewa Valley ; I do not think the proposed dam would have the effect to secure logs in extreme high water at Eau Claire ; I do not know of any way to construct works to hold logs at Eau Claire, except the means used at present ; I doubt if they can construct works to hold logs safe, with or without a dam at Eau Claire, in high water ; I think they can make it as safe without a dam as with it ; I wouldn't say that the works above would make the present works at Eau Claire any safer ; the construction of the upper works would enable them to get their logs by degrees, and hold them more safely.

Have had experience in running lumber over dams and chutes ; I built the first slide and run the first raft over it, ever run in Chippewa waters. My experience in running rafts has been pretty bad in the way of breaking lumber ; my first experience was on the small creeks running into the Menomonee ; I built three dams and three slides on one creek there ; after running over a considerable quantity of lumber, I found that it cost me more to run the slides and repair my rafts after running, than it did to haul my lumber the distance of three-fourths of a mile. I then abandoned the idea of running lumber over dams. My next experience was on Chippewa river at the Falls. I constructed a slide for running a low dam, which I built across the river ; I built it in the best manner I could ; we were always troubled with more or less breakages in running the slide ; sometimes we run safely, other times broke rafts very bad.

This dam was four or five feet high at head of Falls ; the slide about one hundred feet long ; here received the greatest damages at the foot of the slide, as the lower end of the rafts run off the foot of the slide, the cribs would sink to the bottom of the river, and very frequently break. The cause of sinking was from the speed of the raft running into the water below, which was comparatively slack to the water running over slide. The same is true to a certain extent of any chute, so far as my experience goes. These slides that were built, were not built for my own accommodation, but for those manufacturing lumber above. There used to be great complaint that the slide was not properly built, as they said they could have got over without breaking. I consulted with Mr. Manahan and other parties, as to the best method of constructing these slides and after building them in accordance with the conclusion we all came to, we found we had not improved it much, as regards the safety of running.

My next experience was a still bigger one ; it was in constructing a slide over a dam that I built half or two-thirds of the way down the rapids of the falls, sixteen feet high ; that slide was built by a man who pretended to be competent to build slides ; he constructed a slide over this dam in accordance with my opinion and those above; when we came to use the slide we found our rafts broke very bad in running over it; we then lengthened the slide out to nearly three hundred feet, with fingers attached to it; the fingers were long sticks of round timber, attached to the foot of the slide and running down stream; they were put there for the purpose of buoying up and slackening the speed of the lumber and to prevent it from sinking and breaking on the bottom of the river.

After this alteration was made we thought we had it perfect, so that we could run over it without breaking, but on trial we found we were not sure of running over safely; sometimes we would break and sometimes go over safely; there was a large amount of lumber run over this slide, and a large amount of damages claimed for breakage; it cost me $15,000 to compromise with these men for damage who run lumber from above; about seven millions feet were run over yearly; they rafted with two one-half inch grub-plank, with heavy grub-pins, that came up through the plank which form the bottom of the crib; in binding off rafts we bind with two inch plank; in rafting to run the slide, we generally put on double couplings, which is not done below the Falls.

In fitting for running, we put spring-poles into the forward end of the raft to raise it up and keep it from sinking. We coupled three and a half cribs together to run the falls; that was all we thought we could run over the slide safely. If the raft was longer, it would be more apt to break and run deeper into water. There are between eighty and a hundred millions of lumber manufactured in the vicinity of the Falls, that would have to run over the proposed dam.

I think it would cost from twenty-five to fifty cents more a thousand to run lumber over this dam, when completed with lock and slide, than it does now. I should think this estimate of twenty-five to fifty cents would cover the whole amount of damages and breakages—that is, if the dam and chute were kept in good repair. If the dam is not in repair and don't work well, we could not run at all. I could not estimate the damages in such a case.

I had some experience in running lumber over slides, the past four years—that is upon a creek I am now living upon, called Duncan's Creek; this creek has three dams on it, and three slides; those slides have been fitted and re-fitted every year, and they have never been a success in running lumber out of the creek; always breaking to some considerable extent; generally run two cribs in length over them. My experience is that all dams and chutes made to run lumber, are very liable to get out of repair—especially on big rivers, from extreme high water, and running of logs and drifts.

Am acquainted with the bend in the river above the Dells; I think if they can make that cut-off, and make it work well, they should throw the dam and piers across the river above the foot of the cut-off. They could make it as secure by putting in piers there as they could by a dam below. From what I know of the channel of the river, they can't make a cut-off and get the water through it without making a dam across the river between the ends of the cut-off ; my reasons are that the water strikes from the east side of the river, probably a mile or half a mile above the cut-off when it strikes the west shore ; then the channel strikes over to the east shore again, leaving shallow water all along the head of the cut-off.

I heard Capt. Wilson testify as to a bend in his river similar to this ; it is similar in some respects, and in some respects it is not. The formation of this bend is entirely different, at the head of the cut-off, from what it is at his ; at this cut-off the river runs straight past the head of the cut-off, with the channel on the opposite side, while on his river there is a long bend in the river, keeping the channel close to the head of his cut-off. This gives the water a natural tendency to break through the cut-off, which in this does not. I once owned the Menomonee property where Capt. Wilson is, and run that river.

If you put the Dells dam below the mouth of the cut-off, the current will still pursue its natural course, and the cut-off will fill up.

The building of the dam, and not the boomage, is the only feature of this bill which is opposed by the people living above. I never heard of anybody objecting to boomage, and everybody does object to the dam ; the people above are willing that the cut-off should be built ; never heard any objections to the cut-off without the dam ; in my opinion a boom can be built without the proposed dam, as safely as they can be without ; in my opinion the objects of this bill, as to boomage, can be as well attained without the dam as with it ; the head would hold more logs with a strong current than it would without a current ; with a dam built, and slack water, it would not hold a fourth as many logs in the same space as it would without. If it is necessary to build a dam at this point to hold logs, it is equally necessary at other points where they manufacture lumber below Chippewa Falls.

If the improvements as proposed, are built, the logs and lumber always coming down together as they do, will get so mixed up in the dead water in the pond, that it will be difficult to handle the lumber among the logs, thus causing a delay in getting them down ; if the wind was blowing up, it would mix the logs and lumber still worse and make it more difficult to get the lumber through the pond.

Cross-examination — If the dam should be constructed with good locks, as required in this bill, it would be an improvement to navigation in extreme low water, which is but a short time of the year. I built the steamer Chippewa—30 feet beam, 150 long, and drawing 4 feet water ; she made her regular trips up, over the Dells, in good, ordinary stages of water, as easily as she would run in any part of the Chippewa. I think there is a portion of every year when it would not be practical for steamers, that arrive at Eau Claire, to go over the Dells ; at that time the dam and locks would assist navigation over the Dells, if the pond was not filled up with logs and lumber. The last slide on Chippewa Falls, I spoke of, was put in in 1856.

I have built no chutes since then; have not seen the chutes at Ottawa, Canada; have not examined the chutes at Capt. Wilson's mill for three years; have had no experience in running a chute where there was machinery to control the amount of water that entered the chute.

Re-direct. I would consider the dam and lock an obstruction for rafts and boats, in good water, for the river is good enough in ordinary stages. When I was running lumber, we never considered the Dells, in the lowest stage of water, the worst part to run.

Defendant rests.

C. R. GLEASON recalled:

The annual sawing capacity of the mills above the proposed dam who oppose this work is forty-four millions nine hundred and fifty thousand feet of merchantable lumber, one tour a day; the capacity of the mills above the proposed works and favoring them is twenty-nine millions five hundred thousand feet annually, one tour a day; the sawing capacity of the mills below the proposed dam favoring the work is eighty-three millions yearly, one tour a day.

There is a large interest in pine lands on the Chippewa, above the proposed dam, who favor this improvement; I have talked with Mr. Woodward, agent of the Cornell University lands; we have looked over this bill introduced in this house together; I have not seen him since the bill was amended; he told me they were unqualifiedly in favor of the bill, and would support it in every particular.

I have conversed with the following named gentlemen, to-wit: Mr. Flint and Mr. Rogers, of Dunn county; with Mr. McArthur, Mr. Hayden, Daniel Shaw & Co., G. A. Buffington, Mr. Hewitt, Mr. Rnmery, of Winnebago county; captain Wilson, of the firm of Knapp, Stout & Co., Dunn county; Mr. Thorpe, of the Eau Claire lumber company, and with Mr. Putnam, of Eau Claire, all of whom own large quantities of pine lands on Chippewa rivers and tributaries, and are in favor of this bill as amended. The Cornell University, represented by Mr. Woodward, own over 400,000 acres above the Falls. The parties with whom I have conversed in relation to this matter, altogether, claim to own over 800,000 acres.

Cross Examination.—I am much in favor of this improvement; in talking with these men, I represented to them that it would be a great benefit to their interest, and they told me they believed it.

The following is the sawing capacity of the different mills referred to as opposing this improvement :

Waterman's Mill.....	1,200,000
Gilbert Company.....	9,000,000
Chippewa Falls Mill	18,750,000
Gravel Island Mill.....	6,000,000
Hodgin & Robinson's.....	6,000,000
Manahan's Mill.....	1,500,000
Colman & Mitchell's.....	2,500,000

The capacity of Union Lumbering or Chippewa Falls Mills, is not over eighteen million seven hundred and fifty thousand, as it is usually run, one tour a day, and in proportion as the other mills are estimated. This mill will cut on an average, one hundred and ten thousand, one tour a day. This amount does not include the gang put in last fall. The sawing season varies from one hundred and fifty to one hundred and seventy days—oftimes one hundred and fifty.

The capacity of the several mills above improvements who favor them are as follows :

John Barrons mill.....	6,00 000
Wheaton Lumbering Co.....	3,00 000
Prescott, Burditt & Co.....	3,00 000
L. W. Farwell.....	2,50 000
Wilson Hunter & Co.....	3,00 000
Ingraham & Kenedy.....	6,00 000

The last five will be in the slack water made by the dam; the owners reside at Eau Claire.

The following is the capacity of the mills below the Dells, favoring the improvements :

Ingraham & Kennedy.....	2,500,000
Buffington.....	5,000,000
Chippewa Lumber Company.....	6,000,000
Ingraham & Kennedy.....	7,500,000
Ingraham & Pinkham.....	3,500,000
D. Shaw & Co.....	11,500,000
Esterbrook.....	2,500,000
Porter & Moon.....	6,000,000
Gorton.....	1,500,000
Boyd & Co.....	2,500,000
McCrory.....	2,500,000
Clough mill.....	1,000,000

Most of these mills depend wholly on Chippewa river for stock—some of them do not; of the persons named, owning pine lands in Chippewa county and who do not reside in that county, this list may not be over one-tenth of the whole; as to quantity they represent in the neighborhood of eight-tenths of the pine lands owned by parties outside of Chippewa county; the Cornell University lands are mostly pine lands.

I could mention some other parties who own such lands.

REPORT
HON. C. C. KUNTZ, CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION;

Made to the Assembly, Tuesday Evening, March 21, 1871.

The committee on Education, to whom was referred that part of the Governor's message relating to educational matters, gave it the most careful consideration, which was due to a document emanating from such a high source, and respectfully submit herewith the following report :

COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

The question of compulsory education, which has been discussed and agitated pro and con in this and other States for several years, is a grave and important one, and deserves the most careful investigation.

It is generally admitted that ignorance is a great evil and an obstacle in the course of the moral and material development of any nation, and it is therefore to be deplored in a nation with a republican form of government, because education and culture are the chief corner stones of free institutions, and ignorance is the great enemy of liberty and self-government. And furthermore, there is no country in which national existence or character will so depend upon good education and high cultivation as in ours. Here are vast multitudes, collected from other nations, as well as of native growth, thrown together in a breadth of territory, whose resources dazzle the imagination, and for the present defy calculations. And these multitudes, constantly increasing, and with so wide a field to act in, are in a state of freedom, as no other people has ever before possessed.

For all these reasons it is admitted by every one, that it is the first duty of the legislature to foster and encourage education ; but when the question comes up, whether the state has a right to enforce school attendance, or whether it would be expedient under given circumstances to enact a compulsory school law, there arises a great diversity of opinions. While some deny to the state the right to enforce such a law, others are of the firm opinion that it would be impracticable. It is true the compulsory system has worked well in Germany.

But it must be remembered that Germany is a densely populated country, where nine-tenths of the people live in cities and villages, with the school houses in their center; hence no child is prevented from going to school on account of too great a distance to the school house, bad roads or inclemency of the weather. How different here! In a country so sparsely populated, where the school house is often two and three miles distant, where bad roads, swollen streams and creeks and the inclemency of the weather very often prevent school attendance, and where that governmental surveillance that can enforce such and similar laws in monarchical countries does not exist,—would not a compulsory school law be a dead letter, because it could be avoided under one pretense or another?

And it must be also borne in mind that the high state of education and intellectual development in Germany is not due alone to the compulsory school attendance. It is perhaps just as much due to the harmonious system founded upon true pedagogical principles carried out from the common schools up to the university, and the superiority of the teachers and professors.

Every German school teacher is a graduate of normal school and a man of culture, making teaching a profession for life time, with a fair social position, and only liable to be discharged for gross or immoral conduct. He loves his profession and places all his hope in life upon it. How different here? By merely adopting the German compulsory law we cannot reach the effectiveness of the German schools. We might just as well expect to create a Prussian army by enrolling every able bodied man to be commanded by an ignorant and deficient corps of officers.

But the main question in relation to this matter is: Is the school attendance in this state so unsatisfactory as to call for a compulsory school law? It has been stated that there are over 50,000 children in this state who do not attend school, and who are growing up in ignorance. With all due respect to the high source from whence this statement emanates, we must be allowed to doubt the accuracy and reliability of these figures. It is true, that of the 412,000 persons between the ages of four years and twenty years, there are nearly 300,000 attending public, private or high schools. Does it logically follow that the remaining 100,000 or 50,000 are growing up in ignorance? Is any sane person willing to assert that all persons ought to go from their fourth to their twentieth year to the common school? Are not six or eight years out of the sixteen sufficient to master all branches taught in our common schools? The children between the ages of four and seven, number at least 80,000, of which number, according to the highest estimate, hardly 30,000 attend school, leaving 50,000 at home.

But this is no misfortune for the cause of education; nay, it would be desirable to keep all children of that age out of school. Of persons between the ages of fifteen years and twenty years, there at least 110,000 in this state, and it is safe to say that no more than 40,000 of that class attend school, because they are really past the average school age, and have undoubtedly attended school more or less in previous years. They have now entered upon the active pursuits of life; several thousand teaching, and a great many already married. If we add the absentees below the age of seven, to those above fifteen, there will remain a very small percentage growing up in ignorance. And that this is actually the fact, is shown by the census returns. There are only three New England States showing a smaller percentage of adult illiterates than Wisconsin, and if we take the New England States as a unit, Wisconsin stands foremost in the United States, having but 4 1-2 per cent of adult illiterates, while the New England States have 5 per cent.

The same proportion takes place in regard to the illiterate adults above twenty and under twenty-one years.

While we assert that the number of children attending schools in Wisconsin is sufficiently large (as large as in any State), we will admit and deplore that the yearly average attendance of each pupil is too short, and that too large a number attend irregularly. Can these evils be remedied by a compulsory school law? Let us first see what are the causes: indifference and poverty of parents, inconvenience of location of school houses, and mainly, the inefficiency of school teachers. These being the causes, the remedies must be adopted to meet them. The indifference must be overcome by diffusion of enlightened views concerning the importance of education; inconvenient location of school houses must be changed wherever possible; the inefficient teachers, who are unable to make their schools attractive by interesting their pupils and exciting their thirst for learning, must give place to others.

The co-operation of all parties interested is necessary for the removal of this evil. More, however, depends upon the teachers than upon all others. A good teacher possesses the power to make his school attractive to the child, and when the child is attracted to the school-room, its persuasion will be irresistible with the parents. The percentage of attendance of a school is generally a fair index to the capacity of the teacher.

Have we a sufficient corps of skillful and efficient teachers? Any one who has visited our schools and understands but the rudiments of pedagogics will answer no. How can it be otherwise? More than 90 per cent. of our teachers have never received any instruction in the art and science of teaching, 40 per cent. are new and inexperienced, changing their places every term, looking upon the school room as a mere make-shift for the present. Need we wonder that their hearts and souls are not with their calling, that they are slaves to their text-books, and who seem to believe that their whole duty consists in "hearing recitations."

These statements may sound harsh to many, but they are nevertheless true of the great majority of our teachers. Wherever we go, we hear the same complaints. Prof. Phelps, of the Minnesota normal schools, says in his report: "While much has been done for the improvement of elementary instruction, especially in cities and larger towns, as a whole, the schools forming the lower part of our system are deplorably deficient. They are mainly in the hands of ignorant, unskilled teachers. The children are fed upon the mere husks of knowledge. Poor schools and poor teachers are in the majority throughout the country. Multitudes of schools are so poor that it would be as well for the country if they were closed. They waste its resources. They are little else than instruments for the formation of mental deformities. They repress the native aspiration of the child for knowledge. They foster habits of indifference and carelessness, which are the bane of his future life. That the inefficient and worthless character of so many of these lower schools is a prolific cause of ignorance is proved by the fact that whenever good schools take their places, a large increase of attendance at once occurs, and the 'noble army of truant and absentees' is correspondingly diminished."

How and by what means can we procure better qualified teachers? Can the present system of State Normal Schools be extended so as to supply the want of trained teachers? We believe not, because it would take at least fifteen Normal Schools to supply all schools with trained teachers; and if it were possible, it would not benefit the great majority of our country schools, as they are neither able nor willing to pay such a salary as a graduate of a normal school has a right to expect. What the State needs is a harmonious system of county academies with a Normal department. Such institutions would not only afford an opportunity to all youth of the State to get a higher education, and would furnish well prepared students to the University, but would also do more through its Normal department to elevate the character of our common schools than can possibly be done by State Normal Schools, which will, under existing circumstances and the present condition of the country, only provide cities and villages with trained teachers. Let us see how such an academy with three or four classes could be organized and what studies pursued:

Hours per Week for each Class.

Art and science of teaching Latin and Greek could be made elective. A great many pupils would attend only one or two years; for this reason the art and science of teaching ought to be taught the first two years.

With such an academy in each county there would be no more excuse for being an inefficient teacher; our schools would be elevated and improved in a very short period. It is true such a system of high schools would call for an expenditure of about $200,000, but this sum, large as it may appear, is only ten per cent of the amount now expended for our common schools, half of which is wasted on account of untrained and inefficient teachers.

But whatever these schools may cost, the State cannot foster and encourage education to a better advantage than by establishing such institutions. They will afford the possibility of education as widely and freely as the common schools, but it will be the possibility of a higher education, consistently and harmoniously ordered.

Now a vast amount of time is lost in childhood and youth for the want of early opportunities of educational training, and young men who propose to enter the higher institutions of learning have either to suffer the loss of knowledge which ought to have been acquired long before, or are compelled by spasmodic efforts, often ruinous to the health and injurious to the mind itself, to make up, and that in an imperfect manner, the deficiencies of early life.

Our University would also be elevated, because it would be attended by a class of well prepared students. Every one who has studied the development of the school system in other countries, know that without a perfected university, we can never have a perfected system of public education, even in the lowest degree; and as it has been, so must it ever be, that popular education must flow out of the higher institutions, as the showers that water the valleys and plains fall from clouds which were gathered on the mountains.

The University, the academies, the normal schools, once started into existence, must move on together. Each is necessary to the whole, and the prosperity of each contributes to the prosperity of whole. Nothing but sheer sciolism or other ignorance can conceive of any opposition between them. As it has been truly said: "Education is like a garden of trees, where some are just springing from the earth, some have attained a young growth, some are beginning to tower aloft in nascent form, beauty and strength, while others have reached a mature and majestic growth, and are bearing seeds and scattering them far and wide. There can be no great trees, unless there are first the little sprouts shooting through the soil, but the great trees sow the seeds which perpetuate the kind."

The following bill, introduced at the latter part of the session, did not, for want of time, receive that attention which it deserves; but it is to be hoped that at the next session of the Legislature it will become a law:

A BILL PROVIDING FOR COUNTY ACADEMIES.

Introduced by C. C. Kuntz.

Section 1. Each county in the State, having a population of two thousand inhabitants or over, as shown by the last State or Federal census, may establish an academy on the conditions and in the manner hereinafter prescribed, for the purposes of affording better educational facilities for pupils more advanced than those attending district schools, and for persons desiring to fit themselves for the University.

Section 2. For the purpose of encouraging the establishment of such academies, there is hereby annually appropriated the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be needed, out of any moneys in the State treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Section 3. Any county that shall establish such an academy in the manner hereinafter prescribed, shall receive from the State treasury, one hundred dollars for every one thousand inhabitants in such a county; provided, however, the county will raise at least an equal amount and provide for the necessary building.

Section 4. Whenever a majority of the board of supervisors, at any one of their regular meetings, shall have decided to establish such an academy, they shall immediately proceed to appoint six persons, who shall be residents of the county, but no more than two of whom shall be residents of the same town, who shall with the county superintendent of common schools, constitute a board of trustees for said academy. Each of said trustees, appointed as aforesaid, shall hold his office until his successor is elected and qualified; and shall be required within ten days after appointment, to qualify, by taking the oath of office and giving such bonds as may be required by the said board of supervisors, for the faithful discharge of his duties.

Section 5. At the next general election after said appointment there shall be elected in such county, six trustees, who shall be divided into three classes of two each; and each class to hold their of-five one, two or three years respectively, and their respective terms to be decided by lot; and each year thereafter there shall be two such trustees elected to succeed those whose term is about to expire. And said trustees shall qualify and enter upon the duties of their office in the same manner, and at the same time as other county officers.

Section 6. The county superintendent shall be ex-officio president of said board of directors, and at their first meeting in each year, they shall appoint from their own number a secretary and treasurer, who shall perform the usual duties devolving upon such officers, for the term of one year, or until their successors are appointed to take their places.

Section 7. At said meeting, or at some succeeding meeting called for such purpose, said trustees shall make an estimate of the amount of funds needed for building purposes, for payment of teachers' wages and for contingent expenses, and they shall present to the board of supervisors a certified estimate of the per centum of tax required to raise the amount desired for such purposes.

Section 8. The said tax shall be levied and collected in the same manner as other county taxes, and when collected the county treasurer shall pay the same to the treasurer of the county academy, in the same manner that school funds are paid to the district treasurer as required by law.

Section 9. The amount of money which the county is entitled to receive from the state, according to the provisions of section 3, shall be paid by state treasurer to the treasurer of the county academy, on the warrants of the secretary of the state, to be drawn in pursuance of the certificate of the secretary of the board of trustees, and countersigned by the president of said board of trustees, and such other evidence as the secretary of the state shall require; and no such certificate shall be issued until the necessary buildings shall have been provided by the county, or any town, village or city therein.

Section 10. The treasurer of the academy shall give such additional bond as the trustees may deem sufficient, and receive all moneys from the state and county treasury and from other parties, that belong to the funds of said school, and pay the same out only by direction of the board of trustees, upon order duly executed by the president, and countersigned by the secretary thereof, stating the purpose for which they were drawn. Both the secretary and treasurer shall keep an accurate account of all moneys received and expended for said academy; and at the close of each year, and as much oftener as required by the board, they shall make a full statement of the financial affairs of the school.

Section 11. The said board of trustees shall proceed as soon as practicable, after their appointment as aforesaid, to select the best site that can be obtained without expense, and a title thereof shall be vested in said county. They shall then proceed to make such purchases of material, and let such contracts for their necessary school buildings as they may deem proper. The said board of trustees shall also have power and authority to demand and receive the sum or sums of money donated and subscribed by any person or persons, or any town, village or city in the county, to aid in the erection of the necessary buildings in such manner as said board may prescribe, and apply the same to the erection and completion of the required buildings, the purchase of the necessary books, apparatus, furniture and fixtures.

Section 12. When said board of trustees shall have furnished a suitable building for the academy, they shall employ some competent teacher to take charge of the same and furnish such assistant teachers as they may deem necessary and provide for their salaries. The course of studies to be pursued in such academics shall be: English language and literature, German language and literature (French and Latin eclectic), mathematics, natural science, geography, history, national economy, the fundamental laws of the United States and this state, book-keeping, drawing and vocal music, and a special course of instruction in the theory and art of teaching for those students who desire to fit themselves for the vocation of teaching. As far as practicable, model schools shall be encouraged.

Section 13. Tuition shall be free to all pupils of such academy residing in the county where the same is located. The board of trustees, however, shall make such rules and regulations as they deem proper in regard to age and grade of attainments, essential to entitle pupils to admission in the school. If there should be more applicants than can be accommodated at any time, each district shall be entitled to send its equal proportion of pupils, according to the number of scholars it may have, as shown by the last report to the county superintendent of common schools, and the boards of the respective school districts shall designate such pupils as may attend.

Section 14. If at any time the academy can accommodate more pupils than apply for admission from the county, the vacancy may be filled by applicants from other counties, upon the payment of such tuition as the board of trustees may prescribe, but at no time shall pupils continue in said academy to the exclusion of pupils belonging to the county in which such academy is situated.

Section 15. The principal of any such academy, with the approval of the board of trustees, shall make such rules and regulations as he may deem proper, in regard to studies, conduct and government of the pupils under his charge, and if any such pupils will not conform to, and obey the rules of the school, that they may be suspended or expelled therefrom, by the board of trustees.

Section 16. The said board of trustees shall annually make a report to the board of supervisors of their respective county, which shall specify the number of students, both male and female, who have been in attendance at the county academy during the year; the branches of learning taught, the text books used, the number of teachers employed, the amount of salaries paid to them, the amount expended for library and apparatus, and for building and all other expenses; also the amount of money on hand, debts unpaid, and other information deemed important or expedient to report. Said report shall be printed in at least one newspaper in the county, if any is published therein, and a copy of the report shall be forwarded to the state superintendent of public instruction.

Section 17. The board of supervisors shall have power to fill any vacancy that may occur in the board of trustees of that county by appointment, until the next general election, and a majority of any such board of trustees shall be a quorum for the transaction of business.

Section 18. The board of supervisors may allow each member of the board of trustees the sum of two dollars per day for the time actually employed in the discharge of his official duties, and when such accounts are presented for payment, they shall be audited and paid out of the county treasury, in the same manner as other accounts against the county, and said trustees shall not be entitled to any further remuneration for services or expenses.

Section 19. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

VALUE OF SCHOOL STATISTICS.

“Show me the nation that has the best schools, and I will show you the foremost nation. If the world does not acknowledge this to-day, it will to-morrow.”—JULES SEMORE, Minister of Education in France, 1865.

“I do not know, whether figures govern the world, but this I do know, they show how it is governed.”—GOETHE.

Dr. FICKER, the eminent statistician, uses, when he speaks of the value of schools, statistics, the following forcible language:

It cannot be denied that the best and noblest blossom on the tree of human culture, the development of the intellect and morals, blooms in every country on its own ground and under peculiar conditions. The educational system of a nation bears, therefore, in every country its own distinctive impress, to understand thoroughly which would require a retrospective view as well as study of the present condition.

The way in which education develops itself in a country will be the only sure standard of measuring the intellectual development of its inhabitants. The gathering and exhibiting of the facts which express this development are therefore synonymous with the statistics of a nation's most cherished treasure—its intellectual development. Good educational statistics will show the present generation occupied with caring for a future one; it will faithfully depict a nation's hopes and fears connected with this care, and will thereby enable states and individuals to preserve the intellectual heritage of centuries long gone by, and transmit it to the coming generations. Education statistics alone can show the way out of the bewildering maze of different educational systems; they will be of more than ordinary importance in a state, occupied with a reform of its educational system. All such reforms would build on a very unsafe foundation, if they had not been preceded and were not constantly accompanied by most exhaustive educational statistics.

The following educational statistics are very incomplete, but it has been my endeavor, as far as possible in so small a space, to give a general outline of the educational status in all countries. I endeavored to make them as reliable and correct as possible with the material on hand. Amongst many other works which I have examined, I will mention the Report of the Commissioner of Education of the United States, John Eaton; the very able and impartial Report on Education in Europe and America, by J. W. Hoyt; the Statistical Report on Education in Prussia, by Dr. Engel; the excellent history of Pedagogics', by Dr. K. Schmidt, and Kolb's Statistic.

In 1860, the adult white population of the United States was a little over thirteen and a half millions, of whom 1,218,808, were illiterate or nine and one-half per cent. Of this number 871,418, or nearly seventy per cent. were natives, and 345,890, or thirty per cent. were of foreign birth.

In the first column showing the percentage of the population attending school, the New England states show a smaller percentage than several western states; but it must be remembered that the New England states have for several reasons proportionably fewer children.

It will also be noticed that the New England states with exception of Rhode Island, have less than one per cent. native illiterates. The next in order is Wisconsin, with one and one-quarter per cent. of native illiterates, but if we take the native and foreign population together, then there are only three states, Maine, New Hampshire and Connecticut, ahead of Wisconsin; because the percentage of the illiterate foreign population in the New England states is more than three times as large as it is in Wisconsin, there running up as high as thirty per cent., while here it is only eight per cent.

According to the census of 1860, the United States had 31,000,000 inhabitants and 9,400,000 persons between the ages of four or five and twenty, of whom 5,600,000 attend school more or less; leaving 3,800,000 out of school; but if we count the children of the regular school age—that is between the ages of 6 and 14—there could have been not more than 5,000,000.

According to the school reports of 1869 and '70, there are 6,750,000 pupils attending schools, but in this number the school children of six States are not included; it is therefore fair to estimate the total number attending school more than or less at 8,000,000 or twenty per cent of the whole population:

The expenditures for the common schools cannot be much less than seventy million of dollars, and if we add to this sum the expenses for intermediate and higher education, the total amount cannot be much less than 90 million dollars.

Besides great many High Schools and Academies, the United States have :

337	Colleges and Collegiate Institutions,
98	Theological Seminaries,
28	Law Schools,
72	Medical Institutions,
81	Normal Schools,
26	Agricultural Schools,
58	Institutions for the Insane,

7do.....Idiots.

We have Schools by thousands (160,000), and Colleges by hundred, but no great centres of learning, graced with able professors, amply provided with libraries, apparatus and collection—we have no real Universities.

One of our best-informed American writers in relation to educational matters says: "It is not deemed necessary, by a presentation of facts so abundant on every hand, to make proof of the absolute deplorable condition of higher education everywhere in the New World, and that we have, as yet, no near approach to a university in America—a statement which no well-informed citizen will venture to deny—a fact freely acknowledged and bewailed by the responsible heads of the very highest of all our higher institutions."

We like to call ourselves a practical people. In the matter of education, at least, we are singularly unpractical. Where can our lawyers, writers, teachers, scientists find adequate preparation, just such a preparation as they really need and nothing else? Where does the young writer find the opportunity to master such trifles as political economy, history or æsthetics before he is broken into or broken down by the treadmill of the press? As to our pedagogues, the less we say of them the better. Even the students of science have little chance of advancing beyond the mere rudiments of their respective studies. We are in this matter of education, most unpractical, and yet, paradoxical as it may seem, we are unpractical because we are not theoretical. We have not made the serious attempt to realize a theory of education. We have never even put the question how we can best give our young men the general and the special training that they need.

"Germany has long ago met and answered this great question. Outside of Germany we may look in vain for the full ideal and realization of national education, perfect, of course, humanely speaking. Yet five years ago, or even as recently as last July, Germany was looked upon by the mass of Americans as inhabited by a dreaming, unpractical folk. France is now learning, to her utter discomfiture, that the mandits allemands are intensely practical, and we can at least watch from afar and profit by her experience. The wonderful results of the Franco-Prussian war are not due to mere numbers, but to discipline and patience, brains and methods.

Germany is in all the essentials of life the most practical nation in Europe, say in the world. No other nation can produce on an emergency so many men perfectly trained for just the work that is demanded of them, be that work the marshalling of a vast army, or the building of a railroad, or the revision of a code of laws, or the publishing of a Sanscrit dictionary, or the illustration of a young lady's poetical album.

The German theory of education, compressed within a few lines, is as follows: For general, preliminary training, the utmost rigor; for special development, the utmost freedom. The foundations are laid slowly, elaborately, conscientiously, in the gymnasium or in the real school. Nothing like cramming is tolerated, but the hours are taken up in teaching and explanation quite as much as in hearing recitations. Then when the scholar has passed his abiturient examination the university receives him as a student. He is free to choose his faculty, and has perfect control of his time. All that the university can do, or attempt to do, is to furnish him with the means and the opportunity of learning.

Is the system a good one? By its fruits shall it be judged. No other nation, least of all our own, can claim that its university men are its true representatives. No other nation can boast of such rank and file of lawyers, doctors, teachers, editors, writers, clergymen—all university men. Irrespective of action or creed, the alumni of the German universities are the fruit and flower of the national stem. They are true brethren in the spirit."

Prussian School Statistics for 1869.

Or, 16½ per cent. of the population.

The total amount expended for teachers in public primary schools amounted to 7,449,224 thalers (or about $5,000,000) of which 2,320,968 thalers were school fees, 4,799,958 thalers were raised by the communes and 328,298 contributed by the government. If we add the outlay for buildings to the above sum, the yearly expenditures will amount to nearly ten million of thalers (six and two-third million of dollars) for primary education; and if we include the expenses for secondary and higher education, the whole amount will not be far from ten million of dollars. The average expenditures for a gymnasium with eleven teachers are 8,500 thalers, whereof 3,500 thalers are derived from school fees, 3,000 from rents and endowments, and 2,000 thalers from the state.

"These gymnasiums and real schools are the pride of the German people, and well they may be, for in no schools in the world are physical, intellectual and moral discipline so admirably harmonized and made effective in the great work of developing and furnishing the youthful intellect with the implements of future possibilities.”

—Dr. HOLT, in his report.

Of 100 boys who attend the primary department 3.07 per cent. enter the intermediate school, 1.09 per cent. the higher burgher or real school, 0.28 per cent. the progymnasium, and 3.58 the gymnasium; or in other words 5 per cent. of all the boys receive a higher education, and one per cent will reach the university or polytechnic school; consequently every one hundredth man has a University education, every twentieth man has been at the gymnasium, and every ninth man has received a higher education of some kind.

The educational condition of Prussian conscripts, 1866-1867 :
The number of conscripts for the army was 99,716. Of this number there were not able to read or write :

Total number of recruits who could not read and write, 3,800, or 3.81 per cent.

But it must be borne in mind that the provinces of Posen and Prussia, furnishing the greatest part of illiterate, were originally Polish, and hardly one-half of the inhabitants now are Germans. As a Prussian regiment is 3,000 strong, we find at an average in each regiment (exclusive of officers who receive their education at the military academies) 270 men who have received a higher than elementary education, 150 of whom have attended the gymnasium and 30 have a university education.

The other German states have equally as good schools, primary as well as higher, as Prussia.

SAXONY, with a population of a little over two millions, has 1,974 primary schools, equal to any in the world, with a corps of 4,589 teachers, and 331,854 pupils. The schools of secondary, special and superior grade embrace a university and polytechnic institution and one each of scientific research, mines, forest, the arts and trade, surgery, military, artillery, cadets and normal for training teachers of gymnastics. It has nine superior normal schools, five of architecture, five of commerce, seven real schools, twenty-five gymnasiums, four weaving, twenty-five lace making; then there is the great university of Leipzig and the world renowned gallery of paintings at Dresden.

BADEN, with a population of less than one and one-half million, has 2,157 primary schools, the character of which may be judged from the prescribed course of instruction. The studies pursued are: religion, German arithmetic, geometry, natural history, history, geography, natural philosophy, writing, drawing, singing, gymnastics and needle-work.

Baden has also a great number of secondary schools (lyceums, gymnasiums, bürger schools) one of the best polytechnic schools at Carlsruhe, and two universities at Freiburg and Heidelberg, with over 150 professors.

Foremost among the German states to adopt a liberal and thorough policy of public instruction stands Wurtemberg, with over 2,300 primary schools. The normal schools of this kingdom are of a superior quality; it has also one university, six gymnasiums, four lyceums, seventy-eight grammar schools, thirty-two real schools and of the best agricultural institutions in the world.

BAVARIA with a population of a little over four and a half millions, has 7,126 elementary schools, with 8,205 teachers. Of higher schools there are twenty-nine gymnasiums with 500 teachers and 8,000 pupils, thirty-seven real schools, one polytechnic school and three universities. Munich, the capital, stands in relation to art alma mater to the other German states.

The German confederacy, with thirty-eight million population, has in round numbers 50,000 primary schools with 70,000 teachers and 6,000,000 pupils.

The expenditures for educational purposes amount to twenty million of dollars.

The schools in SWITZERLAND are similar to those in Germany, and equally as good. The provisions for securing good teachers are admirable. School attendance is, as in all the German states, obligatory in most of the cantons; in some of the cantons school age is from 7 to 14, in others from 6 to 16 years. Foremost among the cantons are Bern and Zurich; in the last named cant., with scarcely more than 250,000 inhabitants, besides having the honor of possessing the great university, and the excellent polytechnic school for the confederacy, and the usual array of normal and high schools, we find no less than 514 primary schools, about 75 classical and 320 schools of labor, giving instruction to nearly 10,000 of such as, while they must learn to work, may still learn to think.

In the canton of Bern, with a population of less than 500,000, we find one university, two cantonal schools, one real school, six normal schools, five progymnasiums, thirty high schools, 144 private institutions, 1,393 primary schools.

ENGLAND.—From the reports of 1866, the number of schools inspected was 13,586, with an average attendance of 1,082,055. 1854 there were but 3,825 schools, with 461,445 children.) The entire expense of these schools, including, besides government aid, income from endowments, schoolpence, voluntary contributions and other sources, amounted to about $6,000,000. The census of 1861 shows 4,549,292 children of the ages from 5 to 15, of which 2,616,778 received some kind of instruction; 638,274 "are employed otherwise;" and 1,194,247 remain at home without instruction.

The census of Scotland shows 467,056 pupils receiving instruction. The number of schools reported in Ireland was 6,453, with an average attendance of 321,901. Of secondary schools, England and Wales had, in 1864, 782 endowed grammar schools, with an income of over $1,000,000, and attended by 86,874 boys; the proprietary schools of this grade had an average of 12,000 on their lists of pupils, making a total of 52,000 boys receiving what passes for a secondary education, but which the commission pronounces in many cases not to exceed in value that of primary education.

Of secondary schools of a higher standard, England has nine, educating about 8,000 pupils. The two Universities at Oxford and Cambridge are institutions for superior education; they are richly endowed, and with a board of instruction of 250 professors and tutors, are educating an average of 1,000 students.

Scotland has four Universities, (similar to our American Colleges), with an instructional force of less than 100, and instructing 4,500 young men.

Ireland has the University of Dublin, with an income of $240,000, and three colleges.

In 1841 there were in England 41.8 per cent. of newly married people who could not sign their marriage contracts; in 1859 there were 32.2 per cent. of that class. Of male persons who could sign their marriage contracts, there were in London 89 per cent.; in the counties of Monmouth and Hereford 55 per cent.; and females in London 80 per cent., in Lancashire 45, in North Wales 44, and in South Wales 40 per cent.

England has in the last few years improved her school system considerably, but still there are only 9 per cent. of the population in school.

Canadian Provinces.—Lower Canada reported in 1864 7,794 elementary schools, with a gross enrollment of 557,547 pupils; for Upper Canada, about one in four for the whole population, though the average for the year shows but 38 per cent. of the enrollment. The total expenditures of these schools for the year was $1,874,712, out of which sum $274,327 came of public appropriation.

During the same year 5,352 pupils were reported in attendance.

upon grammar schools, at an expense of $85,910, of which sum $44,274 was from legislative aid, and which averages about $900 to a school.

In both provinces are institutions aiming at higher instruction than can be furnished at the schools mentioned. Principal among these is the College of Upper Canada, at Toronto.

FRANCE—with a population of over 37,000,000, and 6,000,000 of children between the ages of 6 and 14,; has 67,235 common schools, attended by 4,731,946 children: 37,893 secular schools for boys, with 2,145,420 pupils; 8,251 denominational schools for boys, with 482,008 pupils; 12,491 secular schools for girls, with 604,247 pupils; 13,101 denominational schools for girls, with 1,059,966 pupils. Of the female denominational teachers, (sisters) there are 12,355 who had not passed any examination. The character of a great many of the teachers seems to be very inferior, in intellectual as well as moral development. In thirty months, (from January, 1861, to July, 1863,) of the 3,351 clerical male teachers, 23 were found guilty of crime, and 22 of misdemeanor, while the 37,893 secular teachers furnished 99 convicts—19 for crime, and 80 for misdemeanor; or in other words, the clerical teachers, proportionately, furnished five times as many convicts as the secular teachers.

There are over 1,000 communes without any school, and over 10,000 have only temporary schools; and over 19,000 communes have no school-house of their own.

The children between the ages of 7 and 11 number 4,018,427, of whom 3,143,540 attend school, leaving over 800,000 out of school; the whole number attending school amounts to about eleven per cent. of the whole population.

To defray the expenditures for the common school, the State contributes six millions of francs, the departments five millions, the communes eleven and a half millions and the families nine millions; total sum, including the expenditures for normal schools, thirty two millions of francs (a little over six millions of dollars), or not quite as much as the court expenses of the empire used to be.

Of the 288,936 registered marriages of 1860, there were 86,142 male and 124,744 female persons who could not sign their marriage contract, or nearly one-half of the women and one-third of the men. But this illiteracy is not equally divided in the different departments. In Alsace and Lorraine, the originally German provinces, we find but from three to five per cent. illiterates, while in the departments of Corse, Finistere and Haut Vienne they run as high as seventy and seventy-five per cent.

Of the 322,204 conscripts of 1860, 90,781—29 per cent., could neither read nor write; 9,038—2 per cent., could read and write imperfectly; 203,192—65 per cent., could read and write; 9,198—2 per cent., had a higher education.

But it must be borne in mind that only one third of the conscripts is required for the army, and that the wealthier and better educated class use to buy substitutes or pay a certain sum of money, hence it is safe to assert that more than one half of the French army consisted of illiterates. The statistics of the criminal courts show, that for the last twenty years out of every 1,000 criminals there were from 810 to 843, more or less illiterates.

France is well provided with institutions for secondary and superior education. It has 16 universities with 14,465 students, 81 lycées, similar to our colleges, with 33,680 pupils and a considerable number of communal colleges and latin schools attended by 38,038 pupils.

The amount voted from the general fund of the empire for public instruction of all grades was in 1867, $4,250,000, of which nearly one half was for primary and secondary schools, the remainder being devoted to superior education.

AUSTRIA, with a population of over thirty millions, and five millions of children between the ages of six and fourteen, has 29,445 primary schools, attended by 2,700,000 pupils, or about eight per cent. of the whole population.

In the German provinces of the empire, where the people come more directly under the influence of the liberal culture of other people, the statistics show, in a population of twelve millions, a superior grade of higher schools, and 11,158 primary schools, with 17,853 teachers and an attendance of 1,645,816 children, or 13 1-2 per cent. of the population. The recruits from the German provinces show the smallest percentage of illiterate; the greater number of this class came from Hungarian and Slavonic provinces. Of the conscripts of 1868, could write: from Austria proper, ninety per cent.; from Bohemia, fifty, and from Dalmatia, five per cent. Austria has eight universities, with 6,702 students, at an expense of 1,122,823 florins; eight higher technical schools, with 1,823 students; 125 theological schools, with 3,905 students; five law schools, with 625 students; 22 forest and agricultural schools; 227 gymnasiums, with 51,859 pupils, and 48 real schools, with 11,387 pupils.

SPAIN, with a population of nearly seventeen millions had in 1860, the following schools:

Primary schools for boys, 6,217 complete and 5,241 incomplete; 187 temporary, 242 higher schools. Schools for girls, 4,471 complete, 848 incomplete; 72 temporary, and 14 high schools; 4,155 private schools, together 24,858, attended by 1,101,529 pupils of which 100,000 were below the age of six, or about six per cent. of the whole population. The expenses for the common schools were 61,589,465 reals or $10,000,000. The secondary schools were attended by 21,478 pupils, and the eight universities by 8,611 students.

Of the inhabitants according to the census of 1860 :

	Male.	Female	Together.
Could read and write.....	2,413,944	716,071	3,130,015
read but not write.....	8,165,63	389,025	705,660
neither read nor write.....	5,034,608	6,882,807	11,837,415

If we deduct one-third of the illiterate for the children under fourteen years of age, there remains eight million adult illiterates or about one-half of the population over fourteen years of age. Every tenth adult female can read and write and every sixth can read.

ITALY, with a population of over twenty-five million, and four million of children between the ages of 6 and 14, had in 1864 81,675 schools for primary instruction, with 1,681,296 pupils, or a little over 6 per cent. of the population, instructed by 49,246 teachers. Two-thirds of the schools are public; one third private. The average expense of each public school is 575 francs. Of the total amount of money expended for primary education the government contributed 0,066, the provinces 0,022, the communes 0,761, the remaining 0,161 are derived from rents and different revenues.

The number of secondary and technical schools in 1864 was 1,029, with 53,432 pupils, of which institutions a large proportion is under ecclesiastical control. The government contributed to the support of these schools 4,234,286 francs. The expense of educating one pupil in these secondary schools (lyceums, gymnasiums and technical schools) is about $36. There are twenty universities, fifteen under the direction of the government and five independent, with about 6,000 students.

The amount of the budget of the minister of public instruction for 1866 was $2,865,786, of which $617,044 was for secondary, $206,788 for primary education, and $2,041,954 for the higher schools and universities.

The census of 1860 shows that out of 1,000 inhabitants there could neither read nor write :

	Male.	Female.
In the Northern province	461	674
Middle Italy.....	641	750
Naples and Sicily	835	935

This indicates that more than half of the adult population is illiterate.

GREECE, with a population of 1,100,000, and 180,000 children of school age, has 450 public and private schools, attended by 52,000 pupils, instructed by 875 male and female teachers. Greece has also 79 Hellenic schools, with 5,384 pupils and 150 teachers; seven gymnasiums with 50 professors and 1,500 pupils, and one university at Athens with 600 students.

BELGIUM, with a population of 4,781,957, and 750,000 children of school age, had in 1860, 6,498 common schools, of which 2,809 were communal schools, founded, supported and administered by the communes, the rest were private and free private schools, usually those of denominational orders. The communal schools employ 8,700 male and female teachers, at an expense of four and a half million of dollars. The average salary of a teacher in cities, is $240, in the country $180. 880,000 children receive instruction in the communal schools, and over 150,000 in the denominational schools. Belgium has also superior elementary or high schools, secondary or preparatory to the University, and known as Atheneums, but fully one half those higher schools are under the influence and control of the Catholic clergy. About 35 to 40 per cent. of the adult population are illiterate.

HOLLAND, with a population of 3,309,128 and over 50,000 children between the ages of six and fourteen years, has nearly 2,500 public primary schools, with 5,000 teachers and assistants, instructing 320,000 pupils. There are 1,000 private schools with 2,000 male and 1,000 female teachers, giving instruction to 80,000 pupils; altogether 400,000 pupils, or about 12 per cent. of the whole population. Secondary education is furnished in sixty-four grammar schools and gymnasiums, attended by 1,818 pupils. The three universities are attended by 1,895 students. Adult illiterate population from 15 to 20 per cent. Of the 9,980 conscripts of 1861, could read and write, 7,722—78 per cent.; only read, 256—2 1-2 per cent; neither read nor write, 1,828—19 per cent.

SWEDEN.—Of the children between the ages of 8 and 15 years, 71 per cent. attend school. At the regular schools there are 2,065 teachers employed; besides there are 880 traveling teachers engaged, who instruct at 1,600 itinerant schools, held for a few weeks, or a few days in the week, and furnishing some instruction to about 150,000 pupils. The higher public schools are attended by 6,000, and the private schools by 20,000 pupils; 150,000 are educated at home, making a total of nearly 500,000 children.

Secondary education is given in grammar schools, gymnasiums and apologist schools; there are also 8 normal and a good number of technical schools, two universities with 77 professors and 1,800 students.

NORWAY is so sparsely peopled for the area occupied, that the maintenance of permanent schools is not practicable. There are about 200 traveling schoolmasters, carrying the bread of knowledge to about 150,000 children. Of permanent district schools there are some 200, educating about 20,000 children. In towns and cities are higher schools and colleges for preparation for the university at Christiania, with thirty professors and 1,000 students.

RUSSIA—With a population of 74 million, has 8,227 schools, attended by 450,000 pupils, or one for every 143 inhabitants, Russia proper, had in 1858, 5,432 schools, with 133,618 pupils, of whom 4,982 were university students; 3 lyceums with 800 pupils and 90 gymnasiums with 23,800 pupils. Besides those there are in the province of Warsaw 1,451 schools with 76,050 pupils; Russia has also 70 theological seminaries, law schools, schools of medicine, agricultural, mining and naval schools. The government appropriates 6 millions of rubels (four and a half million dollars) for educational purposes. It is also reported, that since the peasantry got emancipated a good deal has been done for the common schools.

TURKEY—There are 12,478 Turkish schools, with 12,740 teachers and 367,930 pupils; 2,562 Christian schools, with 3,122 teachers and 138,387 pupils.

BRAZIL—With a population of 12,000,000, has 107,000 pupils receiving instruction, or one pupil to every 120 inhabitants, but it is said that a large number of private schools are not included in the above statement.

The number of pupils in the secondary schools is estimated at 7,500.
